PREDICT SPAIN TO ENTER WAR

NAZIS MASS MEN AND PLANES TO INVADE ENGLAND

Italian Bombers to Join in Attack.

BERNE, Switzerland, July 31, Wednesday (AP).—Italian fighting planes and German-trained Italian troops were reported today to be massed alongside Nazi blitzkrieg forces for a part in the invasion of England.

Italian sources in Switzerland said that plane load after plane load of parachute troops, veterans of battles in Ethiopia and Spain, have flown across France to take-off bases from the Bay of Biscay to the Low Countries facing the English channel and North sea.

Reports have been current in foreign diplomatic circles that Premier Benito Mussolini specifically asked Adolf Hitler to let the Italians share the job of bringing Britain to her knees.

Il Duce was said to have wanted a strong part for his troops in a direct invasion of the shores where Caesar's legions landed almost 2,000 years ago.

Counts on Air Squadrons.

Hitler was said to have agreed—but to have limited Italy's part in invasion to "token" land and parachute forces, plus large air squadrons for bombing and ferrying troops.

Reports from France, Germany, Italy and Spain all indicated that Germany is making her last minute preparations for the blow.

German and Italian travelers from Spain said the Nationalist [Franco] government there appeared to be preparing to try to grab Gibraltar—a move which it long has been reported may coincide with a German attack on England across the channel. These sources said troops in small armed boats carrying artillery were concentrated near La Linea, Spain, behind Gibraltar.

Reports from France said the Italians were concentrating bombing planes at their Sardinian bases for an air attack on Gibraltar—another move expected in a coördinated German attempt to invade Britain.

Deliver "Pocket" U-Boats.

Italian informants reported that the last of the Italian made "pocket" submarines—about 36 feet long—had passed thru the Brenner pass in sections on railway flat cars. These little submarines are expected to be one of the main protecting arms of the expected German channel attempt.

All rail and road frontier posts on the Swiss-German frontier, except that at Saint Margarethen in Austria, were closed yesterday by the Germans, apparently to insure secrecy of troop movements thru southern Germany in preparations for the offensive on England.

Even persons traveling on diplomatic passports now are required to pass only thru Saint Margarethen. Trains from Germany arriving at Basel station last night carried only baggage and freight. No passengers were aboard.

The Long Way Around.

Swiss sources pointed out that forcing all travelers into Germany to take "the long way around" thru Austria would prevent outsiders from seeing the westward rush of men and war materials.

Despite German denials the French government said flatly in a communique that rail traffic between occupied and unoccupied parts of France had been halted by German order.

The same order freed for military use the rolling stock required for mass movement of soldiers, guns, and supplies to jump-off points along the occupied French coast.

From Alsace in occupied France along the old German frontier came reports that German occupational troops hitherto on guard in the captured Maginot line have moved out on marching orders to the west.

Make Many New Airfields.

Diplomats and others who have passed thru the German occupied section of France, Belgium, and the Netherlands reported that the Nazis have converted every available sports field and golf course, even the fairways of the famous Le Touquet links, into emergency fields for airplanes.

Britain's steady pounding of the regular airdromes was said to have made many of them useless.

Observers have told of seeing barges and shipping concentration for the pushoff toward England ready for several weeks in Nazi held har-

MAY FIGHT AS BRITISH IMPOSE NEW BLOCKADE

London Acts to Plug Leaks to Enemies.

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—A vast extension of the British blockade designed to close every possible avenue to Germany and Italy and especially to ring Spain and Portugal lest war supplies be transshiped there was announced in the house of commons today.

At the same time a high neutral diplomatic source predicted that Spain would declare war on Great Britain "within a week or so" if the British attempted to clamp a strict blockade on Spain.

Italy, this source noted, moved swiftly toward war after Britain tightened the blockade against her.

Such an eventuality, this source asserted, would tie in with Japanese pressure in the far east and intensified German air attacks on British ports, apparently all part of a "grand squeeze" to try to force Britain into peace negotiations.

Applies to All Ships.

Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare, disclosed the inauguration of a new and sweeping policy under which:

1. Every ship in the Atlantic ocean will be subject to seizure by the British navy unless its master can produce a navicert—British approved certificate of clearance—for its entire cargo.

2. Spanish and Portuguese imports will be limited strictly to their own needs, supplies to be permitted to reach such neutrals in "imports adequate for domestic consumption, but not for reëxport."

Following Dalton's speech, Prime Minister Churchill moved that today's foreign affairs debate be held in secret. He was upheld by a vote of 200 to 109 and the galleries quickly were cleared for commons' sixth secret session of the war.

Expect to Halt Traders.

It was explained authoritatively that with the broadening of the navicert requirement, Britain hoped to "intimidate" a large number of ships which have been plying the Atlantic with cargoes certified only in part by British officials at their points of origin.

It was said in one reliable quarter that the United States was fully apprised of this move before it was ordered.

Despite all this unprecedented broadening of the blockade, Dalton declared that Britain had signified a willingness to coöperate with the United States toward finding an outlet for American surplus commodities.

He indicated, too, that the British government felt some concern as to the effects of the widened blockade upon neutrals.

Promises Surprises.

After announcing that Britain shortly would produce some "ingenious" blockade provisions which would encourage her friends and discomfit her enemies, he said the government was sending an agent to Madrid to discuss Spain's oil needs.

He said that American oil shipments to Spain during the first six months of 1940 were substantially greater than in the first half of 1939. Before the collapse of France, he said, oil from Spain could reach Germany only thru the Mediterranean, where French naval patrols could be relied on to stop it. No navicerts are being issued for further oil imports to Spain, he disclosed.

An authoritative British source insisted that extension of sea regulations would not constitute a blockade of Spain and that he believed it would "be understood" by the Spaniards.

Situation Greatly Changed.

Germany's seizure of "the western European coastline has greatly changed the conditions of economic warfare" and Britain, therefore, "must now control not only shipping approaching the Mediterranean or the North sea but all shipping crossing the Atlantic ocean," Dalton told the house.

The economic minister outlined the most far reaching blockade ever attempted—covering all of Europe, the entire Atlantic ocean, "certain Atlantic islands and certain neutral ports in North Africa" [in Algeria, Tunisia, and Morocco].

Shipping Minister Ronald Cross announced new control measures which will make bunker, drydock, and other facilities available "only to shipowners who render commensurate service."

THE WATER HOLE THAT WILL PROBABLY RUIN HIS GAME

Judge Gets Tip on Psychology, Bio and My, O!

The friendship of Mrs. Charlotte C. Joslyn and an unidentified biopsychologist was discussed yesterday in the Superior court of Judge John C. Lewe.

Attorney Alvin Hubbard, representing her husband, George R. Joslyn, a wealthy manufacturer of electrical supplies, sought to establish proof of Joslyn's contention that Mrs. Joslyn has been guilty of misconduct and that her suit for divorce therefore should be dismissed. Her divorce suit, filed last August, charges desertion.

Mrs. Joslyn, who lives at 5724 Dorchester avenue, previously had testified she studied psychology in an effort to adjust herself to her family and her husband. Yesterday she said she also had studied with a biopsychologist—one whose field is both biology and psychology.

Love? She Denies It.

"Are you in love with the psychologist?" asked Attorney Hubbard.

"No," said Mrs. Joslyn.

"Were your relations merely those of student and teacher?"

"Yes. And I am continuing my studies in a Chattanooga, Tenn., university."

"Would you be amazed if I told you that this university never existed except in your imagination?" Hubbard asked.

"You are a liar," Mrs. Joslyn said evenly.

In response to further question she said the biopsychologist had breakfasted with her in her former home at 616 Center avenue, Lake Bluff, but not every morning, that he never kissed her in the kitchen, and that he certainly had not fled out the back door and leaped over a fence on one occasion when her husband came unexpectedly to the Dorchester address.

Denies Hiding Caller.

She said she had entertained other gentlemen callers in Lake Bluff, but never in the bedroom, and she denied that the biopsychologist ever had sought concealment in the basement or upstairs when her husband called at Dorchester avenue.

Hubbard then obtained permission to introduce into evidence a deposition taken last June in Louisville, Ky., from Olga Tafel, who was a schoolmate of Mrs. Joslyn at the University of Wisconsin in 1921.

In the deposition Olga described a visit she made to Mrs. Joslyn in Santa Fe, N. M., in 1938.

On one occasion, the deposition stated, she and Mrs. Joslyn hired a guide about 55 or 60 years old to take them on a tour of Indian ruins. On the way back, Olga said, Mrs. Joslyn asked the guide questions about his sex life. Olga was unable to remember the answers.

Kissing in Car Told.

Back in Santa Fe, Olga said, they called for a certain Mr. M., who took them to dinner. After dinner, the deposition said, she and Mr. M. went to a store and returned to the guide's car to find Mrs. Joslyn and the guide kissing. The deposition said the the guide then was dismissed and Mrs. Joslyn, Olga, and Mr. M. went to Mrs. Joslyn's home.

About 10:30 p. m., according to the deposition, Mr. M. said good night. Shortly afterward, Olga said, she went to Mrs. Joslyn's bedroom and was much surprised to find Mr. M. there.

Judge Lewe said he would study the deposition and hear further testimony today.

BRITAIN MAY FORBID HOME COOKING, FEED RICH AND POOR ALIKE

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—Home cooking soon may be forbidden in Britain and be replaced by communal feeding, rich and poor sharing simple fare in government controled mass production dining halls.

Whitehall circles disclosed that the groundwork is being laid for possible introduction of such a project, which would be designed to aid the war effort by economizing on foods.

It is believed home kitchens might be replaced by low cost "assembly line" cooking or the government might underwrite restaurants.

Reveal Orders to Burn Castoff WPA Supplies

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30 [Special].—Orders to "hurry up and burn" the large quantities of slightly used WPA clothing and material found to have been discarded on a west side dump were received today by E. P. Shoemaker, owner of the salvage yard.

Shoemaker said three men, each of whom presented WPA credentials, appeared at his office and instructed him to "pile that junk on the fire and burn it."

This new and somewhat mysterious development in the startling disclosure of wholesale waste of WPA material followed an order from Acting WPA Administrator Howard O. Hunter in Washington, D. C., for a thoro investigation of the matter. He instructed Regional WPA Engineer Jerome L. Miedldazis of San Francisco to start an inquiry.

Callers Eager to Help.

"The men who came to my office," Shoemaker related, "appeared so eager to have the slashed rubber boots and raincoats destroyed at once that they helped me carry it to a section of the yard where materials usually are burned. One said they wanted to get it out of the way as soon as possible."

The material was not burned, however, despite the instructions of the three men. Shoemaker said he "hadn't gotten around to it yet." Efforts to identify the salvage man's callers were not entirely successful.

T. T. Aungst, assistant state property custodian stationed at the property warehouse of the relief agency, admitted one of his field men, T. J. Burns, "just happened to be in the neighborhood of the dump" and had dropped in to call on Shoemaker.

Another Version Given.

But Aungst said he was "quite sure that Burns didn't make any such statement" regarding the burning as Shoemaker attributed to his three visitors. Aungst said Burns reported to him it was Shoemaker who mentioned burning the materials.

The premature rejection of WPA material was exposed a week ago by newspaper investigators. Among the objects found to have been taken to the dump by the truckload were hundreds of slashed rubber boots and raincoats, chopped sections of nearly new rubber hose, and many heavy garbage cans and buckets which had been punctured with picks.

WPA officials contended it was easier to buy new material than to make repairs. Altho they insisted none of the material left at the dump was salvageable, Shoemaker said he had sold some of it.

PLAN FOR SAFETY AND COMFORT OF ELWOOD VISITORS

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elwood, Ind., July 30.—The safety health, and convenience of what is estimated will be 100,000 persons will be discussed at a conference tomorrow afternoon at this small town birthplace of Wendell Willkie. Tentative plans have been outlined for the one day assembly, some of them rather spectacular in character.

The one day, of course, is Aug. 17, when the Republican nominee is to receive official notification that he is a candidate for President of the United States.

M. Clifford Townsend, Democratic governor of Indiana, and members of his cabinet are coming here from Indianapolis, 42 miles, to participate in the conference with the local arrangements committee. Full coöperation has been promised.

With the governor will be Don Stiver, director of public safety, who has assigned 140 state police to assist in handling the crowd. Others will be T. A. Dicus, chairman of the state highway commission, and Verne Harvey, secretary of the state health department, which will approve drinking water and rest room arrangements for the throng.

Residents to Park Their Cars.

Most spectacular of the plans is the one to close state highways Nos. 28 and 13 and all streets of this town of 11,000 population, devoting them to the exclusive use of celebrators of the day, which is Saturday.

Chief of Police Michael J. Fogerty said that the 2,000 automobiles owned by residents of Elwood will be kept off the streets that day.

Visitors' automobiles, probably 30,000 to 40,000 of them, will not penetrate the town. They will skirt the community on one-way roads and streets under an arrangement approved today by Chief Fogerty in a conference with Gordon Sheehe, Chicago Motor club traffic engineer, and three state police officers, Lieut. Walter Mentzer, Lieut. Harry Sutherlin, and Sergt. Frank Morrow. These routes on the border of the community will lead to a parking area—leased farm fields abutting a city park where Willkie is to deliver his acceptance speech at 3 p. m.

The two state highways traversing Elwood—route 13 north and south and route 28 east and west—will be closed at the corporate limits to all vehicles without special permits. Detours remote from the town will be provided for routine traffic using these routes so this travel can bypass the celebration.

Route Changes Told.

On Indiana 28 from the west, which will be the recommended approach from Chicago, from all of Illinois and from Wisconsin, traffic will be turned north at the Elwood western limits, thence east on the north boundary to the celebration parking area.

On Indiana 13 from the north, which will be the recommended approach from Grand Rapids, Mich., and thereabouts, traffic will be turned east to the parking area at the town limits.

On Indiana 28 from the east, which will be the recommended approach from Detroit, Cleveland, Columbus, and Cincinnati, O., traffic will be turned north at the Elwood limits to to the parking area.

On Indiana 13 from the south, which will be the recommended route from Indianapolis, traffic will be turned east at the Elwood limits and thence north on the town's eastern edge to the park area.

Contracts have been awarded to oil four miles of gravel on these routes.

Urged to Come Early.

Visitors arriving by special trains, as well as by automobile, are to be encouraged to reach the city park early on notification day and remain in this shaded park of 40 acres, exclusive of parking areas, until the 3 o'clock speech.

There will be 30,000 chairs in the park. Others will sit on the grass under large elm, beech, and maple trees. Bands will play thruout the day. In addition there will be a program by radio, movie, and stage stars to entertain the waiting crowd.

The seats and the most convenient parking spots will go to the early arrivals.

To furnish drinking water for 100,000 or more persons, the town's water mains are being extended to the park. In addition, a fleet of thermos tank trucks will be borrowed from milk transporters and will be equipped with water fountains.

Food and soft drinks will be sold over counters at 113 concessions awarded by the arrangements committee, headed by Homer E. Capehart of Washington, Ind.

WILLKIE LASHES ROOSEVELT JIBE AT HIS BACKERS

Replies to 'Greed' Label on Bolters.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 30 [Special].—President Roosevelt's recent comment that deserting Democrats and New Dealers such as Lewis Douglas and John Hanes, are actuated by love of dollars, rather than love of humanity, received a sharp reply today from Wendell L. Willkie.

Samuel Seabury.

With messages at hand telling him that Al Smith, former governor of New York, and Samuel Seabury, former associate justice of the Court of Appeals of New York and crusader against the Tammany machine, had come to his support, the Republican nominee for President made the following statement:

"I hope nobody suggests that the warm hearted Alfred E. Smith, most distinguished liberal governor that New York ever had, is one of those persons who is actuated by love of money rather than love of humanity.

Reviews Smith's Philanthropies.

"I am greatly pleased that one of Gov. Smith's public standing and reputation should support me. I think it is little known, outside of New York, but in the last several years, he has devoted more time than any other prominent citizen that I know of in New York to charitable and philanthropic works.

"I hope it is not said of Gov. Smith that he loves dollars rather than humanity. He started from the sidewalks of New York. He was a great liberal governor of New York. As a matter of fact, his liberal principles were those adopted by his two successors, Franklin Roosevelt and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman. I think of Gov. Smith as the first citizen of New York. I think that is the accord most people living in New York give him.

"I am greatly gratified also that a man of the great public standing of Samuel Seabury—and the things for which he stands in the way of clean government in opposition to machine rule—should endorse me. It is a significant thing."

Seabury's Message.

Seabury, whose investigations in 1932 and 1933 resulted in the reform of the New York political machine and the resignation of former Mayor James J. Walker, sent the following message to Willkie:

"I rejoice at the manner in which your nomination was made. You were not the choice of machine politicians or a controled convention but of the plain people of this country who felt that the nation needed your services at this time.

"Your declarations against the effort of despotisms to crush democracy on the continent of Europe and in Great Britain I believe express the views of the American people.

"Your nomination justifies the hope that under your Presidency order and equality of opportunity may supplant the present burocratic chaos which has paralyzed and demoralized industry.

Reviews New Deal Failures.

"New Deal regimentation for individual and group initiative has revealed a succession of failures which have lowered the standard of living, increased the power of the federal government, impelling it along the way which leads to totalitarianism, and left us with an unbalanced budget without substantially reducing the number of unemployed.

"The cherished tradition against a third term is now sought to be consigned to the scrap heap. It is attempted to be ignored, altho advocated by Washington and Jefferson, and in 1875, in the midst of the reconstruction crisis, well expressed in a formal resolution of the house of representatives 'That, in the opinion of this house, the precedent established by Washington and other Presidents of the United States, in retiring from the Presidential office after their second term, has become by universal concurrence a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions.'"

Meets Leaders Saturday.

Willkie announced that on next Saturday he will hold a campaign organization conference here with Joseph W. Martin Jr., chairman of the Republican national committee; John D. M. Hamilton, executive director of the committee; Sam Pryor, eastern manager; Henry P. Fletcher, general counsel, and probably Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, chairman of the advisory committee.

This conference will begin the work of planning an itinerary for the nominee, and will make budget plans. Willkie already has received many campaign contributions. The conference will be entirely on Republican organization plans and details of the campaign.

Speech in Rough Form.

With the rough draft of his acceptance speech finished, the candidate is turning his mind to organization and campaign matters. He has made no final plans for his movements after the acceptance speech on Aug. 17, but today reiterated that he may attend the Chicagoland Music Festival at Soldiers' field in Chicago that evening.

His only definite campaign date is for Sept. 20 in Detroit, where he will address the General Federation of Women's clubs. He will leave next Sunday for Des Moines, where he will meet governors and agricultural leaders on Monday, returning here Tuesday. Tomorrow Willkie will receive a delegation from Kansas headed by Gov. Payne Ratner.

Strength Grows in South.

Willkie reported progress today in his plans to invade the Democratic south. He was informed that Joseph W. Bailey Jr., former congressman and son of the late Senator Joseph Bailey, has accepted appointment as general chairman of the Willkie Democratic movement in Texas. Pat Casey, coördinator of the Democratic, independent, and nonpartisan Willkie clubs of Texas, reported that thousands had pledged allegiance and that enthusiasm for the Willkie candidacy is increasing daily in that state.

How Autos Will Be Routed to Elwood for Willkie Day

Traffic authorities expect to close all streets in Elwood, Ind., to automobiles on Aug. 17, the day Wendell L. Willkie appears in his home town to accept the Republican nomination for the Presidency. Incoming visitors will skirt the town on the roads indicated, and will be routed to the parking lot in the northeast corner of the town adjacent to the stand from which Willkie will speak.

GANG CONFESSES TERRORIZING 15 IN $1,158 HOLDUP

Six gunmen—four of them ex-convicts—arrested Monday at Oak and Dearborn streets, confessed at the detective bureau early today that they were the bandits who terrorized 15 Good Humor ice cream salesmen on July 8 and took $1,158. The gang raided the company station at 1451 Irving Park road as the salesmen were checking in.

The men also confessed, according to Lieut. Kyran Phelan, that at the time of their arrest they were waiting to rob a jewelry salesman. Five pistols were taken from them. One of the prisoners, Richard Smith, 43 years old, 2849 North Racine avenue, said he was one of the gang that held up a Polish building and loan association meeting in a hall at 1062 North Ashland avenue on April 2 and took $400. He would not name his companions.

In addition to Smith those under arrest are Moe Factor, 52, of 4526 Sheridan road; Arthur McKwani, 36, of 5728 Morgan street; Clarence Hawkins, 41, of 11 West Division street—all ex-convicts—Montgomery Hall, 34, of 2924 North Linder avenue, and Thomas Nash, 29, of 1118 North State street. Factor once served 10 years in San Quentin, Cal., prison for robbery.

BIOFF ABANDONS LEGAL FIGHT TO GET OUT OF JAIL

There will be no further efforts to free Willie Bioff from the county jail, according to Attorney Walker Butler. Attorney Butler made this statement yesterday after Federal Judge William H. Holly had denied a writ of habeas corpus sought on behalf of the Hollywood union czar.

It was Bioff's third attempt to evade completion of a six months' pandering term imposed 18 years ago, but executed only last April. Bioff was convicted in the Municipal court in February, 1922, and committed to the Bridewell. He was released shortly thereafter pending an appeal to the Appellate court.

The sentence was affirmed in October of the same year and a mandate to return Bioff to jail was issued March 2, 1923. This, however, was never served, Bioff's appeal bond was released, and he went his way.

Joe Saltis? He's Another Face in a Police Showup

Spectators at the detective bureau showup sat unmoved last night as the name of Joe Saltis was called. Only when a photographer's flashlight flared did any one appear curious. Saltis, a beer baron of the prohibition era, had been brought from his home near 98th street and Bell avenue because he had pushed a bartender's face.

"Can't a guy push another one's face in no more?" he demanded, before starting back to the far south side.

WILLKIE CRUSADE REINS PLACED IN PEOPLE'S HANDS

Decentralize National Control of G. O. P.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republican state and county committees this year are to carry more of the campaign load than in former years. And down at the grassroots of party machinery the precinct committeemen are to get greater recognition in order to make the campaign conform to a people's crusade for Wendell L. Willkie.

This was announced yesterday at Chicago headquarters of the Republican national committee, following a conference with a group of Illinois party chiefs. The aim, it was said, is to decentralize the activities of the national committee as far as possible, and to give full swing to local organizations which have built up strength in the last few years.

Plan Appeal to Naturalized.

Activities among naturalized citizens were discussed at length. Present were Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois national committeeman; Ben L. Berve, state chairman; John T. Dempsey, Cook county chairman; Arthur Curtis, assistant to John Hamilton, executive director of the national committee, and M. W. Cuthill, director of the naturalized citizens division.

The framework of the national committee, as it is being set up, follows that of 1936, but this year greater play is to be given the state organizations. Four years ago, in most states, these organizations had been weakened by one full term of the New Deal, and the main task of Hamilton, as national chairman, was to build up the organizations in the states. The Republican swing two years ago strengthened the local party organizations, especially in states swept by the G. O. P., and in the primaries this year, these organizations have been built up to greater efficiency than at any time since 1928.

Decentralization Planned.

"Hence," said Mr. Curtis, "the work of the national committee in this campaign is being decentralized. The state and county committees almost everywhere have greater efficiency than before, and they will carry the load. The national committee will serve as a clearing house and coordinator of work between the different state committees. The people nominated Wendell Willkie at Philadelphia, and the people are making the Willkie campaign."

The campaign is expected to start a short time after the notification ceremonies at Elwood, Ind., Aug. 17.

Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for governor, wired Gov. George A. Wilson of Iowa yesterday his acceptance of Mr. Willkie's invitation to attend a conference on agricultural problems in the governor's office at Des Moines Aug. 5.

Mrs. Willkie Becomes Critic No. 1 of Acceptance Speech

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 30.—Wendell L. Willkie's first audience for his acceptance speech, over which he is toiling, is his wife.

It is a rôle to which she long has been accustomed. Whatever he writes—literary criticism, an article, or a speech—first is tried out on her. He reads it aloud to her. She, in turn, reads it aloud to him.

For the last two nights she has been an attentive listener. She has suggested no changes "in thought," she says, but occasionally has offered changes in style. When she reads it back to him he catches various slight flaws and corrects them.

This, she says, is something he always has done.

Writes from Rich Memory.

He writes, she says, without hesitation, cleaving his way into what he wants to say. "Probably," she says, "because it has been in the back of his mind for several weeks."

He has, she believes, an exceptionally retentive mind. She cites his ability to recite, or rattle off lines from poetry he hasn't read for 30 years.

"You should see our apartment in New York early on a Monday morning," she says, "after Wendell has been reading the night before. It is littered with books. He may be reading history, and it suggests something in literature, or just the other way. When he is thru, he has delved into a dozen books and has them lying all around."

When preparing a speech, she says, he is notably preoccupied.

Speech Half Finished.

So far he has written about half of his acceptance speech. Asked if she liked it, Mrs. Willkie gave a quick nod.

"What I like about the things he writes," she said, "is that I always feel like he is talking to me. I feel like he is telling me things."

The cameramen who haunt the Willkie footsteps should be happy now. Mrs. Willkie has a new dress. Getting it was quite an ordeal. She has had little time to shop, and so has been having dresses sent to her for approval and has been sending them back, unapproved, by the armload.

Today, however, she received one which a friend selected in Minneapolis. It is a dark blue sheer, patterned in faint, white whorls. The neck is square, the sleeves short, and the skirt pleated. With it is a brief jacket.

"Now, here," she said happily, "is something that looks like me. It's reduced, too—cheap. Isn't that wonderful?"

25,000 WILLKIE EMBLEMS FOR DEMOCRATS SOLD

More than 25,000 "I'm a Willkie Democrat" buttons which have been sold here are a drop in the ocean of Willkie emblems, Charles M. Geraghty, head of a company making the buttons, said yesterday. The Willkie Democrat buttons have a red, white, and blue field similar to the official Willkie and McNary buttons issued by Republican national headquarters.

"Willkie Democrat" buttons.

"Most of the Willkie Democrat buttons have been sold to persons in midwestern states," Geraghty said.

Geraghty's concern has passed the 5,000,000 mark for all kinds of Willkie buttons. Now going into production are buttons simply stating, "No Third Term," he said. Continually amazing to manufacturers is the fact that citizens are buying their own Willkie buttons instead of getting them from G. O. P. headquarters.

Aside from this volume, 10,000,000 "Willkie and McNary" buttons have been ordered by the Republican national committee. About 4,000,000 have been distributed already.

Senator McNary Changes Date for His Notification

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—Senator Charles L. McNary will be notified of his nomination as Republican Vice Presidential candidate on Aug. 27 instead of Aug. 28, he said today. The change was made to avoid conflict with a special function of the Oregon state fair at Salem on Aug. 28.

HEAT FATAL TO CARPENTER.

Boonville, Ind., July 30 (Special).—Fred Kelley, 38 years old, a carpenter, died last night as a result of the heat. He was working on a roof near Castle Garden yesterday when he collapsed. He is survived by three daughters, a son, two sisters, and two brothers.

AL SMITH URGES DEMOCRATS GIVE VOTES TO WILLKIE

Former Pal of Roosevelt Asks New Deal Defeat.

In a formal statement the former governor of New York declared that "in my opinion the recent so-called Democratic convention in Chicago sounded the death knell of the Democratic party."

As a result, he said, he and "millions of other genuine Democrats thruout the United States will continue to protect and defend true Democratic principles and will in no way willingly or silently tolerate any foreign blocs, call them New Dealers or what not.

Calls Willkie a "Sure Bet."

Smith said that the "thing to do is to defeat the Democratic party this year and get rid of the fellows who turned it into the New Deal party."

The one-time brown derby campaigner told reporters it looked to him like "a sure bet for Willkie" this year.

At one time Smith was President Roosevelt's close friend and political godfather. Mr. Roosevelt succeeded him as governor of New York state. Their estrangement started when Smith lost the Presidential nomination to Roosevelt in 1932.

Smith left the convention that year before the successful nominee arrived by plane to make his acceptance speech, but later Smith campaigned for Roosevelt.

Not long after Mr. Roosevelt took office, however, Smith began openly to criticize his administration and in 1936 he deserted the Democratic convention in Philadelphia in protest against the renomination of the President.

Former Chairman Pledges Aid.

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—The Republican national committee today made public a letter from John B. Jameson, a former New Hampshire Democratic chairman, pledging support to Wendell L. Willkie for President.

The letter, addressed to Robert B. Burroughs, New Hampshire Republican committeeman, said Jameson had noted "with growing apprehension the continued encroachment of the government on the rights of the states and individuals, which culminated in that shameful exhibition of political tyranny manifested in the Chicago convention. . . ."

"Citizens of all classes should realize that the New Deal is responsible for the chaotic conditions today, the continued unemployment, the restriction of business and for the enormous taxes that they pay, altho such taxes are largely hidden from the average man—concealed in the food he buys, the clothes he wears, and all other items of his living expenses," the letter said.

SALESMAN KILLS HIMSELF.

Douglas P. Misener, 34 years old, a salesman, shot himself to death last night in his home, 8158 Ellis avenue.

STATE ST. STORE EXECUTIVES HAIL DESIGN CONTEST

Praise Tribune Hunt for Fashions.

Executives of several large State street department stores have expressed their unqualified approval of THE TRIBUNE'S sponsorship of a contest for American designers of women's apparel. The object of the competition is to encourage Americans to take world style leadership now that Paris, the traditional capital of costume design, is occupied by Nazi forces.

Only original designs may be submitted, and all must be in possession of THE TRIBUNE Aug. 15. Twenty-five cash prizes are offered—one of $3,000, one of $2,000, three of $500, and 20 of $50. Models made from the winning entries will be displayed in fashion reviews in the W-G-N studio Oct. 2. Professional and amateur designers are eligible.

Timeliness Is Stressed.

"The announcement of your contest in fashion design comes at a time when American fashion designing is being put to the greatest test in its history," wrote Bruce MacLeish, secretary of Carson Pirie Scott & Co.

"We are now on our own, so to speak, as never before, and whatever can be done to stimulate the capacities of our people to assume leadership in fashion design is truly patriotic and has lasting value.

"It would be all too easy to minimize the importance of fashion design in our American manner of living. In reality it gives the very breath of life to the great industry it serves. We congratulate THE TRIBUNE upon the idea of the contest and the high plane upon which you are planning to conduct it."

Charles C. Bunker, vice president and general merchandise manager of Marshall Field & Co., said that America must look to her own talent for design now that foreign sources are shut off.

Liberal Prizes Cited.

"This is especially true in the field of apparel," he added. "We are pleased to see THE TRIBUNE add the incentive of liberal cash prizes and give the subject such strong promotion. We are urging the designers in our own organization and in the studios and shops of leading American apparel designers to participate in this contest and are hopeful the effort will be productive of outstanding achievements."

Leon Mandel, general manager of Mandel Brothers, said that the fall of France already had emphasized the desirability of having an independent American fashion industry.

"There is no reason why America should not be the style center of the world," Mandel said. "American genius has won universal recognition in practically all other fields. American fashion designers are equally capable.

"THE TRIBUNE is to be congratulated for sponsoring its American Fashions competition, which is a stimulating challenge to American originality and a desirable step toward our greater economic self containment."

AMERICAS READY TO RESIST THREAT TO SAFETY—HULL

Hails "Spirit of Unity" at Havana Parley.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 30.—Declaring that the American governments had cleared the decks for effective action against any attempt by totalitarian powers to invade the western hemisphere, Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the United States delegation sailed for home this evening.

In a 3,000 word summary of the achievements of the conference of foreign ministers, Hull praised the spirit of unity and solidarity which animated the 21 American republics and made the formation of "a constructive program" possible. The parley was called, he said, to meet the possibilities of danger to the peace, security, and welfare of the Americas. Menacing conditions were recognized and machinery was created for common action, he said.

"Decks Cleared for Action."

"Instead of faltering and abandoning the spirit of unity and concerted steps for safety," Hull declared, "they [the Americas] have consecrated to the world their unalterable determination to preserve and strengthen the spirit and system of continental unity and solidarity. They have thus cleared the decks for effective action whenever such action may become necessary."

Hull spoke after a solemn ceremony in Cuba's domed capitol, where the heads of delegations came forward one by one and affixed their signatures to the "Act of Havana." The American secretary of state came last, and as he bent over the document there was a burst of applause from the galleries and delegates.

Hull outlined three great problems and conditions which, he said, made the calling of the conference necessary. The first related to the possible transfer of the sovereignty over certain islands and regions from a non-American state to another. The second involved the threat of subversive activities in American nations directed from outside the continent. The third comprised "extremely grave economic difficulties and dislocations resulting from the war."

Minimizes Objection.

Hull referred to the altercations with the Argentine delegation which threatened for a time to break up the conference. He minimized the Argentine objections as a "difference of view" in relation to the method of operation in dealing with the foreign possessions problems. In certain quarters, he said, there was a feeling that no action would be taken until after an actual transfer of sovereignty or control had taken place. On the other hand, the United States felt that such a transfer might take place overnight and methods should be provided for emergency action, he asserted.

"Happily," said the secretary of state, "such differences of view as at first appeared to exist were reconciled with the result that the meeting of foreign ministers has unanimously agreed upon two documents designed to take care of any situation that may arise."

It was disclosed that in addition to Argentina, seven other republics made eleventh hour reservations. They were Mexico, Chile, Bolivia, Colombia, Venezuela, Peru, and Uruguay.

Argentina's Argument.

Leopold Melo, Argentine delegate, argued against the "conjectural hypothesis" of need of action concerning European colonies in this hemisphere, and contended that setting up machinery to occupy them was like calling in a specialist for a disease not yet suffered. He made the reservation that the convention creating such machinery would require Argentine congressional ratification before participation.

Hull went into details discussing the setup whereby British, Dutch, French, and Danish possessions can be seized in the name of the American republics if a totalitarian power seeks to take them over. He noted that any republic [which of course, means the United States which alone has the military and naval power to do so] may take over the possessions if the emergency justifies. A committee of the 21 republics would meet later to ratify the action or condemn it if it were not deemed necessary.

Hull said he wanted to emphasize, however, that no American nation has the slightest thought of taking advantage of the European situation for purposes of grabbing territory. The thought has been to protect the peace and safety of this continent, he declared.

Wins Divorce

FLORENCE RICE.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30 (AP).—Florence Rice, actress daughter of Grantland Rice, noted sports writer, was granted a divorce today from Actor Robert Wilcox after she testified she lost 14 pounds because of his cruel treatment. The loss in weight occurred within three months after their marriage in Hawaii in March, 1939, Miss Rice testified. Almost immediately after their return to California, Wilcox began absenting himself from home for most of the night and then for several days at a time, she declared. They separated last May. Wilcox did not contest the divorce.

Wage-Hour Officials Finally Agree.

Ten employés of the Martin Auto Parts Co., Inc., 3359 North Ashland avenue, will be permitted to return to that company the sum of $2,686.29 in overtime pay awarded them by the wages and hours division of the federal department of labor.

This decision was made last night by Alex Elson, attorney for the Chicago department of the wages and hours division, after he and Thomas O'Malley, regional director, had pondered the matter for 10 weeks. Col. Philip B. Fleming, wages and hours director at Washington, D. C., also considered the question before the ruling was made.

Asked to Return Money.

The employés felt they had not earned the money and asked to be allowed to give it back. They estimated last night that 680 hours had been used up in hearings and consultations before they won their point.

"It was a long fight, but it looks like we won it," said Charles G. Thomas, 4023 Ellis avenue, a shipping clerk for the Martin company and spokesman for the 10 employés. "We wanted to give the money back because the company had done us favors and we wanted to do them one in return. We know that if we get in trouble the company will take care of us."

The perplexing problem was presented to wages and hours officials after it was reported that the Martin company was violating the wages and hours law. The source of such complaints is kept secret. They may be made by employé, competitor, or casual observer.

93 Originally Involved.

After an investigation the company agreed to pay 93 employés a total of $13,141, and a decree to that effect was entered by Federal Judge William H. Holly. Nineteen employés wanted to return their money, but had been warned about law violations and therefore decided to proceed cautiously.

They consulted Attorney Charles F. Hough, and he called on wages and hours officials for a ruling. Forty-five employés of the company were subpenaed for the hearings. As the hearings dragged on, six of the original 19 employés agreed to accept their checks. Two others are on vacation, and another, classified as a foreman, did not attend the hearings.

A few of the workers tried to return their money while the matter was pending. This offer was met by a notice on the company bulletin board which said the matter would be decided by the hearings and which expressed thanks to the workers for the spirit of their offer.

TELLS AMERICAS' POLICY IF FRANCE BECOMES PUPPET

'Act of Havana' Applies, Declares Welles.

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—The government today took the position that if France should become a fascist dependency of Germany, an emergency would be created which would require the American nations to take over administration of French possessions in this hemisphere.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, outlined this position in response to press conference questions as to the affect of the newly-signed Havana agreements upon the French island of Martinique in the West Indies.

Trouble over Martinique has been threatening since France capitulated to Germany. British warships have been reported cruising near the island to prevent the French aircraft carrier Bearn from leaving with a cargo of American made airplanes ordered by the Anglo-French purchasing commission before France fell.

Hope for Peaceful Settlement.

The United States government has been negotiating with the French and the British in an effort to bring about a peaceful solution of their dispute over ownership of the planes.

Welles said that conversations are continuing with the French ambassador to see whether some informal arrangement can be worked out which will avoid the possibility of any difficulties arising. He had reasonable hopes, he added, that some satisfactory understanding can be reached.

Reporters then questioned him as to what would be regarded as a change of sovereignty under the "Act of Havana," which provides for the establishment of provisional administrations in European possessions in this hemisphere when they are threatened with a change of sovereignty.

Dodges Quiz on Present Status.

What was in mind, Welles said, was that circumstances might arise where a free and independent government became no longer free and independent and might be operating under duress. That situation, he continued, would create one of the emergencies of the type foreseen in the Havana agreements.

Asked whether such a situation would be created if France became a Fascist dependency of Germany, the secretary said that it would. He declined, however, to say what he considered the present status of France to be.

Welles disclosed that this government had agreed to accept Henry Haye, mayor of Versailles, to succeed Count Rene de Saint-Quentin, the French ambassador since March 3, 1938, who has been recalled by the Petain government.

DENVER BISHOP'S PRAYER TO OPEN ANTI-WAR RALLY

Dr. Wilbur Emery Hammaker, Methodist bishop of Denver, Colo., will pronounce the opening prayer Sunday afternoon at the Keep America Out of War demonstration in Soldiers' field, it was announced yesterday by Avery Brundage, chairman of the citizens' committee sponsoring the meeting. Admission will be free.

Principal speakers will be Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], both of whom have been active in opposing efforts to involve this country in the European war.

Homer O. McGuffey, commander of the Cook county council of the Veterans of Foreign wars, yesterday issued a statement in reply to criticism by an afternoon newspaper of the V. F. W. support given to the meeting.

"No formal complaint has been made by any member of the V. F. W. about what is being done," he stated. "The fact is that the V. F. W. are pleased with the public reaction to this meeting."

Seek Actor's Cash

DOLORES COSTELLO.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30 (AP).—How to subtract $1,500 a week for John Barrymore's creditors from the $1,000 a week he says he is earning now—and still have $1,000 left for "necessary" expenses—occupied a hearing today on the actor's petition for a debtor's extension.

He receives $5,000 a week when he is working on a picture, Barrymore explained, and $1,000 when he is not. Just now he is not, but he expects to start work again Sept. 15.

One claimant to a share of Barrymore's earnings was his former wife, Dolores Costello, who said $6,648 was due on back alimony.

Barrymore and Dolores greeted each other pleasantly.

BLASTS AND FIRE RAZE BIG PLANT; 2 DEAD; 7 MISSING

Troops on Guard; 67 Nearby Homes Burn.

Camden, N. J., July 31, Wednesday (AP).—Hose lines poured cooling water today on the fire blackened ruins of a million dollar paint factory, shattered by a series of terrific explosions which touched off the worst blaze in Camden's history.

Two men were known to have perished in the spectacular flames which devoured a four block area, destroying 67 private homes.

Seven persons were listed as missing and more than 180, most of them firemen, were injured. Estimates of the damage ranged up to 2 million dollars.

Troops Prevent Looting.

Five hundred National Guardsmen patroled the area to prevent looting.

Driven back by heat, firemen made slow progress in their search for victims. Raymond Harter, 40 years old, died in a hospital last night a few hours after blasts ripped thru the R. M. Hollingshead company's automotive paint and soap factory. Just before midnight the body of William Merrigan, 49, a fireman, was found in debris.

R. M. Hollingshead Jr., company president, said there is a possibility that four men and three girls were trapped.

Set Off by Heat.

Vice President R. M. Bagley expressed the opinion that heat exploded one of the many chemical mixtures in the plant. So intense were the flames that within two hours of the noontime explosion nothing was left of the five story brick building but crumbling walls.

Winds whipped the fire across a railroad siding into a row of 20 houses. Sparks set off others across two other streets.

Each successive explosion added to the panic. The Red Cross and service organizations hurriedly mustered trucks to cart away furniture. A relief center was established in the naval reserve armory to aid the 300 homeless.

About 150 of the factory's 450 workers were at their jobs when the first explosion shook all Camden. The others were at lunch.

HOW TO USE U. S. FUNDS FOR LATIN AID IS A PROBLEM

Jesse Jones Admits He Doesn't Know Answer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones today admitted under intense questioning by senators that the administration does not know how it will use the 500 million dollars which President Roosevelt has requested from congress to assist Latin American nations.

Jones appeared before the senate banking committee to support the legislation which would increase the lending authority of the Export-Import bank by 500 millions. After Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] charged that the bill was for "financing the defense of South America" Jones agreed to amendments which would limit the participation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in the national defense program to one billion dollars.

Taft Suggests a Limit.

Senator Taft declared that legislation recently enacted which gave the RFC powers to establish corporations for purchase, producing, and storing of defense materials established no limits. The RFC already has created two such corporations for the acquisition of rubber and tin.

"Would you be willing to accept a limitation on the RFC's participation?" Taft asked.

Jones replied he would accept a limitation of one billion dollars.

Taft persistently quizzed Jones on the purposes behind the request for 500 millions. Jones said that the bill represented "a desire and a purpose to be helpful to our neighbors in the western hemisphere" and insisted that the measure was centered on the loan provisions.

Jones was also asked whether the bill was intended to finance a western hemisphere cartel for the purpose of purchasing surpluses, but he denied any such intent.

Plan to Await Requests.

Senator Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.] observed that the principal commodities of South America are wheat and cattle and that these products are in competition with those of the United States. He asked what the specific plans for the loans were.

"We will not know until we have a specific request," Jones replied. And so far no such request has been received, he added.

"Then there is no definite program?" Adams inquired.

"There is no definite program in mind," said Jones, "except that we place the bank in a position to assist the nations of the western hemisphere."

At the close of the session Jones said he would have no objection to an amendment proposed by Senator D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho] which would guarantee that no provisions of the Johnson act or the neutrality act would be superseded.

Clark and Adams had expressed fears that the bill would repeal the Johnson act, which bars loans to debt defaulting nations, or the neutrality act's prohibitions on loans to belligerents. Adams pointed out that the Export-Import bank bill as written would permit loans "to any country notwithstanding other provisions of law."

Raze Fort Landmark

Destruction of the old guard watch tower at Fort Sheridan—a landmark for more than 70 years—was well under way yesterday. The structure, which is 40 feet square at the base and rises 225 feet, was built shortly after the civil war.

It was used as a reservoir and watch tower, according to Maj. Herbert H. Lewis, publicity director for the summer training camps at the fort. After mounting to the top of the tower, sentries could see for many miles.

Its destruction, which was ordered because it no longer is safe, will require many weeks. Because of other nearby structures, dynamiting is impractical and workmen are reducing the tower brick by brick.

If Your Sleep Is BROKEN
Again Tonight by an Overwhelming Urge —you have only yourself to blame

Your getting up at night may be due to too much acid in your kidneys. This over-acidity, which can be brought on by your sluggish kidneys failing to eliminate at least two quarts a day, can be irritating your bladder linings. This irritation can cause those "overwhelming" urges that break up your sleep, those pains in the back, in the lower abdomen, those burning passages and irritations. If you are suffering from those conditions and if your kidneys are failing to eliminate at least two quarts a day—

Start taking three-way FOLEY PILLS. These triple-acting pills for sluggish kidneys and irritated bladders will give you three-way relief. Their action will stir those sluggish kidneys, dilute and neutralize the over-acid contents of your bladder. Equally important is the fact that FOLEY PILLS will transform the over-acid contents into a bland fluid which will actually help soothe those bladder linings—and quiet those irritations which may be responsible for those "overwhelming" urges, backaches, getting up nights, burning, itching, etc.

If your being awakened at night comes from over-acidity in your bladder due to sluggish kidneys, you have only yourself to blame if you permit those urges to continue to ruin your sleep. YOUR MONEY BACK if any such urges awaken you the second night after you start taking FOLEY PILLS. Many report sound slumber the very first night. For the sake of undisturbed slumber and feeling better, start taking FOLEY PILLS today. At your druggist.

DRAFT MEASURE HELD UP; GUARD PLAN IS RUSHED

Senate Group Approves Mobilization Request.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—The administration's compulsory military service bill was laid aside temporarily today by the senate military affairs committee, which took up instead President Roosevelt's request for immediate authority to order the National Guard and the regular army reserve into active federal service.

Gen. Marshall testifying at senate hearing.

After a brief hearing this afternoon, the military affairs committee unanimously approved the guard mobilization resolution. The senate is expected to take it up Thursday.

With the conscription bill facing tumultuous debate and its ultimate fate in doubt, administration leaders decided to defer action on it at least until next week and proceed first with the resolution authorizing the President to mobilize the National Guard and the regular army reserve for a year of intensive training.

Demands Roosevelt Stand.

The military affairs committee postponed a final vote on the conscription bill after a violent dispute in executive session this morning. Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] started the controversy when he demanded that President Roosevelt tell congress and the people how he stands on the pending Burke-Wadsworth measure. Senator Chan Gurney [R., S. D.] and Senator John Thomas [R., Idaho] supported Bridges.

Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.] and Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.], both both New Deal yes men, accused the Republicans of "playing politics with the national defense." After this argument had raged at the boiling point for some minutes, Senator Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.] intervened and started a new one by reminding the committee that the budget bureau had not approved the conscription program. War department witnesses have testified that it will cost 1 billion dollars during the remainder of the fiscal year.

Refuses to Discuss Details.

At his press conference this afternoon President Roosevelt refused to discuss details of the Burke-Wadsworth bill, as modified at the request of the war department. He reaffirmed his approval of conscription, but said he saw no reason to discuss details.

It is apparent in congress, however, that many loyal administration followers do not want to vote on any conscription bill until the President publicly says it is the bill he wants. With opposition to the conscription bill increasing daily, there is widespread talk of cutting it down drastically. It appears certain the provision requiring the registration of all men between 18 and 64 will be eliminated and that if any bill is passed it will apply only to men between 21 and 31. There also may be a limitation on the number of men that may be drafted.

Gen. Marshall Urges Action.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, told the senate military affairs committee that the war department deemed it urgently necessary to call at least part of the National Guard into training as soon as possible.

He explained that the guard units are deficient in personnel and that when they are ordered into the federal service they can be recruited up to full strength. Mobilization of the guard, he said, is absolutely necessary as a preliminary to the conscription program if congress approves it, and at least part of the guard should be called into training even if congress does not pass the conscription legislation.

53,000 in Initial Group.

Gen. Marshall testified that the war department's program calls for the initial mobilization of approximately 55,000 of the guard's 243,000 officers and men. From other sources, it was learned that if the conscription legislation is approved, the entire guard will be mobilized.

The first guard units to be called, he said, include the following infantry divisions: 44th, comprising units in New York and New Jersey, to be trained at Fort Dix, N. J.; 30th, comprising Tennessee, South Carolina, and Georgia units, to be trained at Camp Jackson, S. C.; 45th, comprising units in Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico, and Colorado, to be trained at Fort Sill, Okla.; 41st, comprising units in Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, and Wyoming, to be trained at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Antiaircraft Units Listed.

Seven antiaircraft regiments on the priority list are: 197th coast artillery, New Hampshire, to be trained at the Massachusetts military reservation; 198th coast artillery, Delaware, to be trained at Camp Upton, New York; 202d coast artillery, Illinois, to be trained at Camp Logan, Illinois, until a camp site at March field, California, is available; 203d coast artillery, Missouri, to be trained at Fort Barrancas, Florida; 211th coast artillery, Massachusetts, to be trained at the Massachusetts military reservation; 213th coast artillery, Pennsylvania, to be trained at Virginia Beach, Va., and later at the Savannah, Ga., firing range, and 251st coast artillery, California, to be trained at Ventura, Cal., and later at March field.

Coast Regiments Included.

Three 155 millimeter coast artillery regiments to be called immediately are: 244th of New York, to be trained at Virginia Beach, Va.; 250th of California, to be trained at Camp McQuaide, California, and 252d of North Carolina, to be trained at Charleston, S. C.

The priority list also includes eight harbor defense regiments, as follows: 240th of Maine, to be trained at Portland, Me.; 241st of Massachusetts, to be trained at Boston; 242d of Connecticut, to be trained at Long Island, N. Y.; 243d of Rhode Island, to be trained at Narragansett Bay, R. I.; 245th of New York, to be trained at Sandy Hook, N. Y.; 246th of Virginia, to be trained with the Chesapeake bay harbor defenses; 248th of Washington, to be trained at Puget sound, and 249th, of Oregon, to be trained with the Columbia river harbor defenses.

Gen. Marshall testified that state authorities had been urged to discharge National Guard enlisted men with dependents and replace them with men having no dependents. The purpose of this action, he explained, is to put National Guard personnel on the same footing with conscripts under the proposed compulsory selective service program. The conscription bill authorizes the President to defer the training and service of men subject to the draft who have dependents.

Maj. Gen. John F. Williams, chief of the National Guard bureau, testified that about a year ago 8 per cent of the National Guard enlisted personnel had dependents, but the number had dropped to 3 per cent under the replacement program.

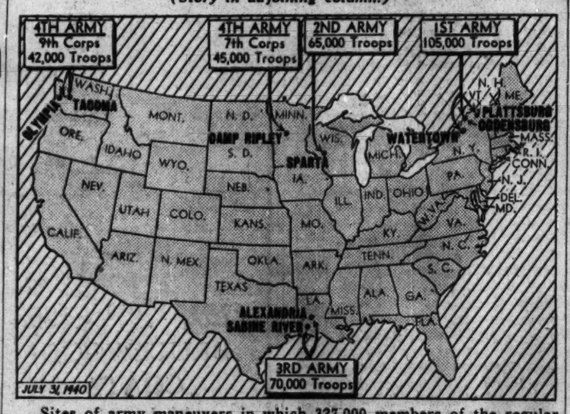
Gen. Marshall also declared that the mobilization of National Guard officers and reserve army officers with dependents, or with essential jobs in industry, would be deferred as long as possible.

The resolution not only authorizes the President to order the guard and the army reserve into training, but to send any components thereof anywhere in the western hemisphere or overseas to the territories and possessions of the United States, including the Philippine Islands. Senator Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.] objected to the inclusion of the Philippines and asked Gen. Marshall why it was necessary.

"I haven't the slightest thought or plan in my mind of sending the guard to the Phillippines but it would be unwise to eliminate one of our possessions," Gen. Marshall said.

Sites of Army Summer Maneuvers

(Story in adjoining column.)



Sites of army maneuvers in which 327,000 members of the regular army and National Guard will participate this summer. Eighty-five per cent of the nation's land strength will be employed for three weeks in the war games.

President Seeks Complete Power Over National Guard

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—President Roosevelt's request for authority to "order" the National Guard into active federal service has created confusion even among members of the senate military affairs committee because of the powers already possessed by the President to "call out" the guard.

As explained by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and other war department officials, there are vast differences between "ordering" and "calling" the guard.

Under existing law, the President has authority to order the guard into active service only when congress declares a national emergency. Also under existing law, he presumably could send the National Guard anywhere he could send the regular army if congress declared a national emergency. The limitations, if any, in that case would be prescribed by congress.

Wider Authority Proposed.

Under the resolution now pending in congress, the President would have authority to order the Guard into active service without the declaration of a national emergency by congress.

If the guard were ordered into active service, it would become an integral part of the regular army. The only limitation on the President's authority with respect to the Guard troops, as distinguished from his authority as commander in chief of the army, would be provided by the resolution. This limitation would be that the Guard could not be sent beyond the limits of the western hemisphere or overseas, except to the territories and possessions of the United States, including the Philippine Islands.

Under existing law the President has authority to "call" the guard for duty in case of insurrection or other emergency. But the guardsmen, when called into service by the President, remain state troops. Their units of organization may not be changed, promotions and appointments may be made only by the governors of the states, and the guard units cannot be sent outside the continental limits of the United States.

1916 Situation Recalled.

In 1916 President Wilson "called out" the National Guard and sent it to the Mexican border when Pancho Villa and his bandits were making raids into United States territory. But when Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing took his federal troops into Mexico to chase Villa, he had to leave the National Guardsmen behind. The state troops could not be used even to establish communication lines.

The guard is a dual organization, supported by the federal government but subject to join federal and state authority. The guardsmen take a dual oath to obey the orders of their governor and the President of the United States.

The federal government provides the equipment, instruction, and pay of the guard. The guardsmen receive pay for each armory drill and preparation therefor, in addition to pay for 15 days of annual training. This year the training period is 21 days, because congress appropriated the money for that period in order to permit extensive maneuvers with the regular army.

May Lose Dual Character.

If congress approves the pending resolution, the guard units would lose their dual character during their one year of service with the regular army. Their units would be recruited up to full strength by the war department and some of them might be reorganized.

If the pending conscription bill is passed, some of the conscripts would be trained with guard units, while others would be trained with the regular army. After the guard units had been trained for one year, they would be sent home and would become state troops again.

ARMY SWINGS INTO ACTION FOR BIG WAR GAMES

327,000 Men in 4 Armies to Train 3 Weeks.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—From the mountains to the prairies and the oceans white with foam America today echoed to the tramp of marching men as 327,000 members of the regular army and National Guard prepared for the largest peacetime maneuvers in the history of the nation.

As the program for three weeks of training for 85 per cent of the nations' land strength swings into full stride no city, town, or hamlet thruout the 48 states will escape intimate knowledge of the great troop concentration.

For the first time four field armies will engage, almost simultaneously, in war games. In the last few years the army has held maneuvers in rotation in the four army areas—one army holding maneuvers each year.

War Games Begin Saturday.

This year the maneuvers will be one week longer—three weeks instead of two. It is possible, if congress adopts President Roosevelt's suggestion, that National Guard units may be kept in training for a year.

The games start Saturday in the Plattsburg - Watertown - Ogdensburg, N. Y., area where 105,000 men of the 1st army participate until Aug. 31 under command of Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum.

The 2d army, under command of Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, will hold maneuvers from Aug. 11 to 31 in the Camp McCoy-Camp Williams-Sparta-Black river area in Wisconsin. About 65,000 troops from the midwest will participate.

One Army in South.

The 3d army will hold its games Aug. 4 to 24 in the Alexandria, La.-Sabine river area. Lieut. Gen. S. D. Embick will command 70,000 troops there.

The 4th army maneuvers will be divided into two sections. One group, 45,000 men of the 7th corps area under command of Maj. Gen. P. P. Bishop, will hold exercises in the Camp Ripley, Minn., area between Aug. 4 and 24. The 9th corps area, under command of Lieut. Gen. John L. Dewitt, will maneuver during the same period near Olympia and Tacoma, Wash., with 42,000 men taking part.

These maneuvers will bear little resemblance to the hilarious militia encampments of bygone years. In them will be none of the picnic air which often surrounded training periods of the National Guard. They will be all business, all seriousness, all concentration on the task of making the man and his weapon efficient parts of an efficient machine for making war.

Purpose: Training for Battle.

Their purpose, in the words of Lieut. Gen. Drum, will be: "To train the American army in the approach to and the conduct of battle. The latest conception of streamlined division tactics will be employed in the field."

Only once before, in 1916, has the United States even approximated so great a peacetime troop concentration. Europe then was at war, but, with the Democratic administration returned to power on a peace platform, the chance of American involvement officially appeared remote.

Mexico, however, had been in political turmoil for a decade, and a raid on Columbus, N. M., by the forces of Rebel Generalissimo Pancho Villa left 30 Americans dead. Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing was sent into Mexico with a column of United States troops.

History Repeats Itself.

In May, 1916, President Woodrow Wilson called out the National Guard of Texas, Arizona, and New Mexico, to replace as border guards the regulars sent into Mexico. That started a mobilization which, by July, had in camp along the border 95,000 National Guardsmen from every state, few of whom were to end their service before 1919. Altogether 120,000 officers and men, regular army and National Guard, were mobilized for border service.

Important as it was, that mobilization went anything but smoothly, largely because of lack of equipment. However, the border training proved of incalculable value when America entered the world war.

History will repeat itself today, for the Guard units are again going into camp underequipped. The Guard is lacking in modern organization and equipment because what few items of equipment the United States has are in the hands of the regular army.

DRAFT MEASURE EXEMPTS ALL 4 ROOSEVELT SONS

But 2, as Reservists, Might Be Called.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—None of the four sons of President Roosevelt can be called to service under the conscription bill pending before congress.

All are exempt because they are married and have children. However, two of the sons might be called to active service even before conscripts would be called up for training because they are members of the organized reserves.

Eldest son James would not have to register for conscription because he is a captain in the marine reserves. He was appointed a lieutenant colonel in the marine reserves in 1936 when he acted as his father's secretary during the latter's visit to South America in 1936. Later he voluntarily reduced his rank to captain. He has reported for active duty yearly.

James Above Age Limit.

Were it not for his reserve commission, James would not be conscripted for service because, altho divorced, he has two dependents and is above the age limit for the first draft the army proposes to call. He is 32 years old. The army would, if the present bill is passed, limit service to the 21 to 31 age group.

The three younger sons of the President all fall in this age group, but all are married and have children. The army high command has indicated that married men would not be called to active service under the conscription plan.

Son Elliott, who is 30 years old, has two children. The two youngest sons of the President, Franklin Jr. and John, each have one child. John is a member of the naval reserve.

The President's son-in-law, John Boettiger, who served in the navy in the world war, would not be called for service, under present army plans, because he is married, is rearing a family, and is 40 years old.

Most New Dealers Exempt.

Under the present conscription plan most New Dealers would not be called to the colors. The bill specially exempts the Vice President, members of congress, all executive officers, and federal judges. The President is not exempted because of his rank as commander in chief of the army and navy.

Exemptions are also granted governors and all executive officers and judges of the states, territories, and District of Columbia. Similar exemptions were granted under the war time draft law.

AIR CORPS TO GET OLD JEFFERSON BARRACKS POST

St. Louis, Mo., July 30 (AP).—Plans for the conversion of Jefferson barracks, for 122 years an army infantry post, into an air corps recruiting and training center were made public today. Lieut. Col. Wolcott P. Hayes, commandant at Scott field, Belleville, Ill., announced that the move will be part of a scheduled expansion program for Scott field, air corps base which is almost directly across the Mississippi river from Jefferson barracks.

The change will be made after the departure from Jefferson barracks next month of the 6th infantry, which has been ordered split up and merged with other units at Fort Knox, Ky., and Fort Benning, Ga.

The citizens' military training camp at Jefferson barracks ended four week training period today, and the 1,300 Illinois and Missouri youths enrolled will return to their homes tomorrow.

JAPAN IS WARNED BY BRITAIN ON ITS 'SPY' ROUNDUP

Strong Protests Lodged; Reprisals Hinted.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 30.—Japan's ambassador to London today was told Britain takes a "very serious view" of the arrest of British citizens in Japan on espionage charges. Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax told the house of lords this as he revealed he had received word that two more Britons had been arrested, in addition to the 11 detained by Japanese police on Saturday.

Halifax also said "strong representations have already been made by our ambassador at Tokio."

Balk at "Suicide" Theory.

Halifax said Britain was "entirely unable to accept the totally unwarranted assumption of guilt" as published by the Japanese government after the death in Tokio of Melville Cox, British correspondent. The Japanese said Cox threw himself from a window while being questioned on espionage charges.

After Halifax spoke, Lord Addison hinted at the nature of possible British reprisals when he suggested Britain had obtained complete satisfaction from Russia after British engineers had been arrested there on similar charges some time ago. Then Moscow relented after Britain had tightened the economic and financial screws.

Official quarters in London tonight said Sir Robert Craigie, British ambassador, in delivering Britain's protest, called the attention of the Tokio foreign office to the supposed existence in Japan of a very strong and efficient Nazi party organization.

Japan Presses Spy Roundup.

TOKIO, July 30 (AP).—A roundup of foreigners thruout the Japanese empire on suspicion of espionage was pressed tonight by the Japanese army and gendarmerie. Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, indicated the arrests may include other foreign nationalities besides British. Only British suspects thus far have been seized. He said without amplification, "I don't think other nationalities are involved for the moment."

Reliable sources saw the drive as a new spearhead in the Japanese campaign to effect the long-sought "new order in East Asia," by elimination of foreign influence in the economic zone Japan has called her own.

Several Foreigners Seized.

From Corea, on the Asiatic mainland, came a communique of the Seoul [Keijo] headquarters of the Japanese garrison for Corea and the Corean public prosecutor which announced the arrest of "several foreigners who have been engaged in espionage."

Domei reported in a dispatch from Kurume, southwestern Japan, that "a number of foreign spies" were arrested in that area July 27. Kurume is near Fukuoka, principal airport of western Japan, and is the center of an important industrial area.

Teachers to Be Replaced.

Domei also reported the ministry of education planned gradual replacement of 400 or 500 foreigners, now teaching in Japanese schools and universities, as a precaution against espionage.

The anti-espionage campaign, in which a group of prominent Britons in Japan has been arrested, was discussed today by the United States and British ambassadors to Tokio, Joseph C. Grew and Sir Robert Leslie Craigie.

Curb on Foreigners Tightened.

SHANGHAI, July 30 (AP).—Dispatches from Japanese Corea tonight indicated antiespionage arrests resulted when foreigners ran afoul of the new Japanese military secrets and espionage law, which strictly limits activities of all non-Japanese.

For instance, any foreigner inquiring how many workers are employed in a Japanese shell factory would be guilty of espionage under this law.

AUTHORIZE CREATION OF 8 NEW AIR CORPS OBSERVATION UNITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—The war department announced today that Maj. Gen. John F. Williams, chief of the National Guard bureau, has been authorized to organize eight additional air corps observation squadrons. One will be in the District of Columbia, and one each in Louisiana, Oregon, Iowa, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Kansas, and Georgia.

The army appropriation act of this year provided funds for the activation of eight National Guard observation squadrons. State authorities will select the exact locations for the new squadrons. There are twenty-one observation squadrons now active in the National Guard which, with the eight additions, will give the guard a total of twenty-nine squadrons.

The twenty-one squadrons, now active, are located as follows: Chicago; Indianapolis, Ind.; Cleveland, O.; St. Paul, Minn.; Romulus, Mich.; Robertson, Mo.; Birmingham, Ala.; Little Rock, Ark.; Los Angeles, Cal.; Denver, Colo.; Hartford, Conn.; Dundalk, Md.; East Boston, Mass.; Meridian, Miss.; Newark, N. J.; Staten Island, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Hillsgrove, R. I.; Nashville, Tenn.; Houston, Tex., and Parkwater, Wash.

An observation squadron consists of 31 officers and 115 enlisted men and 14 airplanes with necessary auxiliary equipment such as photographic, radio, and armament.

MAGINOT LINE'S RUINS SHOW HOW NAZIS GOT THRU

Tribune Writer Tells of Attackers' Technique.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY IN THE MAGINOT LINE, July 30.—The technique that enabled the German war machine to smash thru the Maginot line was developed in the destruction by gunfire of the French built Czech fortifications seized by Hitler in March, 1939.

The Germans learned their lesson well. Today I saw sections of forts whose concrete walls 10 feet thick had been pulverized by "storm artillery." I saw steel gun turrets 25 centimeters [about 10 inches] thick that had been pierced by a shell. The weapons and the ways to use them were evolved in practice assaults on the Czech bunkers, which were modeled after the French fortifications, a German army major said.

Six Inch Guns Open Way.

The Germans used 15 centimeter [about 6 inch] guns to smash the fortress of Welschof, a few kilometers west of the fortified town of Bitsch [Bitche]. The guns preceded the infantry and fired point blank at the fortress. Their shells blasted thru 10 feet of steel reinforced concrete, putting the defenders' 37 millimeter [about 1½ inch] guns out of action and opening a hole into the inner fortifications.

At the same time the steel turrets atop the fortress were penetrated with shot after shot from 88 millimeter [about 3½ inch] antiaircraft guns firing special armor piercing shells from short range. Many of these shells passed thru the 10 inch armor of the turrets, leaving a hole thru which an arm might be thrust; others penetrated 5 or 6 inches into the metal.

A captured French army machinist told how the fort was captured.

Guns Gone, They Surrender.

"The German guns broke thru the wall of the fort and thru the turrets and put our guns out of action," he said. "Only 3 of our 50 men were wounded, and these slightly, but with our guns destroyed there was nothing to do but surrender."

I saw no fortress that had been blown to pieces. The German technique was to smash in the walls around the guns, disable those in the steel turrets, and then leave a small force to wait for the garrison to surrender.

Where the Germans found themselves unable to subdue a bunker by gunfire they sent for Stukas [dive bombers], which dropped 2,200 pound bombs on them. I saw no place where they had scored a direct hit.

Vulnerable from Rear.

The Maginot line forts were not equipped to cope with attacks from the rear. The forts were only 4 feet thick in the rear and at this point were armed with light machine guns. On many forts I saw that turret guns had been swung as far to the rear as possible, but even this left a wide arc that could not be defended. This inflexibility of the Maginot line, which impaired its usefulness in a war of movement such as the Germans waged, was largely responsible for its downfall. Knowing they could not defend themselves from the rear, many French garrisons withdrew from their forts without battle.

The works of Rohrbach, west of Bitsch, consisted of three fortresses connected by passages 250 feet underground. The system had an elaborate heating, lighting and ventilating system and quarters for 180 men, but was unable to defend itself when surrounded.

The Maginot line forts were not equipped with heavy artillery. The heavy guns were placed behind the line.

Cross Rhine in 14 Seconds.

A German frontal assault on the Maginot line was launched on June 15 at Breisach after a 20 minute bombardment. Return fire indicated that many French garrisons had left their forts because a flank of the German army was advancing from the northwest. At 10:20 a. m., aided by fog and a light rain, the Germans advanced across the Rhine river in speedboats. The fastest boats, an officer said, made the 600 foot crossing in 14 seconds with "some losses." Once across the river, the Germans forced a passage between two French bunkers, pushed ahead on a narrow front, and spread out fanwise to the rear of the forts, which were swiftly put out of action.

Forts Destroyed

PLAN CANADIAN 'DRAFT' TO TRAIN MILLION IN YEAR

Proposes Unwed Men 21 to 45 Be Called.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 30 (AP).—A Canadian army of 1,000,000 men for service at home, under a scheme providing for the calling up of eight classes within a year after August registration, was proposed today by War Services Minister James G. Gardiner.

James G. Gardiner.

In a report to the house of commons on the government's war effort, Gardiner said every medically fit unmarried man in Canada between 21 and 45 might be required to take 30 days' military training within one year.

May Need Only Men 21-35.

He added it was possible, however, "that requirements of the department of national defense will be satisfied by calling up single men from 21 to 35 and it may not have to go beyond this." Canada has 1,198,000 unmarried men between 18 and 44, he said.

"There is no reason why Canada should not train an army of 1,000,000 men under this system and still operate her industry and primary production to meet the demands upon it," he said.

Registration is to be conducted Aug. 19-21, inclusive. The plan does not contemplate drafting any man for foreign service.

Jobs to Be Protected.

Employers will be compelled to reemploy men after their military service.

Munitions Minister C. D. Howe announced that Canadian factories were expected to produce 360 warplanes a month by 1941, and 30 tanks a month when plant equipment is completed.

He also disclosed plans for a $10,000,000 naval artillery factory, to be the biggest and most modern in the British empire.

Canada probably is leading all countries in the production of motorized equipment, he said, and is building large plants for the manufacture of chemicals and explosives. Howe reported, however, that it had been decided not to attempt the manufacture of airplane engines.

Germans Report Rumania Is Trying 9 Army Generals

BERLIN, July 30 (AP) Via Radio.—The German wireless today reported from Bucharest that nine Rumanian army generals were being tried at Bacau, in the province of Moldavia, for "malfeasance in office" during the evacuation of Bessarabia under the soviet ultimatum.

GERMANS BOAST STUKAS WRECKED DOVER'S HARBOR

Claim 4 Sunken Vessels Block Port's Entrance.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 30.—Germans today declared that Monday's aerial bombardment of Dover, British port on the English channel, was one of the most dramatic in the history of the war. They said important parts of the port have been destroyed.

The admission that nine Stukas [dive bombers] are being used in raids on England was taken by some as an indication that the "real attack" on England, is getting underway.

Others said the air attacks so far "are mere pin pricks" which, the Germans hope will help undermine the British morale and "reduce the English power of resistance until the British capitulate like the French."

4 Ships Block Port.

In the Stuka attack on Dover, the German high command said four ships totaling 32,000 tons were sunk. These ships, it was said, now block the harbor, preventing other ships from entering or leaving. The attack was carried out in waves by Junkers Stukas flanked by fighting planes.

The high command said 12 British Spitfires and 3 Hurricanes and 3 German planes were shot down in the battle over Dover. A German plane was rammed by an English pursuit plane, but "it succeeded in placing its bombs accurately."

"The British plane fell into the water but in falling tore off the landing gear of the German plane," the high command said. "Nevertheless, the Stuka succeeded in reaching home and landing safely despite its high landing speed."

Report Crew Unharmed.

The Germans said the crew was unharmed in this belly landing, which "proved the excellence of German material."

They also asserted that the fighting planes which accompanied the Stukas proved superior to the British fighting planes.

It was announced that German bombers sank a British cruiser of 10,000 tons and a merchant vessel on the east coast of England. Another merchant vessel was reported seriously damaged.

The Germans continued to belittle British air raids on Germany, they announced that only nonmilitary objectives were hit by bombs last night in the industrial centers of Duesseldorf and Offenbach, near Frankfort. Foreign consulates reported that British planes have appeared over Hamburg in daylight and are not restricting themselves to night raids.

Poland Assails Transfer of Vilna Province to Reds

LONDON, July 30.—The Polish government in London informed the British foreign office today that it does not recognize the transfer of Vilna province from Lithuania to Russia and protested against the seizure by Russia of more Polish territory. Vilna province, the Poles said, was illegally annexed by Lithuania in September last year and is now illegally held by Russia.

Bomb Gibraltar as New British Fighting Planes Arrive; 5 Killed

ALGECIRAS, Spain, July 31, Wednesday (AP).—Five persons were reported killed and 15 wounded in a raid by enemy bombers yesterday afternoon on Britain's Gibraltar fortress.

The Hotel Rock, where newely arrived royal air force pilots were quartered, was hit by low-flying planes, presumably Italian. The pilots and a score of British fighter planes had arrived to bolster Gibraltar defenses.

22 Die in Two Other Raids.

Reports reaching here also said 22 were killed and 35 injured in the two Italian air raids July 26.

Watchers in this Spanish city across the bay from the British fortress said there were several casualties, and that bombs fell among warships and merchantmen at the southeast dock.

[German and Italian travelers arriving in Switzerland from Spain declared Spain and Italy planned to assault Gibraltar simultaneously with a German invasion of England. They said Italian planes were being concentrated at Sardinia and Spanish men, boats and artillery at La Linea, behind Gibraltar.]

Last Civilians Leave.

Reports in Algeciras said anti-British sympathizers in Gibraltar would be sent to England, and the Spanish radio at Madrid reported the last of civilians being moved from Gibraltar left Monday aboard four ships.

British military headquarters yesterday acknowledged three soldiers were killed Monday in an explosion "in the vicinity of the naval wireless station at the north front" of Gibraltar. It was said the cause was "as yet unknown."

[Reports reaching La Linea, Spain, just across the border from the fort, said a carelessly handled hand grenade set off stored antiaircraft shells and the blast killed four men.]

Heavy Fighting Reported.

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, July 30 (AP).—Heavy fighting between British and Italian forces in the Moyale region, where the Italians have invaded British Kenya from Ethiopia, was reported officially by the British today.

British forces in this area, having retired before Italian pressure in recent days, now have been reinforced by new contingents from South Africa.

The communique said: "Today our ground forces made contact with strong enemy forces in the Moyale area. Further reports are awaited."

Bombed 3 Ships, Rome Claims.

ROME, July 30 (AP—Via Radio).—Two British battleships and an aircraft carrier were hit by Italian bombers yesterday in a raid on an eastern Mediterranean convoy, the Italian news agency Stefani reported tonight.

The Italian high command earlier reported the bombers had "seriously damaged" several ships and set one afire. Stefani said the convoy was completely broken up.

One British plane which took off from the aircraft carrier was shot down, and one Italian plane was lost, the high command said.

Report Big Warship Damaged.

New York, July 30 (AP).—Passengers arriving today on the freighter Exmouth, one of the last American ships to leave the Mediterranean after Italy entered the war, said residents of Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, told them a "severely damaged British battle cruiser—either the 42,100 ton Hood or the 32,000 ton Renown"—recently took refuge at Gibraltar.

Britain has denied German, Italian, and French claims that the Hood and the aircraft carrier Ark Royal were damaged in Mediterranean fights.

KEEP LAND CLAIM 'WITHIN CERTAIN LIMITS'—RUMANIA

Hungary and Bulgaria Receive Warning.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 31, Wednesday (AP).—Foreign Minister Mihail Manoilescu today expressed the Rumanian government's determination to keep Hungarian and Bulgarian territorial claims "within certain limits"—by the use of force if necessary.

Mihail Manoilescu.

In a declaration after a cabinet meeting which had discussed Adolf Hitler's talks with Manoilescu and Premier Gigurtu in Salzburg, the foreign minister said Rumania was determined not to permit further loss of this country's territory in the manner by which soviet Russia took Bessarabia and northern Bukovina.

To Drive Hard Bargain.

His remarks were interpreted in diplomatic quarters as meaning that the government was determined to drive with Hungary and Bulgaria a hard bargain in the forthcoming negotiations with those countries—negotiations to be held at Hitler's orders. Hungary wants Transylvania and Bulgaria covets southern Dobruja.

"We want peace but with justice for Rumania," the foreign minister said. "We want the people of the interior and even more those outside to know that the situation which happened a short time ago under unique circumstances [the Russian occupation of Bessarabia and northern Bukovina] will not be repeated.

"It is necessary to maintain peace but if certain limits are exceeded, the Rumanians must use other ways

"Rumania means to grant greater minority rights and suggest an exchange of populations. Rumania recognizes she must achieve lessening tension between herself and her Bulgarian and Hungarian neighbors."

Nazi Gets Slovakian Post.

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, July 30 (AP).—Appointment of Sano Mach, chief of the pro-Nazi Hlinka guard, as minister of interior, was regarded by observers today as evidence of a German attempt to make Slovakia—along with Hungary and Rumania—a political buffer between Germany and Russia.

Mach takes over police powers formerly held by Ferdinand Burchansky, whose resignation as foreign minister and interior minister was announced by Premier Joseph Tiso, recently returned from conferences in Germany.

Alleged soviet leanings by Burchansky were said to have caused disfavor in Berlin. The foreign ministry portfolio, it was announced, will be taken by Prof. Vojtech Tuka, a former interior minister.

Wins a Divorce

MRS. GENEVIEVE CZEROP.

Long fingernails, cigarets, and chewing gum figured prominently in the marital troubles of Mrs. Genevieve Czerop, 24 years old, 1414 Greenview avenue, and her husband, Simon, 28 years old, a printer, Superior Judge Oscar F. Nelson was told yesterday.

Mrs. Czerop's attorney, Norman Becker, said she could not get along with her husband because of his violent objections to her fingernails and habits of smoking cigarets and chewing gum.

"His objections were not esthetic," Czerop's attorney, Harry A. Cole, told the court. "His body is a mass of scars from scratches and cigaret burns. She left the gum around where he would get into it."

GERMANS ADMIT BRITISH POSSESS PLENTY OF PLUCK

BERLIN, July 30 (AP).—A note of reluctant admiration for Britain's stout resistance appeared today in the German press.

Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter, which has published many a vitriolic attack on the British, conceded that the invasion "will be anything but a pleasant stroll thru the countryside."

However, the Boersenzeitung found what it described as a fatal weakness in the haste with which England is trying to "improvise" its national defenses.

bors of the north, especially those opening onto the English channel and the North sea.

Even German owned Rhine barges, which would be of little use on the choppy channel waters except on the calmest days, have been towed down river to the Schelde Hook of Holland and to other Low Country ports by way of the Netherlands canal system.

Heavy Massing of Troops.

New York, July 30 (AP).—Heavy massing of German troops in Nazi-occupied France across the channel from England was reported today by Edwin Hartrich, CBS correspondent, who just has toured the area.

Moving only under the cover of darkness, he said, they are mobilizing in tremendous numbers toward the French coast from Marseilles as far north as the Belgian channel ports.

Wales Bombed Heavily.

LONDON, July 31, Wednesday (AP).—Smashing relentlessly thru heavy anti aircraft fire, waves of Nazi raiders bombed Wales today in their third successive great midnight-to-dawn attack on that sector. One plane alone loosed eight big bombs on south Wales. Some of the explosives fell into the seas, other exploded ashore.

Bursts of machine gun fire were heard in the darkness. Ground batteries, sighted along the beams of searchlights, fired at German planes repeatedly, but each time the raiders turned back to the attack again. There was no announcement of the total casualties from the attack.

Earlier, thousands of townsfolk along the southeast coast of Scotland watched a 15 minute battle between German dive bombers and British warships convoying merchant ships. Observers said the convoy apparently escaped damage.

German bombers yesterday carried on their now almost endless raids, hitting especially at towns on the east coast of England above and below the mouth of the Thames, and leaving an ever growing list of civilian dead.

The German raids were heaviest on the coastal areas nearest to Nazi-occupied French territory.

Official announcements telling of the raids on Britain said that one lone Nazi raider dumped his heavy bombs in several salvos in one southeast coast town and that the bombs burst on houses along a narrow street, destroying four on one side and three on the other.

In another raid on an East Anglian town, on the coast northeast of London, the ministry of home security said, "some damage was done to property and there were some casualties, a proportion of which were fatal."

Patrol Vessel Attacked.

Two German bombers and one fighter plane were destroyed during Nazi raids on Britain yesterday and 21 German planes were shot down Monday, the air ministry reported. The ministry said one British bomber was lost and two fighter pilots were missing.

The patrol vessel Guillemot was reported to have shot down a German dive bomber during an attack on the ship by German aircraft on Monday. The vessel was not damaged and had no casualties, the admiralty said.

The admiralty announced that the auxiliary patrol yacht, the Gulzar, was sunk on Monday by a German air attack. There was no loss of life, it was stated.

British bombers made extensive daylight raids on Germany and the Low Countries on Monday, lasting into the night, the air ministry announced. In the daylight raids a supply ship at Flushing, Holland, was reported damaged. Barges and other vessels were attacked at Emden and Hamburg and off the Island of Terschelling, as well as oil refineries in the Ruhr and airdromes in other parts of Germany.

Torpedo Boats a "Nuisance."

Coupled with an announcement of shipping losses, a British naval officer declared, without giving any details, that an effective counterweapon against the Nazi torpedo carrying speedboats now swarming in the English channel was certain to be found, adding:

"We may already have found it."

The officer said the boats constitute a "menace" with a high nuisance value, but asserted that the Germans must have been disappointed with the results achieved.

The officer said the German boats ranged from 90 to 130 feet in length and displaced from 50 to 90 tons. They have a speed of 30 to 40 knots, he said, and estimated their range at about 600 miles. In addition to torpedoes, they carry heavy automatic guns probably firing a 1½ inch shell, the officer reported.

The Wick of Freedom's Lamp

UNITY of spirit in a nation comes only from the devotion of its people to a fundamental ideal. Fortunately, America's fundamental ideal has always been freedom for the individual—the fullest measure of freedom consistent with proper respect for the rights and liberties of others.

Who stands for this freedom? All Americans do, all ages and all groups. But for 150 years of American history the very wick of the lamp of freedom has been the American farm.

America's farms have given to the nation far more than an abundance of food. Released from the soil by the use of machines, generation after generation of farm sons and daughters, imbued with the American ideal, have peopled our cities and created our industrial civilization.

This nation was established and built by farmers. Its basic social unit has always been the family on the family-size farm. So long as its foundation is the man who farms his acres, speaks his mind, helps his neighbor and prizes his freedom above his ease, America is secure at its base against disunion.

Because these things are true, the soundness and vitality of the family farm are essential to America. Sometimes we are told that it is endangered, that it is unable to compete against larger farms and large-scale methods.

Fortunately, that is not true. Today the number of American farms is at an all-time high and the overwhelming majority of them are one-family farms, operated by the members of the family.

Within recent years the farm equipment industry has produced mechanized equipment especially for the smaller farm—low-cost small tractors and a full line of implements for use with them. Now the little tractors are humming on thousands of American farms. Each passing day sees more of them in use. The small tractor is making itself as essential to American farming as the light truck is to American business transportation.

The progress of mechanization has strengthened the position of the American family farm and all that it stands for. Enlightened agriculture remains the strong and enduring social foundation of America.

We are proud that this is true, proud that the industry of which this Company is a part has helped to make it true.

BRITISH NAVY TO GUARD WINDSORS ABOARD U. S. SHIP

Plans for Voyage Skirt American Law.

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—Skirting a United States law, guns of the British navy will guard the American Export liner Excalibur on its way to New York to insure the duke and duchess of Windsor and the ship against seizure by any enemy raider.

His majesty's navy may, however, comply with the letter of the American law forbidding American ships to travel in belligerent convoy by keeping at a "nonconvoy distance" but still close enough for action if it is needed.

The Excalibur will sail on Thursday from Lisbon. The American Export Lines confirmed in New York that the duke and duchess had booked passage to arrive in New York on Aug. 9, but said the question of any British escort was up to the state department.

Visas to Meet No Delay.

The state department in Washington said the Windsors would be granted visas for entry into the United States immediately upon application. Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, questioned as to the liability of German seizure of the Excalibur because of the Windsors' presence aboard, said that phase of the matter had not been considered. Government sources in London revealed that the British navy would guard the way to New York.

A German raider might regard the Excalibur a prize of war as a carrier of a member of the British armed forces. The former British king holds an officer's commission. He and his American-born duchess will go to New York en route to the Bahamas to his new post as governor and commander in chief.

A German ship disguised as a neutral freighter has been raiding in the Atlantic. German submarines have been active off Portugal.

Precedent Set by British.

The British frequently have removed Germans and Italians from Japanese and Italian ships. While the duke's case does not exactly parallel the others, government sources said it was evident that a person as prominent as the duke would be traveling at unusual risk. An authority on international law said the carrying of individuals who are members of the armed forces of an enemy places a vessel in the position of a neutral ship liable for seizure for contraband.

The 9,359-ton Excalibur is a freighter-passenger liner with space for 132 passengers. It has been removing refugees from the Mediterranean since the war began.

Three United States diplomats will be aboard. They are John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium; William Phillips, ambassador to Italy, and George Gordon, minister to the Netherlands.

U. S. ADVANCES CASH TO BRITONS BROKE IN FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 30.—The American government is advancing funds to several thousand British citizens living in France who are unable to get money for their living expenses transferred from London. The Britons' trouble results from the blockade of all British holdings here in retaliation for the blocking of French holdings in England.

For a time the Britishers were practically stranded and had to borrow to meet their expenses. The British government has now authorized American embassy authorities to advance the Britons up to 10 pounds weekly [about $40], guaranteeing repayment.

FRANCE FOCUSES ITS ATTENTION ON WAR GUILT QUIZ

Four Groups Face Trial.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 30.—Attention of the French public will be focused for weeks on the trials of politicians and statesmen accused of getting the French nation tangled up in a disastrous war. The trials, which will be held in the new National Supreme court that Marshall Henri Petain's government has set up, may prove to be spectacular. They are bound to recall the arrest and trial toward the end of the world war of several high persons, including former Premier Joseph Caillaux, before a high court for alleged defeatism.

This time, of course, the circumstances and charges will be different. It is not defeatism but mismanagement, incompetence, antinationalism and even disloyalty that is envisaged.

The demand for an immediate investigation and trials was brought to a head during the final sessions of the senate and the chamber of deputies here early this month. As a result of a fight made by Senator Charles Reibel and the pressure of public opinion the Petain government, which also was determined to hold the war leaders to strict accountability, took vigorous measures.

Four Groups Under Fire.

Reibel designated four categories that he said should be investigated. They are:

First, those who willed the war, whether or not under pressure of another allied government.

Second, those who were responsible for the preparation of the war.

Third, those who conducted the war badly.

Fourth, those who prolonged the war after Gen. Maxime Weygand on June 13 said it was impossible to win.

Old Cabinet Members Hit.

Under the first heading, several in the cabinet in office on Sept. 3, 1939, doubtless would be involved, and possibly some diplomats. Under the second would be included those responsible for supplies. The third category would include military leaders

Gives Explanation

Final naturalization papers were issued in Chicago to 30,293 persons in the fiscal year ending June 30. This was disclosed yesterday by Fred J. Schlotfeldt, director of the Chicago district of the bureau of immigration and naturalization. The total was a record, exceeding by 709 the number of naturalizations in 1924-'25, which furnished the previous high.

Schlotfeldt said the German occupation of European territory and the wish to avoid registering under the alien registration law tended to increase the number of new citizens.

Poland furnished the largest contingent of new Americans, 5,313. Other countries were Great Britain, 3,225; Germany, 4,340; Czecho-Slovakia, 1,620; Italy, 3,531; Russia, 1,741; Jugo-Slavia, 1,744, and Sweden, 1,329. Repatriated Americans numbered 950.

up to May 20, last, and the fourth appears to involve cabinet members.

No clue has been openly given as to what persons will be included in the government's inquiry.

One subject certain to be investigated is whether war was ever constitutionally declared. Deputy Marcel Deat and others contend that all parliament did was to vote war credits and that the cabinet declared war illegally without parliament's approval.

ALL ALIENS IN U.S. TO BE QUERIED ON FOREIGN ACTIVITY

Question Is Included on Registration Form.

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—The government soon will ask every alien in the United States whether he is affiliated with any organization "devoted in whole or in part to influencing or furthering the political activities, public relations, or public policy of a foreign government."

Earle G. Harrison.

This was disclosed today when sample copies of the alien registration form were given out by Earle G. Harrison, who will direct the registering of an estimated 3,600,000 noncitizens under a recent act of congress.

Millions of the sample copies will be distributed in about two weeks to help foreigners prepare for the start of registration on Aug. 27. The deadline for registering will be Dec. 26.

Must Name Organizations.

In connection with the political activites question, registrants must disclose the nature of their duties, compensation received, and the names of the organizations. If they have worked for any foreign government, they must show the nature of employment.

Aliens also will be asked to say in what clubs, organizations, or societies—whether in this country or abroad—they hold memberships or have been active at any time in the last five years and in what activities they have been or intend to be engaged.

The third question of a group which officials described as "searching" requires a description of any arrest, indictment, or conviction. The aliens need not describe minor traffic law violations, however.

They must also disclose any previous military service, list their professional names, aliases, or nicknames if any, describe their usual occupation and their present one, and name their employer.

Hopes to Avert Difficulty.

Harrison said in a statement that for the sake of the large majority of foreign born who are "law abiding, peaceful people," the government wants to carry out registration and fingerprinting "as painlessly and with as little inconvenience as possible."

Aliens under 14 years of age will not be required to answer the "searching" questions or to be fingerprinted. They must fill in only those queries pertaining to such general information as name, age, place of birth, physical description, present address, time, place, and manner of arrival in the United States, whether they have applied for citizenship, and what relatives live in the United States.

All aliens must say whether they came to this country as passengers, crew members, or stowaways, and whether they rode or walked if they came by land.

PUNISH 2 WOMEN FOR SLAPPING OF DIVORCE WITNESS

Mrs. Florence Mondi, 50 years old, 3434 Broadway, and a woman friend were held in contempt of court yesterday following a face slapping episode in the Superior court of Judge Oscar F. Nelson.

The trouble started after Judge Nelson had denied Mrs. Mondi's petition for temporary alimony from her husband, James V. Mondi, 4917 Washington boulevard, alleged loop bookie operator. Mrs. Mondi and her friend, Mrs. Florence Benson, 40 years old, of Fond du Lac, Wis., walked toward the rear of the courtroom.

Suddenly Mrs. Benson whirled and struck Mrs. Mondi's son, James, 24 years old, in the face. He had testified in support of his father's charges of adultery against his mother.

Judge Nelson ordered the two women held for two hours in the bailiff's office.

Nation Boasts It Has No Alien Problem.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, July 30.—If there is a fifth column in Peru, it, like the elusive Pimpernell, is difficult to find. For months, official, press, and amateur sleuths have been searching the nation, but have found nothing more than zealous commercial representatives and officially accredited military officials and missions to reward them.

Aside from the officially reported 22,000 Japanese residents, Peru has no major foreign problems. Judging from a survey, the majority of the 7,000 Italian residents are more anti-Nazi than the average American, and they do not fraternize with their 2,000 German axis allies.

This different situation in a race conscious world is reflected in the extended congressional message of more than 60,000 words delivered by President Manuel Prado y Ugarteche at the convening of the regular sessions of congress yesterday.

Prado dealt with the war in Europe in passing phrases mainly in connection with its effect on the Peruvian economic situation.

Prado said that Peru was a far heavier purchaser of United States products than the United States was of Peruvian products.

Only at one point did the message deal with an issue which might be considered as touching fifth column activities. The president said that the old conception of surplus populations emigrating to new countries and there merging with the national racial strains was changing.

Instead, he said, certain countries—the names were not specified—were seeking thru their emigrants to form "true ethnic islands," involving the dangerous doctrine of double nationality.

For this reason the naturalization of foreigners has been suspended until returns from the recent nationwide census have been made available and new regulations are drawn up.

BANDITS ESCAPE WITH $108,000 IN DAYTIME HOLDUP

Asbury Park, N. J., July 30 (AP).—A trio of bandits, wearing dark glasses and armed with shotguns, robbed two bank messengers of $108,000 cash in front of the postoffice here today, in full view of dozens of pedestrians.

The bandits escaped thru the congested traffic of this shore resort's main thorofare in a dark sedan bearing Pennsylvania license plates.

James Forsythe, vice president and cashier of the Asbury Park National Bank and Trust company, said the loss was covered by insurance. The money was consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and was being taken to the postoffice.

Forsythe said the messengers, Clarence Barton and Joseph Sturm, were accosted by the trio as they stepped from their car in front of the postoffice building. Sturm was armed.

NAB MORE DUTCH FOR 'ABUSES' OF NAZIS IN COLONIES

AMSTERDAM, July 30 [via Berlin] (AP).—More arrests have been made in the Netherlands in reprisal against alleged bad treatment of Germans in Holland's colonies, it was announced officially today. The number arrested was not disclosed, but it was said they were "some hundreds." They will be held in Germany. These retaliatory measures will be repealed, it was said, when interned Germans in the Dutch possessions are released and allowed to work normally.

15 YEAR PROGRAM OF SUPER ROADS URGED IN COUNTY

11 Route System Would Cost 82 Million.

A 15 year program for construction of a superhighway system in Cook county outside the city limits was submitted to the county board yesterday by Maj George A. Quinlan, county highway superintendent. The system, consisting of 11 routes, would total 172.8 mile and cost $82,600,000.

Maj. Quinlan.

Maj. Quinlan recommended that in addition to this project the county should spend $18,010,000 for highway and railroad grade separations and continue the present five year program of street and road improvements, both inside and outside the city limits, at a cost of $8,725,000.

Cost of All Work 109 Million.

The total amount for all this work—$109,335,000—could be financed by the county's share of the motor fuel tax for the years 1940 to 1955, inclusive, Maj. Quinlan said. The total of this expected revenue for the fifteen year period is $105,900,000—about $3,500,000 less than the cost of the work—but as the figures in both cases [cost and revenue] are only approximate, a balance could be achieved, he said.

Quinlan said his plan for superhighways outside the city would bring traffic safely and efficiently to the city limits and that the system in the county ultimately could be linked with one in the city.

Eleven Proposed Routes.

The eleven routes proposed by Quinlan are:

Route A—From Devon avenue north, paralleling Carpenter road part of the way and then between Skokie and Green Bay roads. Length, 13.2 miles. Cost [construction plus acquisition of right of way], $5,100,000.

Route B—From Harlem avenue west and and then branching north, west of Roselle road. Length, 20.4 miles. Cost, $8,400,000.

Route C—West along the line of Higgins road from where route B branches north. Length, 11 miles. Cost, $4,500,000.

Route D—West from the city limits, just north of Harrison street to the tri-state highway. Length, 5.7 miles. Cost, $8,100,000.

Route E—West from city limits along the abandoned Illinois-Michigan canal and between 47th and 55th streets to the tri-state highway. Length, 10.2 miles. Cost, $5,900,000.

Route F—Southwest along the line of the George Brennan highway to the tri-state highway at Cicero avenue. Length, 6 miles. Cost, $2,900,000.

Route G—South along Stony Island avenue to the Lincoln highway. Length, 10.8 miles. Cost $3,900,000.

Route H—Two sections, one from the southern end of the completed section of the tri-state highway to the Indiana state line and the other connecting the northern end of the completed section to the northern Cook county line. Length, 35.4 miles. Cost, $15,500,000.

Route I—West along Golf road from the intersection of Higgins and Roselle roads. Length, 8.5 miles. Cost $2,900,000.

Route J—Parallel to the completed section of the tri-state highway and extending from the intersection of the southwest highway and 135th street on the south to the northern Cook county line. Length, 26.6 miles. Cost, $20,600,000.

Route K—From Crawford avenue and 87th street, along the line of the southwest highway. Length, 15 miles. Cost, $4,800,000.

Quinlan's proposal calls for acquisition of 300 feet rights of way for the entire system. The highways would have no cross-traffic, being grade separated thruout with traffic moving in opposite directions separated by a center parkway. Traffic each way would have two 12 foot lanes and there would be 30 feet service drives on each side removed from the main highway.

Commissioner Daniel Ryan, chairman of the roads and bridges committee of the county board, set Aug. 20 for a hearing on Quinlan's report.

Physician Is Ordered Held to Jury in Woman's Death

Dr. Roy I. Hardin, 54 years old, 2354 Wilson avenue, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Jean St. John, 43, who died July 10 in St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Gordon St. John, 40, of 1618 Wilmette avenue, Wilmette, her husband, who said he took her to Dr. Hardin for an abortion operation, was ordered held as an accessory to murder.

FESTIVAL OFFERS 3 INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC CONTESTS

Violinists, Cornetists, Accordionists Enter.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Scores of violinists, cornetists, and piano accordion players are expected to be entered in the contests for these instruments, which will be a feature of the 11th annual Chicagoland Music Festival. The deadline for entry is 6 p. m. Monday.

William H. Potstock.

A Cook county preliminary competition will be held Tuesday evening, Aug. 13, in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel, and the finals will be conducted the day of the festival, Saturday, Aug. 17, in the Chicago Towers club, 501 North Michigan avenue.

Band Directors to Judge.

Judges for the these competitions are Dr. Frank Simon, noted band conductor, who will direct one of the massed band numbers at the festival concert in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 17; William Revelli, Glenn Cliff Bainum, Harold Bachman, Oscar W. Anderson, Louis Walz, James Thatcher, Bernard Fischer, Harry Dowse, and Paul Schneider, all prominent band and orchestra directors and teachers of instrumental music.

The first place winners of these contests will appear before 100,000 people at the festival. Last year's winners were: Violin, Monty Appelbaum, Chicago; cornet, Johannes Rasmussen, Waukegan, and piano accordion, Frankie Ricchio, Racine, Wis.

One of the contest numbers for the violin division is "Souvenir de Sarasate," composed by William H. Potstock, 67 years old, a retired orchestra director who lives at 5838 Washington boulevard. Potstock studied in the Royal conservatory at Leipzig and directed many concerts in Chicago parks in his earlier days. He will be present at each of the contests.

Entry Lists to Date.

Contestants entered to date are:

COOK COUNTY.

OUT OF COOK COUNTY.

ACCORDIONISTS—Warren Clark, Battle Creek, Mich.; Robert Tancredi, Gary, Ind.

CORNETISTS—Raymond Makeever, Joliet; William Bergling, Waukegan.

VIOLINISTS—Kathleen Clark, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Reserved seats for the festival concert are going rapidly. They may be obtained at 50 cents and $1.00 each at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, in the lobby of Tribune tower, and by mail addressed to the Festival ticket manager, Tribune tower, Chicago. Checks or money orders should be made payable to The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. Organizations wishing to obtain blocks of seats are urged to do so at once.

ELECTRIC DEVICES MAKE LIFE EASIER FOR THE MUSICIANS

An electric atmosphere surcharged the opening sessions of the annual convention of the National Association of Music Merchants yesterday in the Stevens hotel. Amid a variety of electronic instruments the music merchants admitted an ever growing dependence on Benjamin Franklin, who harnessed electricity, and Lee De Forrest, who invented the radio tube.

It is Dr. De Forest's invention that has reduced the toil in the musician's life and enabled him to amplify his tones and to get new color in them thru knobs, dials, pushbottons, and switches. These were in great evidence among the two million dollars worth of instruments on display at the convention.

The Hawaiian guitar, for instance, once a simple looking instrument but no cinch to play, now looks complicated but it's easy on the guitarist. The more elaborate electric adaptations are about the size and shape of miniature upright pianos. Astonishing changes in tone color can be achieved thru the application of buttons, levers and a pedal.

The violin, too, has been electrified, following the course previously taken by the guitar, mandolin, ukulele, and banjo.

AGREE TO CLEAR LAND TITLE, MOVE AIRPORT TRACKS

Job Will Take 6 to 8 More Months.

A plan was accepted yesterday by which title to a new right of way for tracks of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, now bisecting the Chicago airport area may be cleared within 48 hours. Work of building the new tracks is expected to start within a week or 10 days, but it will be at least six and perhaps eight months until the new enlarged airport will become a reality.

F. E. Morrow.

This estimate of the time required to lay 1½ miles of double track on the new right of way and to tear up the old tracks on airport property was made by F. E. Morrow, chief engineer of the railroad. He said it would be possible to get the work done within this period only if the weather proved favorable. Removal of the tracks will permit expansion of the airport to the north.

Way to Clear Title.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes announced that the Chicago Title and Trust company had accepted a formula by which title to the new right of way can be cleared. The city is to place $85,000 in escrow to guarantee payment of delinquent taxes on the property.

This money will be taken from the fund appropriated to enlarge the airport and will be gradually returned as owners pay up their back taxes. Joseph F. Grossman, first assistant corporation counsel, said he thought the plan would permit the city to obtain more tax revenue than would accrue if it had to rush thru compromise settlements now in order to clear title to the property.

The $85,000 is computed to cover all tax liens, including penalties and interest, to Jan. 1, 1941. Owners of 43 of the 78 parcels of land condemned for the new right of way owe back taxes.

Circuit Judge Denis J. Normoyle entered judgments during the day for $23,651 in delinquent taxes against eight of these parcels. The taxes are to be paid out of funds set aside to meet condemnation judgments against the properties. The 27 remaining properties owe back taxes totaling $35,083, so that the $85,000 cover offered the Title and Trust company is $50,000 more than is required.

$900,000 to Move Tracks.

Grossman estimated the total cost of removing the old tracks and constructing the new right of way at $900,000.

"We will be able to start constructing the new right of way within a week or 10 days," Morrow said. "Some of the materials are already ordered.

"We will have to get the grading and underground work, including drainage and the construction of ducts, completed before freezing sets in, but if we get started on this work by Sept. 1, we should get it done in time. This part of the job will take from two to three months."

BITING FISH KNOCK CHICAGO ANGLERS OFF THEIR PERCH

Bass, Muskies, and Pike Providing Action.

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishing fevers are common among Chicagoans, now that the thermometer readings are higher and the bass, muskies, walleyed pike, and other north woods fighters are showing more action. Reports from many areas in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan indicate that mounting temperature has sent hundreds of vacationists into the fishing areas, and most of these anglers have had good luck.

The Manitowish waters of northern Wisconsin, for years a favorite chain of lakes, have been providing a lot of fun lately. Dr. Carroll Eugene Cook of Chicago registered a muskie a day for each of the two days he fished there. Murray Baker, Peoria manufacturer and sportsman, duplicated Dr. Cook's record on two consecutive days.

Hooks a 24 Pound Muskie.

Charles Stohrer of 8416 Justine street is another successful Manitowish fisherman. His largest muskie weighed 24 pounds.

The walleyed pike also have been hitting well in those waters, judging by the record of Walter Domke of Golf, Ill. He caught a limit of walleyes each day for four consecutive days, and also had several good muskie strikes.

Tom, Dick, and Harry, singing and comedy trio of station W-G-N, "put on their act" the other day for the muskies, pike, and black bass of Ghost lake, about 22 miles east of Hayward, Wis. They came home with good strings.

Chicago sportsmen who visited Ghost lake earlier in the year, when the large walleyes were hitting, set some kind of record. After locating the big pike they landed nine of them [on artificial lures] for a total weight of 65 pounds.

Pike on a Feeding Spree.

The walleyed pike in the area around Three Lakes, Wis., are on a feeding spree. Dr. H. E. Turner of 3762 Lakewood avenue and J. J. Murphy of 215 Columbia avenue last week-end brought in their limits, the fish averaging from 1¾ to 2 pounds.

A party of four Chicagoans caught 28 bass, averaging 2 pounds each, one day last week in Big McKenzie lake, near Spooner, Wis. They were Elmer and Roy Johnson of 938 North Springfield avenue, John Norton of 1443 North Cicero avenue, and Arthur Kowitz of 4228 Potomac avenue. Their largest fish weighed 3½ pounds.

The Eagle River area also has produced some nice strings in the last few days. L. J. Radloff of 1255 Nelson street brought in a 31 pound muskie from Lost lake, to win top honors among Eagle river anglers last week. A. Olson Jr. of 6737 North Campbell avenue hooked four bass with a combined weight of 11 pounds.

Bass Providing Action.

The bass which inhabit Green bay, off Door county, Wisconsin, are giving anglers plenty of action. Mr. and Mrs. John McLeon Jr. of Winnetka, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Smalley of Highland Park, and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Babcock of Chicago caught 25 on one expedition last week. Their fish ranged from 1½ to 3 pounds in weight.

Merely an Illusion

Muskies Start Striking in Lakes Near Antigo, Wis.

Antigo, Wis., July 30 [Special].—Muskies in the Hy-Land lakes area around Antigo began to strike this week, and four Antigo fishermen were able to get, in two days, five muskies with a total weight of 89 pounds 13½ ounces. Frank Suick landed the largest. It weighed 27 pounds 13 ounces.

Jackson, Mich., to Honor Carrie Jacobs Bond, 78

Jackson, Mich., July 30 [Special].—The 78th birthday anniversary of Carrie Jacobs Bond, famous American composer, will be celebrated here Aug. 12. Mrs. Bond is coming to Jackson from her home in Hollywood to appear in the Cascades festival Aug. 10 to 17. It is expected 15,000 spectators will help her observe her anniversary.

MICHIGAN DUTCH TO HONOR DEEDS OF ANCESTORS

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 30 [Special]. — Descendants of the early Dutch settlers of the Grand Rapids district are planning to reenact, in a pageant next Tuesday and Wednesday, the dramatic history made by their ancestors.

The pageant is to be a part of the South Kent Community fair, to be held 3½ miles south of here. The show will be called "Queen's Day in the Netherlands," a queen will be selected by popular vote, and there will be 300 persons in the cast.

Also on the fair's program are performances by Barn Dance artists from Chicago.

ANCIENT HISTORY IS READ IN ROCKS OF SO. DAKOTA

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—An archeological expedition is reading the history of 10 million years ago in the Badlands of South Dakota.

The National Geographic society has announced that, instead of sending expeditions to far corners of the world during the European war, it is undertaking an intensive survey of some of the archeological sites of North America. The South Dakota State School of Mines is coöperating in the survey of the Badlands.

SANTA CLAUS, IND., NOW CAN CASH IN ON ITS BALLYHOO

Court Ruling Concludes Exploiters' Feud.

Santa Claus, Ind., July 30 [Special].—At last this Hoosier hamlet with the Christmas postmark is anticipating its transformation into the storybook town visioned for it in 1931, when it was proclaimed a gold mine as an exploitation and tourist center.

A new chapter was written recently, when the Indiana Supreme court ruled in effect that Santa Claus is not a real estate monopoly. The decision frees the village from future harassing litigation and revives former plans for its development as the children's dream city.

Now the promoters are being urged to get together, for the rights of all of them were affirmed. All stand to lose if the quarrel is continued, and none of them can prosper without aiding his rivals.

Exploitation contracts totaling several million dollars, and the making over of the town into a Yuletide mart as well as a tourist center, may be the result.

Park Injunction Reversed.

The decision reversed a ruling made five years ago in Shoals, Martin county, Ind., when Milton E. Harris, former Vincennes, Ind., salesman, now of Santa Claus, won a permanent injunction against Carl A. Barrett's development of a 32 acre tract as a Santa Claus park. The tribunal said Barrett believed he had a right to initiate his Santa Claus projects. Nor will he have to pay his rival $5,100 damages for erecting a mammoth granite statue of Santa Claus. The statue is on his own land, but the land was under prior lease to Harris. Barrett, a former New Harmony, Ind., promoter, is now an insurance executive in Chicago.

The two developers under the corporate names—Barrett as "Santa Claus, Inc.," and Harris as "Santa Claus of Santa Claus, Inc."—have been involved in constant litigation since 1935. Their wrangle in the Spencer County Circuit court, the Indiana Appellate court, and finally the Indiana Supreme court has halted much of the transformation activities.

All of it has hinged upon the popularity of the town's name. Children wrote thousands of letters to congressmen and others, protesting a squabble over their story book playground.

Barrett Keeps on Buying.

Thru the legal haze the Supreme court discerned that Barrett and his associates own land in Santa Claus—a great many choice acres, and have continued buying additional town lots and surrounding farmlands.

Harris formerly held leases on all of Santa Claus town for 5 miles in every direction from the celebrated postoffice. This included the acreage owned by Barrett. The rental leases contain options that give Harris exclusive right to purchase the land. But Barrett bought much acreage without knowledge that it was under lease to Harris, and other blocks with full knowledge that clauses in the Harris leases forbade use of the land by others for "traditional Santa Claus and Christmas purposes."

The Supreme court confirmed Barrett's ownership of one of the tracts and also said Harris' lease was valid. It added that it takes more than two persons to build a town.

Five years ago the late Judge Fabius Gwin of Shoals, Ind., ordered Barrett to stop work on his park, voided his land purchases, and assessed damages for delaying and infringing on the Harris enterprise.

Since then many similar Harris leases have expired. Others have been given up. In some cases these lands have come under the control of Barrett and his associates, who delayed development while court decisions were pending. Meanwhile free enterprise in behalf of the languishing village and its land owners was talked, with unrestricted privileges and coöperative help promised by Barrett toward early development of the cross roads. More and more every day Santa Claus took on the appearance of the tangled abode of the sleeping beauty.

Many Firms Gave Up.

Harris originally built a nursery rhyme amusement park, a candy castle, and a toy factory. From others who wished to compete he sought rental and exploitation fees, but novelty, toy, and juvenile goods manufacturers held off, believing ultimate court decisions would afford more desirable exhibition privileges or factory and office sites.

After five years only a few remain out of a score of national exhibitors who rushed in when the project was hailed and bid for by outstanding corporations. Now countless exploitation projects await the coöperation of the rival promoters.

HEALTH BOARD ISSUES TOURIST CAMP RATINGS

Springfield, Ill., July 30 (AP).—The state department of public health has issued a rating-guide book, listing 646 tourist camps in Illinois and classifying them by sanitary standards set by the department.

Of the total listed, 398—more than half—were given "D" ratings, which, according to an explanatory note, indicated "one or more facilities which are not in accord with present sanitary practice and which are considered health hazards."

One hundred twenty-five of the Class "D" camps had a "temporary D" rating, indicating, the pamphlet said, "they were maintaining facilities which were considered a health hazard at the time of inspection," but planned improvements.

Only eight "AA" ratings were given. There were 43 "A" camps, 102 with a "B" rating, and 94 in the "C" class.

Classifications were based upon condition of water supplies, lavatories, cabins, sewerage, showers, locations, general cleanliness, and trailer facilities.

'Behind the Scenes' Tour of Mexico Is Planned

Headed by Prof. P. R. Hershey of Northwestern university, a group of midwesterners will leave Chicago next Sunday for a four weeks' "behind the scenes" tour of Mexico. Prof. Hershey, an authority on Mexican culture, will take his party on a study trip to the archeological zone and pyramids of San Juan Teotihuacan, as well as to Mexico City, Morelia, Patzcuaro, Taxco, and Cuernavaca.

DEADWOOD GETS READY TO HONOR "BAD OLD DAYS"

Deadwood, S. D., July 30 [Special].—The ghosts of Wild Bill Hickok, Calamity Jane, and other celebrities of the gold rush era will reappear—by proxy—here on Thursday.

For weeks the women of Deadwood have been searching old trunks for pioneer clothing, and the men have been letting their whiskers grow, to present an authentic picture of the time when this city was the gathering place of those who panned for gold. The picture will be shown the latter part of the week at the celebration of "The Days of '76."

Parades are to be held in the morning, rodeos in the afternoon, and replicas of old time scenes in the evening. Stagecoaches, surreys, and Indian conveyances, constituting America's largest collection of ancient vehicles, will be used in the parades.

Air Conditioned Coaches Put in Service to Detroit

Eight new coaches, air conditioned, and each accommodating 41 passengers, were placed in service on the Greyhound Lines between Chicago and Detroit the first of this week. They are equipped with 175 horse power Diesel engines.

Travel Queries Answered

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accomodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self addressed envelope.

Two hundred sixty-four miles.

When is the best time to see the autumn colorings in the Yosemite valley? R. B. H.

In late October and early November. At that time the leaves of the oak, maple, and dogwood trees turn to flaming red, gold, and brown.

We plan to spend our vacation in Rocky Mountain National park. Are there any places good for swimming there? G. Y.

Yes. The park has more than 40 lakes.

I have been told that one of the principal sights along the inside passage to Alaska is that of the blue-green ice of the Taku glacier being gradually broken down by the sea on which it is borne. How large is the glacier? C. K.

A mile and a half wide and 200 feet high.

Some time ago I read that somewhere in Nova Scotia there is a large hotel without a single chimney. Any information on the subject? B. L.

It is the Nova Scotian, in Halifax. Steam for heating is obtained from a nearby power plant, and electricity is used for cooking. So there is no good reason for chimneys.

When will the water festival be held at Pentwater, Mich? N. C.

Aug. 2 to 4.

I am still confused about what documents are necessary for American citizens returning from Canada. Can you help me out? E. J. Q.

United States immigration officers at the border ask returning Americans to prove their citizenship. This may be done with a birth certificate, baptismal certificate, voter's registration card, naturalization certificate, old passport, tax bill, or similar document.

EXPANDING OUR UNARMED FORCES.

A renewed request has been made by President Roosevelt for authority to summon the National Guard into federal service. With his letter to congress he has inclosed the draft of a bill which would allow him to call up the Guard for as much as a year's service and send these troops anywhere in the western hemisphere or to any of the overseas territories and possessions, including the Philippines. The same authorization would cover the officers and men on the army's reserve rolls.

It is singular that the President has failed either in the covering letter or in the bill to define the emergency which he believes justifies these measures. He speaks of "the increasing seriousness of the international situation"; he is "convinced that the security of the nation demands" the proposed steps; but these phrases are nearly meaningless.

The calling of the Guard and the reserves would come close to doubling the armed forces, or perhaps more accurately, the unarmed forces of the United States within the months which lie ahead. Plainly Mr. Roosevelt, if he is sincere, foresees war as immediately threatening and he is asking a quarter of a million militiamen to sacrifice a year of their lives to safeguard the nation against the impending danger.

Needless to say, the sacrifice is one which the members of the Guard and their families with the fewest exceptions will make gladly if the invasion of the country is threatened. Unfortunately, Mr. Roosevelt has given no hint of where he thinks the danger lies. He is as vague as he could be and the consequence is that members of congress are left in the dark. They are asked to enact a law the justification for which is kept secret. So far as the country knows, no foreign nation is contemplating an attack upon us in the next few months and no foreign nation appears to be prepared or preparing for such an attack. If Mr. Roosevelt has information to the contrary he should make it public or at least give the people some idea of the thing he fears. To do less is to repudiate the first principle of democratic government.

Meanwhile it is scarcely necessary to point out that the Guard is trained to fight a war of the 1918 model. The principal deficiency in training is in the use of the new weapons and tactics introduced in Europe in 1940. Very few of these weapons will be available within the next year, and the army command itself has not yet learned the new tactics.

The other day Mr. Al Williams, the former marine flyer who was among the first to call attention to the state of our unpreparedness in the air, wrote that deliveries of equipment to this country were limited because of the heavy exports of military supplies to foreign buyers. These sales, whether advisable or not, will prove a serious deterrent to equipping the militia for the training which Mr. Roosevelt believes it must have. Men cannot be taught to operate tanks without tanks or to fight in airplanes when they have no airplanes. The regular army and the foreign buyers have been given priority and it is altogether certain that in many particulars the Guard regiments will have completed their training without having advanced much in the art of war as it is fought in 1940.

AMERICAN GOLD.

Walther Funk, Nazi minister of economics, in a statement on the economic future of Europe, said that in his opinion America's gold is worthless. If it is to remain in vaults and not be circulated, it might as well, he said, be sunk in the ocean. The world would learn to get along without it.

Mr. Funk's observations need to be taken with some reservations. The metal is still regarded with some affection. Even the Nazis, beginning with the descent on Austria, have hastened to lay their hands on the gold stocks of the conquered countries. By such appropriations they are supposed by now to have laid aside a tidy sum.

America's gold treasure contains metal which the alarmed possessors abroad hurried into better keeping here against days of wrath the miseries of which they could not fully calculate. They liked to feel that somewhere they had a nest egg if there should come a chance to start life anew and if by then they thought it was worth while to do so.

Most of our economists think the gold store is far from being a rubbish heap. Some of them believe it should be returned to circulation, even if a great many people getting possession of hard money again did their own burying of it, in the geranium bed without the benefit of a mechanized cavalary regiment. Our funny money, it is true, holds its own fairly well. Everybody would like to get a piece of it, but it is funny money. It has funny promises on it. A ten dollar federal reserve note assures you that the United States of America will pay you ten dollars. What ten dollars? You already have ten dollars if you have the note.

A ten dollar silver certificate informs you that there is on deposit in the treasury of the United States ten dollars in silver and that it is payable to the bearer on demand. The bearer doesn't want ten silver dollars. He wants what he has, folding money. Our funny money hasn't become phony money yet altho our monetary experts have made it illegal to exchange it for the metal which is supposed to give the paper value. Some day the monetary experts may monkey around until they do something explosive. They have not succeeded yet.

Herr Funk knows that if he permitted an American to enter Europe with a pocket full of double eagles the traveling Yank, if free to spend, could buy out the place.

MR. ROOSEVELT IN THE SHIPYARDS.

When Mr. Roosevelt visited the navy shipyards at Portsmouth, Va., he was told by Rear Admiral Manley H. Simons that the workmen wanted to do a six day week on the government rearmament program. The navy department officials have said that there is a shortage of skilled workmen. The department is combing the country to get trained men. The construction work can't be speeded up without them. The men on the job could help by working six days instead of five. The New Deal won't allow it. This is a seven day war on public emotion—five in the shops.

Mr. Roosevelt responded to the suggestion with a hearty laugh and with the remark that the men wanted to work longer only to make more money. This is an astonishing state of affairs. The skilled workers would like to earn more money and they are willing to work for it. The unique idea appealed to the chief of the New Deal as a humorous item. If the men had suggested that they would work less to be paid more, Mr. Roosevelt might have recognized the prevailing philosophy of the last seven years.

Furthermore, it was comical that men who will be responsible for the success of the emergency preparations regarding which Mr. Roosevelt addresses congress every other day and the country three or four times a week should want to get in some real licks to make their country safe from the dangers he says are immediately at hand.

To Mr. Roosevelt's credit, it must be noted that he was not angry. He didn't rebuke the unsocial tendencies of the workmen who wanted to work longer and earn more money, altho that is un-American as the New Deal chief views his new social era. Mr. Roosevelt wasn't angry; he was amused and laughed. He knows that everything is being done for the safety of the country if he writes messages to congress and obtains appropriations in astronomical figures. If things are put "on order," all is well. If he sends his press clippings to Herr Hitler the Nazis will be deterred from any designs they might have upon this country.

WHEN FRANCE LOST THE WAR.

The collapse of France, if it did not begin with the induction of the Blum Popular Front government, was made fatefully certain by the measures and economic ideas of that government. M. Blum, a peace loving socialist, began the French New Deal with a combination of radicals, communists, and saboteurs. They struck at private industry and government credit. They restricted hours of work, increased the public debt, and took possession of plants. Particularly they took over airplane plants and munition works.

Unfortunately for France, just when its democracy went into an era of unreason developing internal conflict and doing internal injury, the enemy under compulsion and under a direction calculated to produce results was forcing labor and productive plant at top speed. The Blum government fell as a result of its reckless program, but the damage it had done was not liquidated with it. The injury lived on.

It could be said of Blum, and was said, that he meant well. He believed that his measures would add to the comforts and happiness of Frenchmen altho he soon found the irresponsible elements of his Front could not be controlled. After he had departed from the scene the agitators with whom he had worked rebelled against his successors. They resorted to the sitdown and other strikes. There were riotous conflicts with the mobile guards. The railroad workers had to be mobilized to keep the transport going. The bitterness of faction grew.

As Germany was being fused into military unity under a disciplining tyranny, France was disintegrating and its physical plant was made unequal to the demands upon it. Daladier was the man who finally tried to restore economic and industrial order. He is about to go on trial for losing the war. The war was lost when the Popular Front gained control.

NOT A POLIO YEAR.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

This is the season when public health officers are on the watch for poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis. That dreaded infection is partial to July, August, and September; and it is usually possible to foretell the degree of its intensity for the whole year by the mid-July figures.

Baltimore's health department reports that there is at present no case of poliomyelitis in the city. There has been only one case this year, that one having been in April. With July drawing to a close the prospect is highly favorable. It is possible that August and September will mar this almost perfect record, but there is no reason to expect a visitation in large numbers.

This forecast, it appears, holds good for all the country save only the Pacific coast. United States public health service reports for the week ending July 13 show California and Washington leading the country with 27 and 17 cases, respectively, with only 87 other cases reported by the remaining 46 states. Three other states, Texas with seven, and Alabama and Iowa with five each, account for 17 more cases, reducing the average for the other 43 states to less than one each. The total for the country is 101, which compares with 143 cases reported for the corresponding week of last year.

The most encouraging situation is in the east, especially in the South Atlantic section, where poliomyelitis was widely prevalent last summer. The center of last year's outbreak was in South Carolina, and there was some fear of a recurrence. There are, however, only three cases reported in that state for the week ending July 13 as against 20 cases for the corresponding week of last July.

On the strength of the returns thus far, this is not a poliomyelitis year anywhere east of the Rocky mountains.

[Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.]

Back in 1930 Washington, D. C., had a population of 486,869. It has increased 36.6 per cent in the last decade, to 663,153. A considerable share of that increase is due to federal employés, who numbered 68,510 10 years ago and 130,937 last June, without counting their families. And civil service spokesmen estimate another 5,000 federal workers, with 15,000 dependents, will arrive on the defense boom shortly.

Under those circumstances, is it any wonder that a special paragraph was included in the Democratic platform, supporting extension of the right of suffrage to the residents of the District of Columbia? Think of all the good Democrats down there.

THE CURRENT OBSESSION.

Weather like this caused Rudyard Kipling, when a cub reporter in British India, to decide upon a career in literature. He got the idea that free lance writing was the only way in which he could escape from that hellish climate. He tells about it in "Something of Myself," thus:

"It happened one hot weather evening, in '86 or thereabouts, when I felt that I had come to the end of my endurance. As I entered my empty house in the dusk there was no more in me except the horror of a great darkness, that I must have been fighting for some days. I came thru that darkness alive, but how I do not know. Late at night I picked up a book by Walter Besant which was called 'All in a Garden Fair.'"

This was a story about a young writer; it gave Kipling hope and strength. He began to save money for his escape from India.

What has become of the old fashioned palm leaf fan? And the custom of pulling the beds over to the windows on sultry, breezeless nights?

We'd like to get to the bottom of that old story about the British in India drinking hot tea to stave off heatstroke. Iced tea would be reasonable, but of course the British have a racial prejudice against the use of ice, except in manners. We suspect that the hot tea story belongs to the oriental legend which states that only mad dogs and Englishmen walk in the midday sun.

Sydney Smith [not the cartoonist who invented Andy Gump] tossed off a quip about hot weather that is regarded as a classic. Lady Holland, his daughter, quoted him as saying:

"Heat, ma'am! It was so dreadful here that I found there was nothing left for it but to take off my flesh and sit in my bones."

ROBIN HOOD'S BARN.

The spacious sky a lofty roof,
The earth a dancing floor,
Unmeasured walls of wind
And clouds hung at the door!

A river in the back yard,
A red cliff for a fence;
In front an open highway
Where all dreams commence.

Meadows where the morning
Walks on gilded feet,
Singing to the grasses,
Smiling on the wheat.

Pines upon the windy peaks,
Aspen on parade,
Balm of Gilead to sweeten
Some forgotten glade.

Secret heights inhabited
By the small, shy deer;
Places where the antelope
Clamber without fear.

Come away then, come away,
Shun this weight of roof and wall,
The greenwood stirs with mystery,

The War God's Favorite Food.

Your last line of July 26, quoting a German general of an earlier day as saying, "We will go thru the average conscript army like a knife thru warm butter," brings to mind Goering's "Guns will make us powerful; butter will only make us fat."

German military men seem to be constantly linking butter with things warlike, and maybe they've got something there. Perhaps butter does have some resemblance to an army. For example:

1. Only the cream is used.
2. After a period of working or beating a complete metamorphosis takes place, resulting in an entirely new product bearing practically no resemblance to the original material.
3. They both melt under fire.

Incitement to Assault and Battery.

Linemaster, would you like to write a great literary masterpiece? Here's how. Go out and commit a crime, any crime will do; get yourself put in the hoosegow and then begin to write. Whatever you write under those circumstances will be immortal.

So you want proof that this system will work? O. K. I here give it to you: John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," Cervantes' "Don Quixote," and Adolf Hitler's "Mein Kampf." The first of these authors was jailed for heresy, the second for embezzlement, and the third for "disturbing the peace."

S. Nosakcid.

AFTER SUNDAY DINNER.

On Sunday after getting up from dinner,
When you have eaten quite enough for two,
And recognize that you're not getting thinner,
Here's what I'd like to recommend to you:
Go take a walk among the trees and flowers,
Go out and with the bees and birds commune;
In outdoor exercise renew your powers,
And put your soul with Nature more in tune;
You'll find it's grand for anything that ails you—
You're monarch of the earth and all that's in it;
But just before you hit those lovely trails, you

One Way to Laugh Off the Heat.

According to scientists this heat we have been experiencing is old stuff. For instance, if you stood on the Tribune Tower and were able to stretch your arms to the sun the probability is you would scorch your fingers. But it would take a matter of some 164 years before the sensation reached your brain. There is no suggestion in this of being slow in the uptake. It is merely based on a mathematical calculation that the nervous impulse of sensation is transmitted at a speed of about two and a half feet per second. So all of this so-called discomfort that people have made such a fuss about might be said to have started in 1776.

WORRIES AND INDIGESTION.

SYMPTOMS of indigestion—troubles somewhere along the alimentary tract—are the greatest actors and mimics with which we have to deal. Every physician therefore is obliged to question and study the one who comes to him full of woe—with a list of complaints a block long. The reason is that the autonomic [sympathetic] nervous system may translate into an upset bowel—hurt sensibilities, temper, or unhappiness.

Now, some persons are constitutionally unable to face life. They lack will power and stamina. A wage earner may be confronted with an untenable situation at home. It so fills his mind that he can think of little else. In consequence, food may digest but partially and—sooner or later—nausea or vomiting may come on.

There are literally thousands of emotional states that may give rise to just such symptoms. The duty of the medical man is to separate those with a direct organic basis from the group called "functional." This means, first of all, that he must listen to the patient's story, gain his confidence, and thus uncover the trigger element that has forged the first link in the long chain of distressing signs of illness.

A case that came under my observation had to do with a most attractive matron who began to lose weight [not intentionally] and who visited her doctor in great perturbation because she had noticed flecks of whitish looking mucus in the stools. No blood was detected and X-rays revealed no abnormalities. Nevertheless she was miserable, unhappy, and jittery.

Within a few weeks, however, her adviser was able to elicit the information that she was greatly worried about her son who had developed wayward tendencies and over whom she felt she had lost control. Her husband—a busy industrialist—took little interest in the lad, altho he had made several attempts to place him in positions where he would have a real opportunity in the business world. The young man had lost one job after another until the mother was in despair. After every unsatisfactory interview with her offspring an attack of diarrhea would occur.

Several weeks were needed to persuade the patient that her colon disturbance was merely a reflex from her mental turmoil. Mild sedatives gave her some relief, but it required a family council—which included the medico—to convince the father that something had to be done. He then realized that his wife was in danger of chronic invalidism. A program was mapped out that put the boy on his feet.

This experience took place more than two years ago and—as soon as the young man began to "make good"—the condition progressed to complete recovery.

Every doctor has observed numerous cases of similar character. All emphasize the marked influence of nerves over muscles and organs. No! This overanxious mother wasn't unusual. She was really normal, but her concern got the better of her nervous stability.

But we must be alert, however, not to dismiss as emotional manifestations those which point squarely at some actual disease.

TOE CRAMPS.

W. W. writes: What causes cramps in the toes?

REPLY.

VACCINE FOR IMPETIGO.

L. S. writes: Is there any vaccine that will prevent impetigo in a child? I keep my little boy very clean but he develops this disease periodically.

REPLY.

Staphylococcus vaccines may be helpful. Your physician will no doubt begin with very small doses. Applying a thin coating of ammoniated mercury ointment following the daily bath may be of value.

ICE TREATMENT.

H. G. writes: Is the frozen or ice treatment of chronic appendicitis safe and effective?

REPLY.

Neither safe nor effective. Merely a stunt.

ECZEMA.

T. R. writes: Eczema appears on my fingers every summer. If I go to the shore on my vacation, will the salt water be injurious to my skin?

REPLY.

It may be helpful due to the fact that you will escape from the substance to which you are reacting. The cause of your trouble is an individual sensitivity to something in your environment or in your diet. A long series of tests may be necessary to identify the culprit. If improvement does not occur during your vacation, hunt for the offender on your return.

Test Your Facts

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, turn to page 23 in the Want Ad section for the correct answers, and mark your score:

1. Poor man's silver is a name that was once applied to:
[a] Aluminum, [b] cast iron, [c] pewter.
2. What state did "Uncle Joe" Cannon represent for 46 years in congress?
[a] Illinois, [b] Georgia, [c] Kentucky.
3. Where is the Painted Desert?
[a] Texas, [b] Wyoming, [c] Arizona.
4. If you multiply the number 40 by the number 10 what name is given to the number 40?

IN OUR CITY HALL.

North Chicago, Ill., July 28.—Perhaps some one can tell me what has happened to the birth certificates for the years 1913 and 1915. And what is the matter with the clerks down in the city hall? Don't they know their work? My oldest son gave up two of his lunch hours to get his two brothers' certificates and went to the health department, where they sent him hither and thither. He was finally given an affidavit to be taken to our city clerk. Then the younger son had to take it down to the city hall in Chicago and he was ordered from one window to another and then was told to take it to the window he started from. Well, he told them where he had been and perhaps they would then be able to tell him where to go. Finally they told him to leave the affidavits there and they would mail them out to him—a job that was supposed to take 10 minutes.

Well, this was a Saturday. Tuesday morning one of the certificates came and the other was mailed to J. Howard Sandidge of San Gabriel, Cal., along with his son's certificate. Mr. Sandidge was kind enough to send it back to me via air mail. If the health department sent out a chaser, where would they look? I suppose it would be up to me to pay 75 cents more for another duplicate.

What is the matter with the Chicago health office? Don't they know their business? Two certificates, $1.50. Carfare, $1.30. Two lunch hours shot and then the certificate missent at that. Why such incompetence?

MRS. CARL HANSON.

HE ALSO HAS LAIN AWAKE.

Chicago, July 26.—In his speech of acceptance the President mentioned a conscience and that he lay awake nights for a week. Is that all? As a small business man I have lain awake at night for seven years wondering if he had a conscience.

At another time in addressing congress he used the phrase "and I shall come to you from time to time for more appropriations" [billions]. There speaks the man he ever was.

Has any one ever heard him speak or practice economy, we who foot his bills of extravagance can say.

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

MINOR'S INHERITANCE.

Chicago, July 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have named my husband as first beneficiary on my insurance policy and my 7 year old daughter as second beneficiary.

1. I was told I must appoint an administrator for my daughter.
2. What is the general procedure in appointing one?
3. Can I name more than one, according to choice? I would also like to make a will.
4. Is it necessary to have a lawyer's assistance, or [5] can I make a valid will by just filling in a regular will form and having it notarized?

T. L.

1. If this information came from a lawyer, we are confident that he used the word "guardian" rather than "administrator."
2. The appointment of a legal guardian would require application to the Probate court and for this purpose an attorney should be employed.
3. Yes, but the court would not necessarily be bound by your choice.
4. Yes, but we advise the employment of an attorney.
5. Yes, but see 4.

TODAY IN HISTORY

July 31, 1914

Russian czar ordered mobilization of entire Russian army to intervene in behalf of Serbia in the dispute with Austria. Germany, an ally of Austria, immediately sent an ultimatum demanding that the order be revoked. When this was not done within the stipulated 12 hours, Germany declared war on Russia. When France, an ally of Russia, evaded questions as to her status, Germany likewise declared war on France.

SCIENCE TO SAVE THE FARM.

Sheboygan, Wis., July 26.—I read with much interest your July 22 editorial, "Can Capitalism Keep Ahead?" You could have gone deeper into the subject, however, by discussing the importance of work in progress in the laboratories of private industry.

There 500 scientists are solving the agricultural problem. They are proposing to use everything, including weeds, chips of wood, cornstalks, casein in milk, and the soy bean in manufacturing a wide variety of useful articles. Automobiles are virtually to be grown down on the farm. When that time comes a sign "Men Wanted" will be nailed on the door of every factory in the land. That is, if private industry is relieved from its present bondage clamped on it by the New Dealers. Obviously the result of the labors of scientists is to have an exhilarating effect on keeping capitalism ahead. This is in contrast to New Deal politicians who plow under crops and destroy live stock with the silly idea that it makes the farmer prosperous.

FRANK ZUFELT.

THEIR THANKS TO THE TRIBUNE.

Chicago, July 20.—On Friday, July 12, we advertised thru the columns of The Tribune for a donor who had recovered from a streptococcus viridans infection to give blood for a transfusion to Mrs. Estelle Reed who was in St. Elizabeth hospital with a subacute bacterial endocarditis. There were 60 or 70 replies and from these volunteers 2 were selected. Following the transfusions together with the use of sulphopyridine, I am glad to report that the patient has so far recovered that she has been sent home to Ohio for her convalescence.

This letter is to express our appreciation of the splendid results obtained thru the classified advertising columns of The Tribune and your courteous coöperation in announcing our need over the radio together with the supplementary story in the news columns. The patient's family and all of us who are connected with the case are deeply grateful.

CARL G. ROBERTS, M.D.

THE WILL TO WIN.

Chicago, July 26.—I have a letter dated July 1 from my sister-in-law in Sussex, England. She lives in a little seacoast town in the south, a particularly vulnerable spot for invasion.

Her statement, in my opinion, shows an indomitable spirit which undoubtedly pervades in all in England. She says:

"It must feel quite odd to be in a country not at war—altho naturally no one here now would budge out of England, unless to take their young children away.

"We are all perfectly confident of success here, altho we all know we shall have a bad time first, but we can 'take it.'"

Isn't that the spirit which should and will win the war of right against might?

E. GORDON HARBURG.

ASKS FOR MORE POLICE.

Chicago, July 27.—There is a shortage of 4,000 policemen in Chicago, according to Capt. Prendergast of the uniformed service. Other cities are increasing their police forces, and New York recently added 1,000 new men to combat fifth column activities; but the "Windy City" stands idly, watching her own police steadily diminish by deaths, retirements, and separations, without filling these vacancies.

If Mayor Kelly wishes to "Keep Chicago Ahead" he should issue a call for 4,000 police immediately to stop crime and traffic accidents and suppress the fifth columnists. Communists are seeking all vital information pertaining to the water supply, electricity, subway, food and milk centers, railroads, gas supplies, and bridges.

There are more than 2,600 young men on the police eligible list who took their examinations four years ago. Why does the mayor refuse to call them?

FRANK COLE.

FROM AN ICE CREAM STORE.

Chicago, July 25.—You probably have heard this one before! How is the man with an ice cream store supposed to make a living today? When the warm weather finally does get here, after weeks of waiting, we have the ice cream carts standing outside our stores taking away the business we might have with which to pay rent, gas, electric, sales tax, and other expenses.

We probably have the sentiment of other storekeepers thruout the city, but what are we to do? There ought to be a law against it . . . there is in other large cities. Hoping this gets printed.

M. L. B.

THE ARMY DOESN'T VOTE.

Williams Bay, Wis., July 25.—Why has no one brought up one of the most important points of all in the scheme to turn our country to national socialism? Namely: the army doesn't vote!

The men didn't enlist fast enough to suit the powers that be, so they are going to draft as many as possible before November.

Need I say more?

MURIEL F. SEYMOUR.

JUDGES AND CLERKS ALSO.

Chicago, July 25.—I agree with your editorial that watchers for the Republicans should be given intensive training, but you did not go far enough. You should have included judges and clerks of election. They, too, should be informed of the various means that are used to steal votes. Forewarned is forearmed.

A CLERK.

A KINDLY SUGGESTION.

Chicago, July 26.—Why doesn't every one put out a pan of water, somewhere in the shade, for dogs, cats, and birds, especially in this hot weather?

NEWS and REVIEWS

Best Seller in England Makes American Debut

"Gold for My Bride," by Norman Collins. (Harpers, $2.50.) Published last Thursday.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

From England, where it is published as "I Shall Not Want" and where it achieved the fabulous sale (for England) of more than 150,000 copies, "Gold for My Bride" has reached us, trailing clouds of critical glory and piquing our curiosity about what sort of novel has won such popularity at a time like this.

Incidentally, another American publisher with a London branch, the Appleton-Century company, has just reported astonishingly that its business is 70 per cent normal in volume and almost entirely normal in its functioning, and that despite the fact that every man in the organization, with the exception of two, has been called to government service.

"Gold for My Bride" is escape literature, not in the sense of being gay and amusing, but in the sense of being utterly and completely remote from any world crisis, and of having its villain reassuringly paid off for his villainy.

John Marco is a model member of the Amos Immersionist Tabernacle as the book opens, attending a baptismal ceremony. When the ceremony is interrupted by an importunate woman who demands that the minister rush to a dying man, John is sent as vicar.

From the moment that John steps into the house of the dying man his life pattern changes. He is entrusted with a box full of money for the tabernacle and, almost unintentionally, steals from it 150 pounds. His guilt is never to cease harassing him.

Thru 435 compelling pages vengeance for his theft pursues him. He reaches fabulous heights of material success. He is never able to achieve any spiritual uplift. Each of the 150 English pounds which he stole is a pound of lead hanging onto his spirit.

He marries without love. He begets a son who is taught to hate him. His fellow Amosites lose all respect for him. And he comes finally to the realization that no human being loves him for himself. Materially he is fantastically successful, but his life is utter, desolate failure . . . until the book's final dramatic sentence, when "John Marco, without a penny to his name, was lying there at his ease, smiling."

"Gold for My Bride" is in the Dickens tradition of the English novel, detailed, populous, where fantastic things happen to people.

"Clear for Action," by Clements Ripley. [Appleton-Century, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

The most popular of all escape literature nowadays seems to be the historical novel. Here is one that has as hero John Paul Jones, whose life, its author says in an introduction, was so dramatic in itself that he had to invent practically nothing to make a thriller out of it. How little he did invent will be plain to any reader who takes the trouble to look up the commodore in any biographical dictionary.

From the time that he left Tobago unceremoniously as John Paul Jones [the Jones a humorous governor's quipping dubbing] to escape trial as murderer of a mutineer, the hero swaggers thru these pages and "his mind ran ever on two things; the other was ships."

Beautiful ladies in Charleston, Richmond, Philadelphia, Paris—wherever John Paul could be distracted by them—never did, however, win his heart as did a fine, swift ship, and the capture of a British prize ship gave him moments of exaltation which no woman ever did.

Mr. Ripley has invented a Scotch clerk as John Paul Jones' friend and as narrator. He uses a good many Gallicisms, and there is aplenty and more of the talk of the time and the dialect of the places that fate took them to, but the tale has zest and fire and is lustily amusing.

Angus' story ends with John Paul Jones' decision to go to Russia, leaving all of that colorful and dramatic period of the doughty little commodore's life for—one presumes—a sequel.

George Arliss Tells Easy to Read Story of His Life as Actor

"My Ten Years in the Studios," by George Arliss. [Little-Brown, $3.50.]

George Arliss, the English actor, here describes his motion picture career from 1928 to the time of writing with an easy, informal style that is sprinkled with humor. The result is not great autobiography, but is very readable and should prove of interest to persons who like actors and the stage. Mr. Arliss describes in some detail how he made each of his pictures. His description of the funeral of George V. and of the coronation of George VI. are especially well done. R. C.

'M Day': 2 Books Explain What It Is and How It Works

"M Day," by Leo M. Cherne. [Simon & Schuster, $1.]

Since the outbreak of the war in Europe, nearly every one has become familiar with the term, M day, the designation used by the war and navy departments for the day when the United States would mobilize for war. Few, however, know the extent to which daily lives would be effected by it. These two books explain in detail what M day would mean to the average citizen.

Donald Keyhoe treats M day in fictional form as tho the United States had declared war. Then as the program starts to function, he skips about the country from hamlet to farm, showing what might happen in individual cases.

But for complete and comprehensive details in virtually any question which could arise, consult Leo M. Cherne's book. Would you be subject to active service? Would you be deferred temporarily or permanently? In what industry would you likely be exempt? What would happen to your family if you were called? Mr. Cherne has the answers.

American Northwest Subject of Scholarly and Definitive Survey

"Frontiers of the Northwest," by Harold E. Briggs. [Appleton-Century, $5.]

The adjective for this book is "valuable" rather than "entertaining." It is the product of a scholar's definitive research, and it bears the marks—footnotes, heavy style, sometimes ponderous reasoning. Yet there is a virility about the west that will not be downed, and there is a great deal of interest here for those who are willing to work a bit for it.

Prof. Briggs covers the history of the upper Missouri from six points of view—agriculture, mining, sheep, cattle, buffalo, and settlement. It is rather like six excursions into a country, each from a different angle, each past different scenery. But the whole picture is integrated, and the reader is left with a new understanding of the forces at work during the settlement of the west. W. D.

New Novel Out

"Lovers' Meeting," by Lady Eleanor Smith. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

From the pen of Lady Eleanor Smith comes another popular escape book, a love story which spans a century and a quarter and dexterously plays with the concept of time.

In it a man and a girl of today meet without understanding their attraction for each other, for she is only 16 and, to him, a child. A few years later their "Lovers' Meeting" seems too late, for he has meanwhile married, tho not happily. But they feel strangely destined for each other.

Just how destined the reader finds out when they are both thrust back into time, into Regency England. There their lots are reversed, and the proud lover, as a mere tutor to the family of the imperious young creature, is determined to return to today, and, almost against her will, persuades her to return with him.

But fate again intervenes, and the last part of the book finds the man recovering from a nervous breakdown and comfortably, if not lyrically, a husband to the wife whom he recognizes as a woman who loved him a century and more ago.

If you can swallow the major premise, "Lovers' Meeting" is an interesting piece of work. The author has chosen the most difficult of all literary tricks, and she brings it off with more than the usual skill. F. B.

Authors and Their Work

The author of "The Nutmeg Tree" [Little-Brown, $2.50], Margery Sharp, writes her publishers that she has been helping to get in the hay at her country house in England.

Irving D. Tressler, whose "Horse and Buggy Daze" [Howell-Soskin, $1.50], has just been published, writes from Wisconsin that his mother and father, whom he is visiting, "still wish he would find something worth while to write about."

Margaret Mackprang Mackay writes her publisher, the John Day company, that her husband is about to start a shop in Peiping that will deal in fine ivories and jades and lacquers similar to the shop she wrote about in "Lady with Jade" [John Day, $2.50].

Historical Tale Is Exciting and Full of Humor

"The Terror of Peru," by Meade Minnigerode. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

"Ask Me Tomorrow," by James Gould Cozzens. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

This probably will turn out to be the most refreshing historical novel you have read since "A Connecticut Yankee." It is colorful and exciting, as a historical novel should be. And it is killingly funny.

Mr. Minnigerode takes apart the grand, romantic 18th century thru the turmoils and loves of young Jules Cotrel, a French sea captain of 23. Jules overdoes everything so ridiculously that he is a living burlesque of the age in which he lives.

He is accompanied by a shrewd, hardbitten servant, one Crozon, whose salty remarks and earthy reactions to Jules' impossible situations make him as modern as a Ring Lardner character.

A thin volume called "S. S. San Pedro" brought Mr. Cozzens to the attention of thousands of American readers a decade ago when it was chosen by the Book of the Month club. It was a story based upon the Vestris disaster. Mr. Cozzens has written several books since then, but "Ask Me Tomorrow" may well be called his masterpiece in character portrayal.

The hero, Francis Ellery, is a young New Englander who has written two books that have failed to sell so well, but he goes to Europe to become a great writer. He becomes instead the tutor of a boy of 12 and spends most of the time torturing himself with the mind pictures of what he'd like to be. As often happens in books, his dream suddenly materializes. But, as doesn't happen so often in books, it wasn't what he wanted at all.

'How to Fly a Plane' Set Forth in Simple and Graphic Volume

"How to Fly a Plane," by H. P. Oldham, R. A. F. [Waverly House, $2.50.]

The technique and the sensations of learning how to travel in the most fragile of all mediums—the air—are the grist of this interesting book. For the earthbound but curious reader it will give an enlightening glimpse into the mysterious art of flying a plane. For the ambitious student-to-be it should provide an exceedingly useful background of familiarity with things aeronautical. The book is done in simple language, illustrated with diagrams and spiced with good humor. W. D.

Writes of Past

"The Shadow Catcher," by Donald Sloan. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.75.]

"The Shadow Catcher" matches all the glowing descriptions of life in Polynesia which have tumbled from the pens of travel writers for the last 20 years, but with this difference: Donald Sloan was not one of these cruise tourists who spend a week in Pango Pango or Tahiti and then write enthusiastic superficialities; Sloan stayed almost two years, living with the natives, eating their food, talking their language, trying his best to understand them.

So maybe it's all true what they say about Polynesia — the girls are lovely and laughing; kava, roast pig, yams, and shark meat can agglomerate the most succulent food on earth; theft is one art which has escaped introduction into Samoa; the sun beats benevolently; the southern seas are warm and opalescent.

Sloan—called "The Shadow Catcher" because he was a photographer—draws just this sort of picture of the islands of Manua which are rarely visited by the tourist. P. W.

MURDER IS NOT MUTE . . . . . By Audrey Newell

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Detective Patrick Doyle of New York City is vacationing in a small town resort when, while walking in the woods on the estate of Adolph Wunsch, he stumbles upon a skeleton. He tells Thurman Briault, Wunsch's brother-in-law, his discovery and Briault tries to bribe Doyle to keep quiet. Instead the detective reports it to police headquarters and Officer Madden and Judge Blain accompany him back to the spot, only to find the skeleton gone. Trailing fresh footprints, they find the skeleton buried a short distance away. Dr. Blake, the coroner, says it is the skeleton of a girl in her late teens and that she was murdered. Madden asks Doyle to help him solve the mystery. The judge finds some blue yarn on nearby twigs and the three men encounter Wunsch playing golf on his estate and question him. In the meantime, Wunsch's young wife, Paula, is worrying about her unhappy marriage. She married for money in order to help her mother and brother and she found that her husband treated them all like prisoners. While she is feeling sorry for herself, her brother, Thurman, rushes in and says he must have some money as he is leaving, but that he can't explain just now. She promises to get him the money. Later she has lunch with her aged father-in-law, who lives with them.

INSTALMENT IX.

DOUBTING WIFE.

With her hand on the balustrade, Paula paused, hearing voices in the hall below. Her husband and the chauffeur. As she appeared on the landing, Follins saluted and withdrew. Wunsch turned to his wife. He looked old and weary as she had never seen him before.

She said, scanning his drawn expression, "You are late."

He agreed hurriedly, almost nervously. "Yes. I—some things came up unexpectedly."

Then, with his foot on the first step, he paused, seeming to turn a problem over in his mind. He spoke abruptly.

Her hand lifted to her throat. "The skeleton of a woman? Why, how—who——?"

"I've told you all I know," her husband said gruffly. "See that you keep it to yourself. It has nothing to do with us."

"But——"

"I don't want to discuss it," he snapped.

She changed the subject, parrying for time, wanting desperately to know more, wanting also to ask a favor of him. "I waited lunch for you until 2, Adolph. Your father ate with me."

"You needn't have waited," Wunsch said shortly. He looked at his watch. "I'll have something sent up to my room," he decided. "Then I will rest until this evening. See that I am not disturbed."

Paula said forlornly, "Don't go into the city, Adolph. Not tonight."

He laid his heavy hand on her shoulder. "I'm sorry. I must."

"Is it the society again?" Paula asked.

Wunsch told her briefly, "Yes. Committee meeting."

"Please, Adolph," Paula said, "can't you miss one night? I—I get frightened here alone."

He laughed shortly. "Alone? With the house full of servants? And your brother here, too?"

"I know it sounds silly," she admitted. "I can't explain it. But I feel as tho something awful were threatening. I've felt that way for months."

"You're acting like a child," Wunsch said harshly.

Paula's eyes flashed. "Am I? Haven't you just told me there's a dead woman in the woods? How did she get there? Who is she?"

Wunsch's heavy hand clamped down on her shoulder. "Be quiet," he warned. His expression frightened her. After a moment he resumed more gently. "I am sorry you are nervous. There is nothing to fear."

She said desperately, "If you won't give up the committee meeting, take me with you. I could wait in the car."

"Damn it, I want you to stop this foolishness!" Wunsch roared.

Paula saw the butler, passing behind the stairs, turn his head curiously. And at that her husband pushed past her and mounted the steps.

She caught up with him on the landing. "Don't ever speak to me like that again," she said, low and distinctly.

"I'll speak as I please," Wunsch told her contemptuously.

Paula's fear and anxiety found relief in anger. "Then so will I." She eyed him levelly. "I do not believe that it is to committee meetings that you go, night after night, leaving me alone."

Her husband said coldly, "You may believe what you choose about that." He thrust her aside and continued up the stairs.

For a time Paula stood there, alone on the landing. Tears of anger sparkled in her dark eyes. He was lying to her. And he did not care that she knew it. In France, if a husband chose to be unfaithful, he managed the matter with finesse. But Adolph saw no need for finesse. Paula had married him for money. He had bought her. He owned her. And he would treat her as he saw fit.

There must be something she could do. She had brains. Now was the time to use them. She dried her eyes and went thoughtfully downstairs and into the library. She closed the door into the hall and locked it. Went to the windows and shut them, adjusting the Venetian blinds.

Then she took the telephone directories from the bottom drawer of the desk. The classified would be quickest. Under the heading Detective Agencies her fingers trailed down the list of names and came to rest against one she recognized. She put the directories back in the drawer. Then she put the call thru.

"This is Mrs. Adolph Wunsch. I am calling from my home in Beachville. My husband will leave here about 7 o'clock this evening in a Rice limousine. He is to be driven to New York. I want him followed."

But it was necessary that such a matter be arranged by a personal call at the office, she was told. There wasn't time, she objected sharply. This was an emergency. If this agency was not interested, she could go elsewhere. If they were interested, she would come to town tomorrow with ample cash for expenses and fees. She went on to give exact, lucid descriptions of the locations of the estate, of her husband, of his chauffeur.

When it was all arranged, she put the telephone in place and lit a cigaret. She felt wretched and confused. What had she done? Set a spy to track her husband. A horrible, ugly thing for a wife to do.

Her hand was on the telephone when reaction set in. She recalled the scene on the landing—all the indignities her husband had heaped on her mother and brother. Her face hardened. Let things stay as they are! Adolph deserved this. Find out to what woman he went. Get a divorce. And alimony. Heavy alimony. Make him pay for denying her wifehood in all respects save one.

She went to the bar, poured some whisky into a glass, and drank it. That steadied her somewhat. But the next moment her thoughts were milling frantically. Suppose the detective reported that her husband really was at a committee meeting? Suppose Adolph found out then what she had done? He'd throw her out. How would she look after Truman and mama then?

She took a book at random from the shelves, sat on the divan and forced herself to read, comprehending nothing.

A long time after, she heard her husband's voice in the hall. She glanced at her wrist watch. Almost 7. Adolph was leaving. And he was calling her.

"Paula! Paula!"

She did not answer. She could not face him.

And then he was gone. She could hear the double slamming of the house and car doors and the quickened purr of the motor.

Suddenly her arms stretched out across the desk and her head went down on them and she sobbed—the terrible, heartbroken sobs of a woman who is lost and knows not where to turn.

After a while she quieted, her emotion exhausted. She went back mechanically to her book and picked it up. Then she realized she should be dressing for dinner. She must go thru that ordeal because of the servants. It wouldn't do to have things seem at all unusual. Adolph might get a report.

She composed herself as best she could. Dabbed at her eyes with the wet ball of her handkerchief, and threw it aside to smooth her hair. Without mirror or powder, there wasn't much she could do, she thought dully. She must try to slip upstairs without any one observing her.

She went to the door—listened—turned the key carefully. Opened the door. And stood face to face with a man she had never seen before.

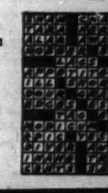
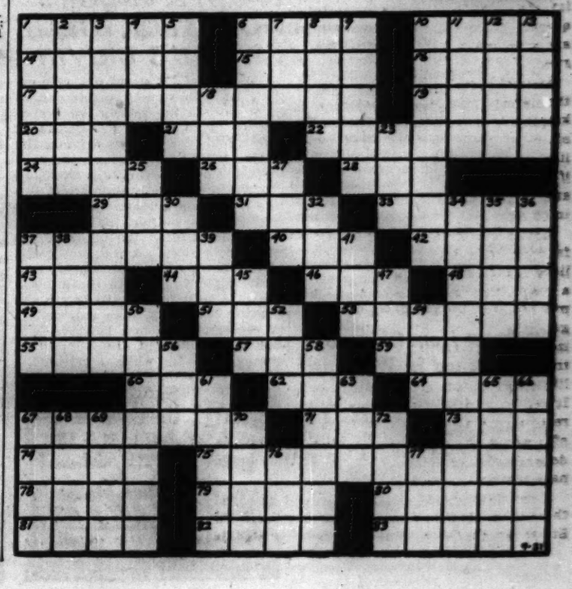
PUZZLE OF TUESDAY, JULY 30. SOLVED





JOLSON TO STAR IN W-G-N SHOW TOMORROW NIGHT

Martha Raye Included in Radio Cast.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Al Jolson, stage, screen, and radio star, will make his only radio appearance of the season as the headliner on the program, In Chicago Tonight, over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 7:30 to 8 p. m. tomorrow.

Al Jolson.

Jolson has been off the air several months, but he keeps his microphone technique polished playing "The Lone Rider" in his new musical show, "Hold On to Your Hats," which is running in the Grand Opera House. "The Lone Rider" satirizes W-G-N-Mutual's Lone Ranger and Tonto.

Martha Raye Also on Program.

Al's new show, in which he is supported by Martha Raye and Bert Gordon, two radio wise comedy experts who will assist him on W-G-N tomorrow night, tells the story of a group of dude ranchers who import the Lone Rider from New York to catch a real bandit gang. The Lone Rider is kidnaped by the bandit chief, who is overpowered when enticed into eating the Lone Rider's "Crispie Crunchies."

Jolson and his assistants—who will include Russ Brown, Jack Whiting, and the Three Radio Aces—expect to do some of the musical comedy specialties tomorrow night. Jolson will sing some of his songs and there will be plenty of Jolson exuberance and hilarity, with Miss Raye contributing her clowning and singing. It will be an old home night for Miss Raye, who did her first regular network broadcasting from W-G-N four years ago. That was before she was famous. She capered thru a Sunday series called Funnybone Follies, along with Tom, Dick and Harry and Harold Stokes and the dance orchestra.

Surprise or Two in Store.

Gordon [The Mad Russian] and Brown will provide more comedy in the W-G-N show, and Whiting and the Radio Aces will sing. Jolson says there may be a surprise or two. There usually is, each night, in "Hold On to Your Hats."

"I don't know just what I'm going to do or say in my new show," Jolson explained, "so how can I be sure what will happen when we do this radio show?"

He explained he wanted to appear on the program, In Chicago Tonight, because it brings highlights of the newest in entertainment to radio listeners.

William A. Bacher will be in charge of the production of the W-G-N show, and Stokes and the dance orchestra will provide the musical backdrop.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Man 'Alone

Warns U. S. of Policy of Indifference.

Detroit, Mich., July 30 (AP).—Henry Ford, sometimes called the world's leading optimist as well as one of its outstanding mechanical geniuses, observed his 77th birthday today with a "normal routine interrupted only long enough for him to reiterate his conviction that the future will bring a prosperity "greater than any we have known."

"It will come," he said, "when we all realize that the things worth while and the things worth having are worth working for.

"The cost to society of a philosophy of indifference and carelessness has been strikingly demonstrated in what has happened to certain European nations. It is of the utmost importance to our own future that we avoid falling into that same attitude."

Little Change in Ten Years.

At 77 Henry Ford looks little different than he did a decade ago; certainly he has lost none of the agility or mental alertness that have been his thruout an always active career.

Today Ford repeated his prediction that the day of the four footed farm animal is nearing its end and that chemistry will produce "better food than our people ever have known."

He also reiterated his assertion that "politics presents the greatest obstacle to a true development of social, economic, and industrial prosperity."

"Like a lot of other outmoded philosophies, however," he said, "politics will be tossed into the discard in the future that I see. It is a future in which science and education generally will enable us to benefit more fully from the experience we have gained and the knowledge we have inherited.

At Peace with the World.

"That has been going on for thousands of years, with each generation a little better off than the preceding one; it will go on for many more thousands of years. So you see, everything is well with the world and its future is safe."

"I bear no animosity toward any person or any people," he said recently, and perhaps therein revealed the philosophy of life that has brought him to his 77th birthday at peace with himself and with the world.

TRAFFIC DEATHS INCREASE 8 PCT. OVER LAST YEAR

The National Safety council reported yesterday that automobile deaths thruout the nation during the first six months of the year increased 8 per cent over the same period last year, but that since motor vehicle mileage was about 7 per cent greater this year than last, the mileage death rate was virtually the same.

Thru June 30 there were 14,740 traffic deaths, 1,040 more than in the first half of 1939. The June toll of 2,820 deaths, however, was 15 per cent greater than in June, 1939, and the largest for any month since March, 1937. June was the ninth consecutive month to show a greater death rate than the corresponding month in the preceding year.

Mrs. Bertha D'Ascanio, 38 years old, 3250 Cullom avenue, was killed yesterday in Rand road, north of Central road, Mt. Prospect, when she was struck by a car driven by John Chmels, 4918 North Harding avenue. Mrs. D'Ascanio, who was with her husband, Vincent, and two other persons, was standing behind their auto while a tire was being changed.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 479 persons had been killed in Cook county traffic accidents since Jan. 1. Of these 361 died in Chicago, where 13,089 were injured during the same period.

7 YOUNG PEOPLE KILLED IN GRADE CROSSING CRASH

Augusta, Ga., July 30 (AP).—Seven young people were killed today in a grade crossing collision between their automobile and a fast freight train.

The dead were R. A. Elliott Jr., 19 years old, and Helen Curtis Elliott, 16, brother and sister; Corrine Elliott, 16; William Wheeless, 20; Harry J. Sheppard, 19, and Julian Baldowski, 19, all of Augusta, and Emma Edith Baker, 16, of Alapaha, Ga. Parents of the Elliott children operate a funeral home here.

Witnesses said the car was dragged 1,400 feet by the inbound Georgia railroad freight. No one on the train was injured.

Boy Scout from Chicago Is Drowned in Wisconsin

Edwin Ristau, a Boy Scout, was drowned yesterday in Lake Mason, at Briggsville, near Portage, Wis., while swimming near Rustic Knoll resort. He went down unnoticed. His body was found by another swimmer His parents live at 6321 Eddy street, Chicago.

COLLAPSES FROM HEAT, DIES.

Galesburg, Ill., July 30 (AP).—Abraham Lincoln Hoolnagle, 77 years old, collapsed from the heat and died last night on a street in Abingdon, 10 miles south of Galesburg.

NORTH AVENUE BEACH PROJECT IS DEDICATED

The new $750,000 North avenue beach and beachhouse was formally dedicated yesterday with speeches, music, aquatic stunts, a regatta, and a parade of smiling bathing beauties who displayed the evolution of the modern bathing suit.

Mrs. M. L. Purvin, well known Chicago clubwoman who first broached the idea of a North avenue beach 40 years ago, dedicated the new half block beachhouse, resembling an ocean liner, by cracking a bottle of champagne on the south end. Among those who spoke were George T. Donoghue, general superintendent for the park district; Philip Graver, park commissioner representing Robert J. Dunham, president of the park board, who was out of the city; Mrs. John Sharpless Fox, president of the Woman's City club, and Elmer W. Roetter of the 6th district of the American Legion.

The beach, which can accommodate 75,000 persons, extends from North to Fullerton avenues. Its sand area is 877,500 square feet. It has 30 lifeguards, 8 drinking fountains, a loud speaker system which aids in finding lost children, a first aid station, 5,000 clothes checking baskets, five light towers, and a system of submerged bulkheads to prevent the lake undertow from washing away the sand fill-in.

10 DAYS! JUDGE'S WORDS FOR WILLIE WORD'S DRIVING

Willie Word, 37 years old, colored, 429 East 46th street, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Safety court for reckless driving. His driving privileges also were revoked for six months. On July 28 Word drove into the Washington street surface lines tunnel under the river. On reaching the bottom, he found his car wouldn't make the upgrade. So he went to sleep. A watchman who rushed down after him, fearful that a car might smash into the automobile, said he found a bottle of gin and a bottle of whisky, both half empty, in the car. Evidence, however, was deemed insufficient to support a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Edward C. Barrett.

Edward C. Barrett, a lifelong resident of Joliet and vice president of the Barrett Hardware company, died yesterday of a heart attack in his home at 612 Western avenue, Joliet. He was 76 years old. The Barrett concern, which is engaged in both the wholesale and retail business, and is one of the largest hardware businesses in the state, was founded in 1850 by Mr. Barrett's father. Mr. Barrett was a trustee of the First Presbyterian church. He leaves his widow, Nettie; a son, W. Franklin Barrett, president of the company, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Russell of Glen Ridge, N. J. Services will be held in the home at 2 p. m., tomorrow, with burial in the Oakwoods cemetery, Joliet.

Wilbur R. Kimball.

New York, July 30 [Special].—Wilbur R. Kimball, electrical and aircraft inventor, who was associated in his youth with Alexander Graham Bell and Thomas A. Edison, died Monday. He was 77 years old. In 1908 he built the first helicopter in the United States. In his youth he began a career in the new field of electricity. He became an engineer for the Bell Telephone company and installed the telephone system in Brockton, Mass. In 1881 he assisted Bell in devising an apparatus to locate the bullet in the body of the assassinated President Garfield. While working with Edison he invented the three-wire system for underground transmission of power.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need.

Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

J. A. QUIGLEY, 92, DIES; CIVIL WAR VETERAN

James Arthur Quigley, civil war veteran who served as a powder monkey aboard the federal gunboat Hibiscus, died yesterday at the age of 92 in his home at 7923 Harvard avenue. He was a member of George H. Thomas post, No. 5, of the Grand Army of the Republic, which now is reduced to six of an original 1,275 members.

James A. Quigley.

Mr. Quigley was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and came to New York when he was 12 years old. He went to sea and enlisted in the Union navy at 16. He served a 24 pound howitzer on the gunboat in maintaining the federal blockade off the Florida coast and was mustered out in 1866. Later he toured the country as a magician and prospected for gold.

Mr. Quigley believed that in taking the oath as a Union sailor he had become a citizen. It was not until 1938, when he applied for an old age pension, that he learned to his surprise that he was considered a British subject. He applied immediately to remedy the situation and became a citizen April 21, 1939. He leaves a daughter, Jenny, and three sons, Arthur, Victor, and James Quigley. Services will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 63d street and Harvard avenue.

700 PEEK AT SKY AND FIND STARS APLENTY FOR ALL

Approximately 700 persons, many of whom had never before taken a second look at a star, visited the Dearborn observatory on Northwestern university's Evanston campus last night and peeked thru the 18 inch lens at various unsuspecting heavenly bodies. The occasion was the first open Stargaze offered by the observatory.

Dr. Oliver J. Lee, observatory director, and Dr. David Russell, summer session science instructor, said the stars viewed included Epsilon Lyra, the double star; Sygnus, the northern cross; Scorpio, the Southern Constellation, which includes the red star, Antares, and the Polar constellation, including the Big and Little Bears and Cassiopeia

One young lady stared long and earnestly at the Polar constellation and said:

"My, my! Aren't they cute? I had no idea they were so near!"

Dr. Lee expressed satisfaction that there were enough stars to go around.

LYMAN WALTON IS DEAD AT 77; FORMER BANKER

Lyman A. Walton, 77 years old, former banker and one time president of the south park board, died Monday of heart disease in his apartment at the Del Prado hotel.

Play Is for and About White Elephant Shop

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

THE Bell school in Lake Forest has been the scene of many amateur plays, but none that delighted an audience more than that given yesterday afternoon at a white elephant rummage shop party.

"A Morning at the White Elephant" was the title. Mrs. Samuel T. Chase was the author and a dozen clever amateurs were the actresses. The author and members of the shop committee insisted that every incident used by Mrs. Chase had occurred in the shop during the last dozen years.

Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, a member of the committee, was in the play, but it wasn't really her new French coat that was sold for $7.75 as she was busy marking some new white elephants. This did happen to a member of the committee, however.

Mrs. McPherson Holt was Miss Brunner, the executive secretary of the shop, in the play, and Mrs. Harry McLeod was a volunteer sales girl. Mrs. Cecil Crouse, Mrs. Corson Ellis, Mrs. J. Andrews King and her sister, Miss Sarah Hinde; Mrs. Philip Maher, Mrs. Joseph C. Belden Jr., and Mrs. John C. Murphy were customers. Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker took the part of Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, committee member and one of those who contribute generously to the stock of the shop, and who sometimes buy back their contributions if they seem too expensive for the shop customers. Mrs. Richard Delafield directed the production.

Miss Sally Bull Selects Attendants for Wedding.

Seven attractive young women will precede Miss Sally Bull to the altar of Christ church chapel, Winnetka, when she becomes the bride of Joseph W. Fall Jr. on Aug. 31. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 in the afternoon with a small reception following at the Winnetka home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Richard Sutton Bull.

Miss Bull's attendants will include her sisters, Mrs. Bayne O'Brien, and subdebutante Mary Constance Bull; Miss Josephine Wallace, Miss Lucy Jane Keeler, and three Smith college classmates, Miss Nancy Allis of Milwaukee, Miss Margaret Hildeburn, of Summit, N. J., and Miss Sanchia Thayer of Boston.

Wedding in Honolulu of Interest in Chicago.

In the romantic island of Oahu this afternoon will take place a wedding that is of especial interest here as the mothers of both the bride and bridegroom are former Chicagoans. The bride is Miss Louise Dillingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Francis Dillingham [Louise Gaylord] of La Pietra, Honolulu. She and Myron Arms Wick Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wick [Lilly Shuttler] of Cleveland, O., will be married at 5 o'clock in St. Andrew's cathedral, in Honolulu, with a reception following at La Pietra. The Rt. Rev. S. Harrington Littell, Episcopal bishop of Honolulu, will read the service.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Alberta Keyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Huntington Keyes of Rogers Park, to John Walter Belecki will take place at 8 o'clock next Saturday evening in the Joseph Bond chapel of the University of Chicago. Miss Keyes, who attended the University of Chicago, is an artist well known for her flower paintings in oil which frequently have been exhibited. Her fiancé is a graduate of Vilno university in Poland and of Syracuse university and the University of Chicago.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. James W. Barrett Jr. and her daughter, Suzanne, are the fourth and fifth generations of the Kimberley family to have lived at Arrowhurst, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy V. Dickinson, in Barrington. Mrs. Barrett is Mrs. Dickinson's daughter. The Barretts really live in Racine, but Suzanne spends much time with her grandmother in the lovely old Georgian house in which her mother lived as a girl. The house will be one of those opened to the public Friday for the benefit of the Garden club of Barrington.

Timely Quote.

A Random House proofreader, working on a section on Epictetus in the forthcoming Stoics and Epicureans, unearthed the following quotation from chapter xix, book 1:

When men's minds harbor wrong opinions on things beyond the will . . . they are bound to pay regard to tyrants. Would that it were only tyrants and not chamberlains, too.

SMALL FISHERMAN.

Like an elf under a mushroom he sits
Close by the water's edge,
Grandpa's umbrella a shelter from sun,
Shading a niche on the rock-bound ledge.

Idling in fisherman's guise permits
Sea dreams of ships that sail
On far off ocean, of battles won
Not with wee minnow but with whale.

Backdrop for dreams are the lake and the sky,

—Bernice Minarik.

Flagstad and Daughter.

Elsa Flagstad, who has been spending the summer in the United States and who will be at Ravinia Saturday and Sunday, looks like a younger edition of her mother, but she doesn't sing. Appropriate for the outdoor setting of Ravinia is Mme. Flagstad's choice of Leise, Leise from Der Freischutz as one of her numbers. Those who want to hear the greatest living Wagnerian soprano sing Beethoven, and Grieg, and Von Weber, as well as Wagner, may hear her at Ravinia Aug. 3 and 4.

Artists at Army Camps.

Speaking of music, Musicologist Carleton Smith flew to Washington yesterday to discuss with war department officials a plan for organizing entertainment in army camps in which 1,500,000 Americans will be given military training. Lily Pons, Joan Crawford, Lawrence Tibbett, Larry Adler, and Leopold Stokowski have volunteered their services.

Hot Weather Notes.

The young couple who evidently gave up trying to sleep and walked into Mitchell's on 71st street clad in pajamas and night robes to sup a soda. . . . Freddie Spencer standing in the Saddle and Cycle club pool eating his luncheon from a tray on the pool's edge. . . . A family in Lincoln park with a folding bed included in their equipment. . . . The man who walks his hound dog along the Outer drive, carrying a fly swatter with which he gravely flicks the flies off his pet as they walk. . . . A wire-haired fox terrier with an ice pack on his head. . . . Inez Starke's wonderful, very broad-brimmed green straw hat adorned with scarlet radishes made of feathers, looking like a hat for André Dunoyer de Segonzac to paint.

Surplus What?

". . . wore bridesmaids' gowns of canary yellow chiffon, with little surpluses tied at the back."

If you are planning to install a new boiler or furnace this fall and want your system to be as efficient as possible, select the heating plant designed to burn the fuel you are going to use. You have a choice of oil, gas and various kinds of coal. It's true that most furnaces and boilers can be converted into automatic heating systems, using whatever type of fuel you prefer, but if you are buying a new heating plant, decide on fuel—first!

Sensible and Slim, Edict in Fall Fashions

A romantic cycle has ended for the American woman. No longer will she look like something out of a Godey print or a winsome belle of the civil war days. This season she must look sensible and slim.

This was the dictate of 250 American style creators last evening at their fall fashion opening in the Morrison hotel. The show, unlike the Paris openings which were tuned to muted strings and the heavy pocketbook, was played to the quick tempo of a jazz orchestra and the jingle of pin money in the average purse.

Sponsored by Style Exhibitors, Inc., an organization composed of representative America manufacturers of women's and children's apparel, the revue introduced the fall and winter buying market which is being held this week and next in the Morrison hotel.

In a world of national and international conflict, milady must look capable of doing her part. She will be dressed this autumn in simple dignity and soft undertones. Black and browns will be her favorites, but there will be no blackout of color.

Gone are the full skirts she swirled in during the last gay seasons. Instead she has been slimmed down to a normal silhouette. Jacket dresses will hug the hips and shoulders will emphasize a gentle roundness.

With the slim skirts blouse waists have come back in style. The roomy bodice effect will also be maintained in winter coats, with slim, pencil hips being topped with chubby, removable jackets. College girls will once more be snugly warm in sheep's wool sport coats and hoods. Only in the expensive furs, minks, Persian lambs, caraculs will the 1940 woman be permitted to be elegant. Shirred backs and roomy bell sleeves will be characteristic of the higher priced coats.

Hats will not be fly-by-nights. Fitted snugly on the head, they will be balanced becomingly with wide brims. Large, felt Breton sailors have come back in port and halo bonnets will sweep above the more demure foreheads.

Bags will be no mere bagatelles, neither will they be in the satchel class. Roomy but not cumbersome, they will be able to hold their own for any event, business hours, cocktail afternoons, or social evenings.

Teen age girls will look no more than their age. The "do-I-look-like-mother" attitude has been tabooed. In its place are full gored skirts that were made for playing tag, simple blouses that defy wrinkles, and warm jackets that can stand the brisk breeze of an autumn bicycle ride.

Looking at Hollywood by John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 29.—It is not an overstatement to say that the magnificent new Disney plant is the result, basically, of Walt Disney's affable grin. Just as there was in the old place, there is in the new one a blithe spirit that emanates from Walt's twinkling eyes and from his white-toothed smile beneath the little black moustache.

There is the same school campus atmosphere. Here men wear slacks, sneakers, and sweat shirts, women wear slack-suits, and it doesn't look like a Hollywood pose. Here are athletic grounds and a beautiful theater for free lunch hour movies. Here is a gymnasium, with rubbers and trainers. Here are many milkbars, sandwich counters and restaurants. And here is a totally air conditioned factory, the last word in technical perfection, where funny and beautiful dreams are being made for the millions.

The work in progress includes, of course, many shorts about Pluto, Mickey, Donald, and their friends. It also includes these full length projects: "Bambi," "The Concert Feature," "The Benchley Thing," and "Peter Pan." "Bambi" has been worked upon for more than two years and is now ready for animation, which, oddly, is the last step in the making of a Disney cartoon. It is to be released about April. "The Concert Feature," or "Fantasia," is slated for October. "The Benchley Thing," in which Robert Benchley will wander about the studio as strange things happen, is in the talking stage and may not arrive for a year or two. There is no definite time on "Peter Pan."

I saw and heard some of "The Concert Feature," and I believe it is going to be the most beautiful, most delightful, and most thrilling picture that has yet come out of the minds of Disney and his craftsmen.

You know the setup: It is to be a visual interpretation of music performed by Leopold Stokowski and orchestra. The numbers will include part of Beethoven's pastoral symphony, "Ave Maria," "The Dance of the Hours," "The Nutcracker Suite," "Clair de Lune," and "The Sorcerer's Apprentice." Some of these numbers will strive for no more than sheer beauty; for opium dream pictures of the music. Others will be ribald and hilarious. All of the music will be played straight except "Dance of the Hours," which, being corny, will be kidded. The ballet for this one will be danced by ostriches and hippopotamuses, all less than graceful in their tiny ballet slippers.

I saw and heard part of the "Pastoral" on a movieola—a machine which projects a foot-wide image beneath a glass topped table. It was the penciled animation—all of the action, but with little background and with the figures seeming to move thru each other like ghosts.

The orchestra played Beethoven magnificently and correctly and every accent, every new instrument, made something happen on the little screen. It was a woodland revel. Bacchus was there, but plastered! He was on a donkey and it was cock-eyed, too. Among the celebrants were centaurs and centaurettes—the latter fetching little creatures without brassieres who, during another part of the film, have a wonderful time.

Comes a new note in the music. In heaven Jove decides on a storm. You can see the wind whooshing—and you've never really seen wind before—and the woodfolk run for cover. One centaur can't quite make a hedge. He refuses twice, then urges himself to a final successful effort by whipping himself on his rump.

Jove—and you must see Jove—throws white-hot thunderbolts which an assistant heats and tosses up to him, like a riveting team on a skyscraper. Poor Bacchus gets most of the thunderbolts. It is hugely funny when Jove, tiring of his play, lies back for a nap—right on a small splinter of thunderbolt he has forgotten.

All of this nonsense somehow shows no disrespect for the music. Quite magically sight and sound belong together, line for note and movement for measure. I am quite sure that Disney, whom the public has known intimately all these years, is in for another rediscovery by the art groups.

Barbirolli Leads Symphony in an All-Schubert Program

BY EDWARD BARRY.

At Ravinia park last night, before an exceptionally large audience which made to order weather had brought out, the Chicago Symphony orchestra under John Barbirolli presented an all-Schubert program consisting of the "Rosamunde" overture and the fourth and seventh symphonies.

The fourth symphony, subtitled "Tragic, never before had been played in Chicago. A product of Schubert's youth, it reveals both the virtues and the faults which we associate with his better known work.

Its principal virtue seems to be its melodiousness. Schubert's gift for melody was plainly apparent even before he had reached his majority. ["The Eri-King," remember, was written at about the age of seventeen!]

The second movement of this fourth symphony has a shy, unassuming, almost depreciatory little theme which nevertheless is able to turn a listener upside down by the sheer power of its persuasive, radiant, typically Schubertian loveliness. And in the final allegro is a gay, tripping tune in Schubert's daintiest vein.

There are suggestions of padding in this fourth symphony, and a willingness to use padding occasionally was a fault which poor Schubert did not live long enough to conquer completely. One commentator once said that he sometimes wrote along as if waiting for an idea.

The symphony as a whole hardly justifies the description "tragic." The first movement is quite dramatic [that dark arresting introduction contrasted with the headlong allegro that follows]. The slow movement is lyrical, the final allegro very lighthearted and almost jaunty in places. The minuet, on first hearing, seems to be a piece of filler.

In addition to the announcements already made concerning the Chicago Symphony orchestra's golden jubilee season—the season of 1940-'41—the following details were made public yesterday. Roy Harris will dedicate a work to the orchestra and will probably conduct it. Sergei Rachmaninoff will conduct his choral symphony, "The Bells." Soloists added to the previously published list include Rudolph Ganz and Mischa Levitzki, pianists; Janet Fairbank, soprano; Jan Peerce, tenor, and Mack Harrell, baritone. Alfredo Casella, Zoltán Kodály, and Darius Milhaud will probably conduct premières of new works. There will be two series of young people's concerts instead of the customary one.

Good Morning!

[I reckon ol' Doc Hays must a been asleep. Otherwise—how come "Whirlpool" on our screens? Pretty raw.]

"Lady Chatterly's Lover," by D. H. Lawrence, made a great impression on 25 year old Peggy Wood, who wrote a scenario based on the novel. Hollywood turned it down flat. So, to France went Miss Wood. Here she met with better luck. The screen play was accepted and produced. Result—"Whirlpool"—an off-color melodrama, whose triangular plot is concerned with the liaison between a young married woman, whose husband is a cripple, and the handsome young fiancé of her best friend. . . .

There may be in the world worse actresses than Jeanne Boitel, who plays the feminine lead—I wouldn't know. Other players do as well as could be expected with the story and director allotted them.

The piece is for "Adults Only." Menolike.

See you tomorrow.

34 So. Illinois Counties Show 6% Population Gain

East St. Louis, Ill., July 30 (AP).—The total population of 34 counties in southern Illinois has increased 6 per cent in the last 10 years, the area census office reported. Present population of the area is 1,034,700, a rise of 56,968 since 1930. Marion county, affected by the current oil boom, recorded the largest gain, 12,283. Its 1940 total is 47,918.

At Grant Park

Anita Aaron Braude, Chicago soprano, was soloist at Grant park last evening with Walter H. Steindel and his orchestra. In addition to a voice of quite charming lyric timber, Miss Braude also possesses a superior feeling for smoothness of vocal line. Technically she is not always able to achieve the artistic ends she is evidently aiming at, however, for her vocal placement is not yet completely secure or easy.

The Jewel Song from Gounod's "Faust" was almost always well conceived and sometimes well executed, but the florid passages simply refused to ripple and the high notes were not always attacked with spontaneity.

Mr. Steindel, one of the most assured musicians among the regular conductors at Grant park, made the Overture to Johann Strauss' "The Bat" a source of unfailing delight and gayety, and presented Liszt's "Les Preludes" with appropriate breadth and oratory. C. S.

Here Is Sally's Last Call for Party Letters

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

I hope that all the boys and girls who want to come to our Studio theater party next week have letters in the mail, because tomorrow's the deadline, you know!

The winners are always selected on Thursday, so that the list of names of 50 boys and 50 girls can be printed in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, and if you expect to be invited to our movie party on Aug. 8 your letter must be on my desk tomorrow morning.

After reading the mail I'll decide which youngsters seem most eager to come with me to see Judy Canova, Wallace Ford, Alan Mowbray, and Joseph Cawthorn in that gay new comedy, "Scatterbrain."

As I've told you before, any boy or girl is eligible to try for an invitation. All you have to do is write a letter, all by yourself, mind you, telling why you'd like to come to this particular party, and don't forget to include your full name, address, and age.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Originality in a fragrance is rarer than you'd think. There are few scents that are completely unlike any other and the originators of a unique one deserve a 21 gun salute.

There are, as you'd know by strolling thru the toilet goods sections, any number of delightful perfumed colognes. Usually these echo the scent of an establishment perfume. Their names have a familiar ring and their scent is just what you expect it to be.

Few colognes have served to introduce a brand new, unique scent, but one of the newest does exactly that. It has the charming name of "tea blossom," a name that suggests a delicate, fragile, and fascinating fragrance. The cologne fulfills all the expectations.

The scent is tantalizing—perhaps for the reason that you can't identify it. It's delicate in character, neither sweet nor tart and more restful than many we've seen lately. Its charm is of the quiet, unobtrusive variety—a quality that makes it endearing.

It's simply but attractively packaged and quite low in price. It's an ideal gift choice for your young or not so young friends, because the character of the unusual fragrance makes it appealing to the feminine tastes of all types of women. The business woman, who likes to use a fragrance that is in perfect taste for her hours in the office, will like it especially. ELEANOR NANGLE.

The Housewife

We came across some attractive shower curtains that are so inexpensive you can get them for your summer place, then throw them away at the end of the season. They are of pliofilm and come in six colors: among them green, yellow and burgundy. They measure 6 feet by 6 feet, and they are said not to crack or become brittle. We liked the green ones best.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A small-sized leg of lamb isn't too large a roast for even a small family, for there are many attractive ways in which to use the leftovers. Lamb and vegetable salads and cold sliced lamb aren't the least of these during warm weather.

Roast lamb at 300 degrees, which temperature is a slow oven. Roast to an interior temperature of 175-180 degrees by the meat thermometer, or 30 to 35 minutes to the pound. Put no cover on the roaster, and no water in the pan.

If you're following tomorrow's dinner plan, you'll need a recipe for lyonnaise potatoes, unless you prepare them frequently enough to remember how they are put together.

LYONNAISE POTATOES.

Use leftover cold potatoes, or cook potatoes fresh and cut them into small pieces, or chop them. Add a chopped onion of medium size, season with salt and pepper, and turn into a skillet in which butter or bacon drippings have been melted. Pack potatoes together in the pan and cook until browned on the bottom. Fold half over the other half and lift to a hot platter. Sprinkle chopped parsley over the potatoes before serving.

—o—

To broil tomatoes for the dinner, cut tomatoes of even size in half crosswise, leaving the skins on. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with butter. Broil [or bake, if you like] until tomatoes are soft. They should be placed in a pan while cooking, so that the juices may be collected and poured back over the tomatoes as they are served.

Be sure to have both cabbage and carrots very cold and crisp before preparing them for salad. Mayonnaise or regular cabbage slaw dressing may be used. Equal parts vinegar and cream, seasoned with salt, sugar, and pepper make a good slaw dressing.

Orange Marmalade Bread
[One loaf.]

¼ cup water
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cake yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
4½ cups flour
¾ cup thick orange marmalade
1 egg yolk

Heat water and milk to the boiling point and add shortening and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water and add. Add enough flour to make a stiff batter, and beat until smooth. Add the marmalade which has been blended with the egg yolk. Add remaining flour, knead until smooth and elastic, and let dough rise in a greased bowl until double in bulk, about 3 hours. Knead again, shape into a loaf, and place in a greased bread pan. Cover and let rise about 1½ hours, or until double. Bake in a 400 degree oven about an hour.

Jellied Raspberry and Currant Dessert
[Serves Eight]

1 quart currants
1 quart raspberries
2 cups water
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons plain gelatin
½ cup cold water or orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Mash currants and berries and add water. Cook until soft and put thru a sieve to remove seeds. Add sugar and heat to boiling. Pour over gelatin which has been soaked 5 minutes in the water or orange juice. Stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice and pour into a mold. Chill until firm and serve with whipped cream.

July 31, 1940.

Universal Day—Keep in the background today. Don't feel sorry for yourself.

Month Ahead—For those in a seven-year, which you can tell from your personal chart, and those born on this date have a period of responsibility during August. Be sure that you do your part in adjusting any family matters. If you take a vacation you will be better off in the long run if you accept some domestic obligations rather than seek personal freedom. This calls for a great deal of love and understanding, tho your tendency will be to criticize.

Year Ahead—This year brings to a climax events of the last seven years. Try to be prepared to take some loss philosophically. The changes are more psychological than otherwise.

For the Heavier Figures

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

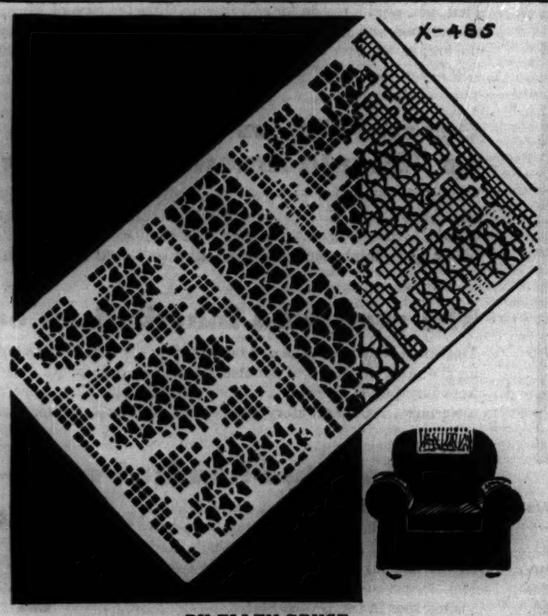
This simple daytime frock is one that is certain to find favor, especially with women whose figure proportions are larger than they would prefer. Streamlining achieves a long, slender effect for this model with the interesting shoulder yoke. There's a jacket provided for by the pattern, and it may match or contrast, as you choose. The sleeves may be short and puffed; or short and cape in style. If you wish, embellish the yoke with lace or other edging. Both prints and plain shades make up well in this model.

Style No. 3370 is designed for sizes 16 and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 2½ yards of lace edging, for short-sleeved version; 3½ yards of 39 inch for cape-sleeved dress; 2¼ yards for long-sleeved jacket.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the summer Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Filet Crochet Chair Set



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Here is a filet crochet chair set which is lovely and unusual. It is easy to create, and the pattern includes separate charts for the chair back and arm rests as well as a list of materials required and detailed instructions. Filet crochet is one of our most popular types of crochet work and every one should know how to do this form of needlework.

For instructions in crocheting the filet chair back set, No. X-485, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Concert in Wilmette.

The Illinois Symphony orchestra will present the fourth of a series of starlight symphonies this evening in the Wilmette amphitheater. Ralph Rose will be guest conductor, and Robert Long, tenor, will be soloist.

TODAY'S RADIO BROADCASTS

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.

[Central Daylight Saving Time.]

"I'll Never Forget," a new program featuring dramatizations of prize-winning letters to True Story Magazine, will make its debut at noon today. Pat Barnes, radio veteran, and Frank Luther, another radio favorite, will have stellar rôles. The program will be aired daily Monday thru Friday.

On his afternoon news show, Quin Ryan will have as his special guest Mary Jane Yoe, trim figure skater and member of the Sonart Ice Show. Mary Jane will talk about her experience as a radio actress and comment on fancy skating. The program will be heard at 1:30 p. m. Ryan's "Marriage License Romances" show, which usually is heard early in the afternoon, wil' be moved to 5:30 p. m.

Bob Elson will report the night ball game between the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics. Preceded by the Leadoff Man at 8:30 p. m., the broadcast of the game will start at 8:40. Baseball in the afternoon also will be featured, with a ticker description of the tiff between the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Phillies at Philadelphia. The afternoon game broadcast will start at 2:15.

Fresh from last Monday's washday, which they spent as special washguests of an Elmwood Park housewife, Tom, Dick, and Harry, popular radio funsters, will appear from 10 to 10:15 a. m. with songs and gags.

Lutheran Conference Here to Consider Synodical Unity

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Union of two leading branches of the Lutheran faith may be the outcome of the 37th biennial convention of the synodical conference which opens tomorrow at St. James Evangelical Lutheran church, 2046 Fremont street. The Rev. Dr. Ludwig Fuerbringer, president of the conference and head of Concordia seminary, St. Louis, Mo., will preside.

The synodical conference comprises the following synods; the Missouri with a membership of 1,400,000, the Wisconsin with about 300,000, the Norwegian of 8,000, and the Slovak numbering 22,000 members. This joint synod controls the colored missions, consisting of about 10,000 members.

For some years there have been preliminary conversations between the synodical conference and the American Lutheran church proposing a union of the two bodies. This question will be seriously considered at the forthcoming convention which will close Aug. 6. The union, if effected, will not be in any sense a merger for all the bodies will retain their autonomy, but it will result in there being only two bodies of Lutheranism in America, the other being the United Lutheran church which has a membership of about 1,250,000.

The American Lutheran church is itself the result of the merger of three Lutheran groups in 1930—the Evangelical Lutheran joint synod of Ohio and other states, organized in 1918; the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Iowa and other states, organized in 1854, and the Lutheran synod of Buffalo, organized in 1845.

The objective of the synodical conference is the affirmation of the Lutheran faith and the preservation of its doctrine, and is connected in unity of faith with the Evangelical Lutheran synod in Australia, the free churches of Saxony, Alsace-Lorraine, Poland, Estonia and the Finnish national church in the United States.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

When a declarer's trump resources are sketchy and when, in addition, he can see that he must ruff a side suit in order to establish it, good technique becomes indispensable. It is difficult to prescribe a set formula for all hands that fall into this category but, generally speaking, it will be found effective to obtain the necessary ruff before either the dummy or the declarer's hand is reduced materially in trumps. The hand described below illustrates a very important principle.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 spade	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

North's bidding was good. Altho he had four honor tricks, he had neither a good fit with partner's diamond bid nor a strong rebiddable suit of his own. Therefore, he chose a one-over-one force rather than a jump take-out. Moreover, in order to leave the spade suit open so that his partner, if he held four spades, might show them at an easy level, he bid one heart. South was overanxious in showing the spades before rebidding his six card diamond suit, but his rebid did have the virtue of supplying information cheaply. The final contract was certainly a logical one.

West opened the fourth best club, and East's king went to declarer's ace. As actually played, the deuce of spades was led to dummy's king, and a spade returned, East showing out. Since East had dropped the ten on the first trump lead, declarer, on winning the second with the ace, now had an established finesse against West's jack, but unfortunately this position did him no good, since he had not yet established the diamonds.

On the third lead of spades West refused to cover. Now, too late, declarer went about establishing his diamond suit. He led to the ace and back to the king, then passed a third round to East [it would have been equally fatal to ruff with dummy's high trump]. East returned a club, and after the declarer had ruffed he was void of trumps. West promptly ruffed the next diamond led by the declarer. It made no difference whether or not dummy's trump was used to overruff this, as declarer never could return to his own hand, and dummy still had several losers.

The crux in this hand, and in others of a similar nature is to draw precisely one trump with one of dummy's honors, and then to go about the establishment of the diamond suit. [The object of leading one trump is to guard against a defender who may hold only one trump, making that trump on a ruff.]

After this one trump lead, declarer should have led the ace and king of diamonds, then ruffed a third round with one of dummy's low trumps [it would do West no good to force dummy's other honor with his seven spot]. After the diamond suit was established, two more rounds of trumps, ending in declarer's hand, would have made the contract ironclad.

Tomorrow's Hand.

BORROWED TIME CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL OUTING

Members, All More than 70, Frolic in Park.

Sixty-five years ago, E. F. Robbins who ran a harness shop in Oak Park attracted a club of elderly men about him. They liked his philosophy and adopted his favorite phrase as their slogan. It was, "I owe no man a dollar but I live on borrowed time."

Yesterday the sun filtered thru the old oaks and elms in Ellington park, Evanston. It played on the heads of another group of cronies who were using their "borrowed time" with interest.

It was the annual outing of the Borrowed Time club of Evanston, whose several hundred members have passed three score and ten years.

The meeting started out with the proper, dignified tribute to God and country. But after the Lord's Prayer and the Star Spangled Banner were finished, old women discarded their hat pinned hats and old men opened their high, stiff collars. They frolicked in square dances, strode a block in walking races, danced wooden turtles on the lawn with youthful pleasure, and boasted about their ages.

It was a picture of a gracious day that's past. Altho a few bobbed heads were present, most of the women wore the high, comb-pinned headdress of their youth. Several wore the little black velvet neckbands of the elegant '80's. Despite the heat, many of the men looked cool in high, winged collars and dark suits.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Mrs. George C. Miller, 67, and C. W. Tostivin, 84, in square dance.

to the oldest man and woman present. The flustered, winning couple were Mrs. Helen Storrs, 87 years old, and Clarence Tostiven, 84.

The Borrowed Time club of Evanston will be two years old in October. It was founded by J. A. Peabody, a white haired man whose friends still think of him as blond. Like 50 other clubs in the country, it is copied after the original Oak Park group. Members meet weekly in the Covenant Methodist church, opposite Ellington park.

'INSANE COP' OFF TO JOLIET; PAYS FOR 1930 ROBBERY

John Howe, former state highway policeman, was removed to Joliet penitentiary from the county jail yesterday to begin serving a sentence of one year to life for armed robbery. Last month the Illinois Supreme court denied him liberty on bail pending an appeal.

Howe is the only one to go to prison out of a group of persons who were accused of tampering with a jury that acquitted two Democratic precinct officials charged with vote fraud. He and three co-defendants were found not guilty, July 18, on charges of bribery and conspiracy in connection with the alleged fix, but Howe had been convicted last April of a $16 store holdup in 1930. When originally indicted in 1930 in the robbery case, Howe was found insane and sent to Kankakee State hospital.

Still Blows Up in Garage; Owner's Name Unknown

Investigators of the federal alcohol tax unit were seeking last night to learn the identity of the owner of a 500 gallon still which exploded and burned in the rear of 1810 South Drake avenue early yesterday. The still was in a brick garage owned by Mrs. Jennie Carp, who is away from the city. Damage to the building was estimated at $100.

★ TODAY IS POST DAY

Can America be conquered from within?

YOU might ask a thousand people about Hitler's program for the United States, and not a handful would know.

Yet the Nazi Party has published its intent. Spokesmen for Germany have patiently pointed out the weakness by which they expect America to destroy its Democracy.

Does Hitler count on Bund leaders and their followers? On crackpots with their cellar-made bombs?

He knows an easier way. He believes his real ally in America is ignorance. Indifference. Apathy.

Ignorance, not just of Nazi aims in this hemisphere, but ignorance of the course we ourselves are steering.

To fight that kind of ignorance, The Saturday Evening Post brings into the open issues which the American people must decide for themselves. This week, for example, a foreign correspondent, in a cable from Paris, tells exactly how the Nazis expect us to destroy ourselves: the easiest victory any nation ever won over another.

Week after week, the Post turns the spotlight on the issues that are shaping America's future. By lighting up the dark corners of the national scene . . . by exposing to public view the methods and motives of heroes and villains alike . . . the Post is helping to keep America honestly and fearlessly informed. Perhaps that is one reason why the Post today is getting more attention from more people than at any other time in the magazine's history.

IN THE POST ★ OUT TODAY

Hitler's blueprint for the U. S.

Why are Nazi leaders delighted to see so many Americans abusing the expression "Fifth Column"? Why does Hitler think that the billions we are pouring into armaments will never do us any good? The Post's foreign correspondent, Demaree Bess, this week reveals Hitler's plan for conquering the U. S. and suggests one way America can spike it. Read Hitler's Weapon Against Us.

"When pearl madness hits you...

. . . it grips your heart, your throat, your brain." When Porpoise Bailey lost his pearling lugger at cards, it seemed odd he should guide the too-lucky stranger on a pearling expedition. But that was a game Porpoise was lucky at. . . . A tale of the Indian Ocean, Gambler's Luck, by Albert Richard Wetjen.

Wives without husbands

It was a beautiful show the two women at the Inn put on. Telling each other they were widows. Filling their hours with bridge to keep from thinking. Neither expected a husband to walk in—with another woman. Read Women With Pets, by Margaret Lee Runbeck.

Why I quit the Newspaper Guild

"Do you think the Guild should influence what a reporter writes, what he thinks, or what political party he belongs to? I don't!" says Reporter Joseph F. Dinneen, until recently a unit officer of the Guild. How the CIO turned the late Heywood Broun's American Newspaper Guild into a pressure group which threatens America's freedom of the press, he tells in Good-by, Boys, I'm Through.

He made a million betting on horses . . . and kept it!

Meet "Pittsburgh Phil," the track's most famous plunger, who won his first $100,000 on the bangtails without ever having seen a race! James C. McGill tells Clem McCarthy about Phil's winning "system" and why it is so tough to copy. First of three parts.

Ogden Nash has the Post Scripts page to himself this week! If you want to know about panthers, he's got the anthers . . . ALSO: Clarence Budington Kelland adds another murder to confound the mystery of his novel, House of Cards. Editorials, poems, cartoons and fun.

Glencannon's 30-second formula for sobering up

First, you need a reason for sobering up. Like the case of Muster Glencannon and La Nymphe, the underdressed painting behind the bar, vs. the over-in-love Mr. Higgins. An alcoholic excursion into fine arts, The Ancient Mariner, by Guy Gilpatric.

General Motors' foreign trade expert on "Should America go to war?"

No one American has had more firsthand opportunity to weigh the possible consequences to the U. S. of the war in Europe than James D. Mooney, head of General Motors' overseas operations from 1922 to 1940. In this week's Post, Mr. Mooney tells why he thinks America must either go to war or force Europe to make peace.

The man who inherited an earthquake

To George Howden, broke and out of a job, the chance to sell his family's plantation on the volcanic island of Montserrat seemed a godsend. Let the buyers keep the legendary buried treasure . . . if they could find it. Then, as he stepped ashore, came a warning . . . A short story, Earthquake, by Marjory Stoneman Douglas.

Step back two hundred years—

This week in the Post visit Cape Stormy, where life today still follows a pattern two centuries old. No doctors. No jail. And square dancing still in fashion! Here's your look at probably the most remote, least-visited spot in the United States.

ZUPPKE URGES 'ANDERSON BY ACCLAMATION'

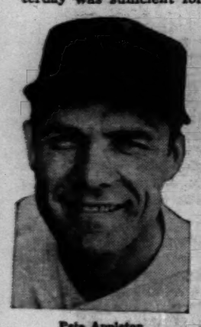
WHITE SOX BEAT ATHLETICS, 3 TO 1; PLAY TONIGHT

APPLETON SETS DOWN FOE AFTER ROUT OF KNOTT

It's 14th Victory in Last 20 Games.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

One inning of productive work yesterday was sufficient for the up and at 'em White Sox to pick up ground on Detroit's Tigers and maintain the pace of the Cleveland Indians, joint American league leaders. In their one productive effort of the afternoon James Dykes' merrymakers slipped over three runs on their enemies. Connie Mack's Athletics, who succumbed by 3 to 1 in the series opener. It was the 14th triumph in 20 games for the Sox, who now are camping only seven and one-half games back of the leaders.



Pete Appleton.

Tonight the Sox will try to win their first game of the season under Comiskey park lights, after losing the first three. John Rigney, losing pitcher in two of the three after dark failures of the Sox, will go after his 11th triumph of the season. He has lost 10. Bill Beckman, a right hander, will start for the Athletics.

Jack Knott, the broad chested Texan, started out to be a pitching hero and his self-assumed rôle wasn't challenged until the last few minutes of action yesterday. He surrendered his first hit after two were out in the fourth. Two were out in the eighth when he yielded the next one. But the ninth was different. The first three Macks slapped him for hits and he was summarily dismissed to make room for Pete Appleton. Pete saved everything by retiring the last two batters while the bags were loaded.

Mule Haas Is Chased.

The Sox carved out victory by concentrating their fire in the second inning. Luke Appling, Mike Tresh, Bob Kennedy, and Jim [Skeeter] Webb notched singles against Lee [Buck] Ross to account for three runs. There might have been more if Umpire Steve Basil hadn't made a questionable decision, which led to the banishment of Coach Mule Haas of the Sox after a mild argument.

The pleasing happenings in the second inning got under way with Appling's single to center. Larry Rosenthal hoisted a pop into short right center and it dropped among a horde of Athletics, but Moses picked it up in time to force Appling at second, so Larry didn't get credit for a hit. Tresh gave Bob Johnson a little work running down a single. Kennedy gave a similar job to Sam Chapman on the same kind of a hit. Rosenthal scoring. While Knott was at the plate trying to do the best he could with a bat Frank Hayes made a bad throw trying to catch Tresh off second and the two runners moved up. After Knott fanned, Webb singled to right, Tresh and Kennedy galloping home.

A Double? Umpire Says Foul.

Then Kreevich drove one past third. Webb crossed the plate, and Mike reached second, but it was all called off by Umpire Basil, who decided that a drive which bounced

PHILLIES POUND LEE IN SECOND; CUBS LOSE, 7-5

Zeke Bonura Is Benched; Leiber to First Base.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 30.—Five runs off Bill Lee in the second inning made all other sweltering endeavor in this afternoon's match between the Cubs and the Phillies almost superfluous.

The Cubs fought valiantly to overtake the Phillies, even sending in Claude Passeau, who pitched nine innings in yesterday's victory, when it appeared they might catch up. But the affair ended with the score: Philadelphia, 7; Chicago, 5.

The Cubs made 16 hits, 14 of them off Kirby Higbe in 6⅓ innings, but they failed to do as well as expected against Si Johnson, who yielded two hits and no runs in 2⅔ innings. Nor were the Chicago hits of small caliber. One of Augie Galan's four straight hits was a double. Bill Nicholson, besides hitting a single, knocked a triple and a double. One of Hank Leiber's three hits was a double. Rabbit Warstler had a double and a single and Stan Hack and Bill Herman each had a double.

Hartnett Benches Bonura.

Zeke Bonura, trying too hard to make good as a Cub, made one hit the only time he was up without a chance to drive in any runs. That Bonura's efforts were not pleasing to Manager Gabby Hartnett became evident after the game, when the boss announced that Zeke would be benched. His place will be taken by Leiber, who served at first in the emergency between Phil Cavarretta's injury and the purchase of Bonura on July 22. Jim Gleeson will go to center field and Hartnett will catch in the new setup.

The outcome dropped the Cubs under the .500 mark on the trip and left them only a game over the .500 mark in the league standings.

Two runs which the Cubs made in the first inning on a double by Hack, a single and stolen base by Galan, and a single by Leiber stood up for a 2 to 0 lead until the Phillies sailed into Lee in the second.

Mazzera Opens with Double.

Mazzera opened the home second with a double to right and scored on Marty's single to center. After Bragan's out and a pass to Warren, Higbe singled to left, scoring Marty with the tying run. Mahan forced Higbe, but Schulte singled and Klein tripled off the right field wall. With five runs home and Klein on third, Root then replaced Lee. Rizzo flied to Galan.

In the third inning the Cubs started an attack but it was nipped with runners on third and second. A single by Galan and a double by Leiber went to waste when Bonura popped to Schulte for the third out.

In the Philly half of the third, however, a run was scored on singles by Marty, Bragan, and Warren.

The Cubs scored a run in the fifth on a double by Herman and Galan's third single. Nicholson put Galan on third with a single, but Rizzo made a neat stop on Leiber's hot grounder to start a double play.

Page took over the pitching assignment at the start of the Phillies' sixth. A triple by Warren and a single by Mahan then gave the Phils their seventh run.

The Cubs apparently had an overtaking rally rolling in the seventh, but a double play bobbed up after a couple of runs had been produced. With one down Galan doubled for his fourth straight hit, and, after taking third on a wild pitch, scored on Nicholson's triple. Leiber singled to left scoring Nicholson with the fifth Chicago run. Bonura then hit into a double play.

Passeau, fourth Cub pitcher, made

Fifth Column.

In our righteous indignation
'Bout fifth columnists and such,
Let's pause and think a moment
How little grows to much;
Deceit and lies and treachery
Don't spring up overnight,
But fester long and slowly
Before they cast their blight.

The point I'm trying to make is this—
For what it may be worth,
The more expert of these columnists
Who now becloud the earth
Very likely got their start
Up and down their street,
Whispering small dissensions
'Mongst all they chanced to meet.

We raise a fearful hue and cry
O'er this disloyalty,
Branding it a menace
To life and liberty;
So let us watch our every thought,
"To thine own self be true,"
Make sure no wee fifth column germ
Takes root in me or you!

Feller Scatters 8 Hits in Night Battle.

Cleveland, O., July 30 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians moved into a first place tie with Detroit in the American league tonight as Bob Feller hurled his 17th victory of the year against six defeats in stopping Boston, 2 to 1, before 49,238 spectators. Feller gave up eight hits and fanned eight.

Cleveland scored its first run in the second inning on Hal Trosky's single, a walk, a sacrifice, and Ray Mack's single. The winning run came in the sixth on singles by Ken Keltner and Mack and an infield out.

The Sox pushed over their run in the fourth on a walk, a single by Ted Williams, and one of Lou Finney's three hits.

Boston filled the bases in the seventh on a walk and two hits, but Feller fanned Pinch Hitter Jimmy Foxx and Dominic DiMaggio. A double play snuffed out a Boston rally in the ninth with two men on base.

Starter Jim Bagby of the Red Sox gave up eight hits in six innings and was charged with the defeat, his 10th of the year, against seven victories. Score:

RELEASES HIS ALL-STAR VOTES TO IOWA COACH

'People's Choice,' Says Veteran.

Willkie Lauds Game

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 30.—Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for the Presidency of the United States, today praised the annual All-Star football game sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which will be played in Chicago Aug. 29.

"As a former very amateur football player and admirer of the sport, I think it is excellent training in many ways—in clean living, in alertness, in stamina, and in coöperation. It is fine that in midsummer so many millions of Americans can coöperate on sports, in contrast to conditions in other parts of the world," Mr. Willkie said.

BY ARCH WARD.

[POLL ON PAGE 19.]

"I appreciate the support of the thousands who have cast votes for me in the 1940 All-Star poll," Zuppke stated. "It is a tribute I shall not soon forget. However, we all know that Anderson was the coach of the year and I think all followers of Western conference football ought to work for his election.

"I hereby turn over to Anderson all the votes that have been cast for me and I think it would be a grand gesture if other coaches in the conference did likewise. It is apparent he is the overwhelming choice of the fans, so let's make it unanimous. The important thing is to keep Western conference football in front. Anderson as head coach of the All-Stars will do a job that will reflect glory on the whole organization."

Faurot Drive Gains.

Zuppke, who will be starting his 28th consecutive season as head coach at Illinois on Sept. 10, has opened a movement which may have wide repercussions. Coaches from sections other than the middle west recognize the difficulties of winning the All-Star poll, especially when they cut into one another's totals with individual campaigns.

Don Faurot of Missouri, who has state support comparable to Anderson's, continues to be the Iowan's principal rival for the top spot on the All-Star staff. Anderson is running about 5 to 3 ahead of the Tigers' gridiron chief.

The total number of first place votes in today's standings is 1,826,284. The poll will continue until midnight Sunday. The coach with the greatest number of total points will have charge of the squad in the game against the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football league, at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 29. The winners in the four other sections will comprise his corps of assistants.

Wieman Gets Support.

Lowell Dawson of Tulane, who is almost a unanimous choice in the New Orleans Item-Tribune poll, is far ahead in the southern section and Buck Shaw of Santa Clara is the favorite on the Pacific coast where the voting is heaviest in the San Francisco bay district.

Tad Wieman of Princeton, with the help of various midwest centers, is leading the eastern group. He is running 2 to 1 ahead of Carl Snavely of Cornell, a member of last year's All-Star staff, whose 1939 team won the championship of the so-called Ivy league.

Sixty-five of the 72 players elected by the fans have accepted invitations to join the squad. The only absentees are Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State end, and George Cafego, Tennessee quarter back, who are trying to get releases from baseball clubs to which they are under contract; James Turner, Holy Cross guard; Bob Kellogg, Tulane half back, and Harry Stella, Army tackle. Erwin Prasse, Iowa end, has been denied permission to play by the Springfield, Mo., club of the Western association, a St. Louis Cardinal farm.

Boys Begin Work.

The squad will report at Northwestern university Aug. 11. Ade Schumacher, assistant to Tug Wilson, the Wildcats' athletic director, is completing housing arrangements for the group. They again will be quartered in the Hinman and Goodrich houses. Workouts will be conducted at Dyche stadium.

Most of the successful candidates already have gone to work conditioning themselves for the practice period. While the coaches are obliged to start the lineup picked by the fans, they can substitute at any time after the opening kickoff. A player of All-Star caliber is smart enough to know that condition is the most important asset in his effort to show his instructors he merits a place in the game.

Crangle Leads Missouri Drive to Name Faurot All-Star Coach

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbia, Mo., July 30.—If Daniel Boone, one time Kentucky ex-patriate, should come plodding along the trail which bears his name and is now known in these parts as U. S. 40, the chances are he'd be stopped and asked to cast a vote for Don Faurot of Missouri as All-American football coach.

Daniel never heard tell of such balloting, of course, but none of the folks who tarry along the highway can escape the vigilance of Jack Crangle and his boys. You will recall Crangle as the line busting Illinois full back of a score of years ago. You now meet him as a Big Six and Western conference football official, successful business man, and the most vociferous supporter for Faurot and Missouri football you can find north of Faurot's birthplace in the Ozarks.

Confident of Victory.

Crangle's bases of operations for his contribution to Faurot's campaign which all Missouri believes will land the coach of the Big Six champions on the All-Star staff, are his gasoline filling station on U. S. 40 and another in downtown Columbia. Crangle was exuberant today over Faurot's early showing and confident that his candidate will be asked to report for duty in Chicago Sunday, Aug. 11, to help get the All-Stars ready for their battle with the Green Bay Packers on Aug. 29.

"I have a new way to get votes for Don," Crangle said, "altho none of us has any trouble getting signers. During the hot spell [which after ten days threatens to become permanent] all the folks that lined up to get ice water from my cooler had to sign for it. Each signature was a vote.

"Seriously, I believe the election of Faurot will not only be a fine thing for Missouri but Don will be a splendid addition to the All-Star staff. His record here, and his exceptional success before coming to Missouri, prove his ability. Don't forget that Missouri appreciates what Faurot and his 1939 team accomplished. It was 12 years from the time Missouri won the Valley championship [the Big Six was established in 1928] until the Tigers won again."

He Likes Anderson, Too.

Crangle came to Missouri as an assistant football coach under Gwinn Henry, now at University of Kansas. He later coached baseball and after

WAUGH POP WINS WEST PULLMAN IN 10 TO 1 UPSET

Noble Count, 2-1 Favorite, Loses by 4 Lengths.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Noble Count, which had established himself as just about the best of the medium class platers at Lincoln Fields and Arlington, was beaten by a 10 to 1 shot, Waugh Pop, in the West Pullman purse which headed yesterday's program at Washington Park.

Noble Count, winner of six of his last seven races, went to the post as the 2 to 1 favorite in this mile gallop. Jockey Johnny Adams, who had ridden Onemore and Wise Ally to victory in a $38.60 daily double earlier in the afternoon, was aboard the son of Reigh Count.

In looking for a horse to beat Noble Count, the betters threw their secondary support to My Shadow and Santo Domingo, overlooking Waugh Pop, which hadn't won since May.

Noble Count Drops Back.

Soon after the start, those who backed Noble Count began to fear that all was not well. This horse, which usually runs well up toward the front at all stages of his races, dropped far behind during the gallop down the backstretch, sharing last place with Beau Do.

Meanwhile, Waugh Pop was fairly close to the pace set by Court Counsel and Squaw Lady. Approaching the turn, Court Counsel drew out to an advantage of four lengths, Squaw Lady hanging on to second place with My Shadow and Waugh Pop in pursuit.

On the turn, the others began closing on Court Counsel. Noble Count was beginning to move at last but was so far back that the chase seemed likely to be very difficult. As they swung into the stretch, Court Counsel went so wide that he allowed Squaw Lady, Waugh Pop, and My Shadow to pour thru between him and the rail.

Winner by Four Lengths.

Waugh Pop quickly took command and drew out to win by four lengths while Noble Count, lucky in finding racing room along the rail, passed all of the others to take second place three lengths ahead of Court Counsel. Waugh Pop's backers collected $22.60, $6.80, and $4.40 across the board.

Gato, a 6 to 1 shot owned by Mrs. A. M. Creech, outfinished a pair of 2 to 1 co-favorites, Alviso and Opera Star in a six furlong dash for horses of the $3,000 class.

The race was a struggle among exceptionally consistent horses. Alviso had never been worse than second on his last seven starts, four of which were victories. Opera Star had never been out of the money in her last seven starts and Gato had run up two victories, two seconds and a third in his last five attempts.

Gato went to the front with a rush soon after the start. With Alviso and Opera Star forcing the pace, Gato went the first quarter in 23 seconds. On the turn, Alviso forged ahead slightly and was at the half mile in :46 3-5. Opera Star was still running third. Gato gradually regained command in the stretch and drew out to a lead of a length at the finish.

Sportsman's Park Gets 24 Racing Days

The new group, headed by John Keeshin, president of a large trucking concern, purchased control of Sportsman's Park several weeks ago from its former owners, John Patton and the heirs of the late Edward J. O'Hare.

The new arrangement adds 24 racing days to Chicago's season and restores the total of tracks operating to five, Aurora being the only inactive establishment in this area.

The original application of Sportsman's Park for 1940 racing dates was tabled by the commission last November because O'Hare, president of the track, had been murdered during the interim between the filing of the application and the allotment of dates.

Detroit Lions Gain 7-7 Tie Late in Game.

[This is the third of a series of articles on the high lights of previous All-Star football games.]

The All-Star football players of the colleges and universities scored the first touchdown of the series in 1936, and gained a 7 to 7 tie with the Detroit Lions. This again confounded the professionals who had forgotten the lesson taught the Chicago Bears in 1934.

Babe LeVoir.

If the scoreless tie with the Bears in 1934 was primarily important because it convinced the football fans that the competition was not one sided, so was this 7 to 7 tie two years later notable for the same reason and also because each of the rivals demonstrated an integrated successful attack.

The annual rivalry, which will be renewed in the seventh game Aug. 29 in Soldiers' field between the All-Stars and the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National football league, may be said to have grown up in 1936. It was the first appearance of a professional team other than a Chicago one.

Bierman 1936 All Star Coach.

The game engrossed the attention of sports fans. Twelve million votes were cast in the players and coaches polls. One hundred and eighty-two newspapers and radio stations cooperated with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Bernie Bierman, coach of Minnesota, Western conference champions, received more than a million first place votes in the coaches poll and a total of 3,872,251 points.

Elmer Layden, Notre Dame; A. N. [Bo] McMillin, Indiana, and Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern, assisted Bierman. Waldorf became the fourth man on the staff after Lou Little, of Columbia, was unable to report because of illness.

Crowd Exceeds 76,000.

More than 76,000 saw the game, altho it was postponed one night until Sept. 2, because of rain.

Ends, Wayne Millner, Notre Dame, and Keith Topping, Stanford; tackles, Dick Smith, Minnesota, and Truman Spain, Southern Methodist; guards, Vern Oech, Minnesota, and Paul Tangora, Northwestern; center, Gomer Jones, Ohio State: quarter back, Riley Smith, Alabama; half backs, Jay Berwanger, Chicago, and Bill Shakespeare, Notre Dame, and full back, Sheldon Beise, Minnesota.

Among the many substitutes were Babe LeVoir, who scored the All-Stars' touchdown; Danny Fortmann, Colgate guard; Bob Reynolds, Stanford, and Joe Stydahar, West Virginia, possibly the greatest pair of All-Star tackles in the series; Jim Karcher, Ohio State guard; Glenn Seidel, Minnesota quarter back, and Tuffy Leemans of George Washington.

LeVoir Scores for All-Stars.

The All-Stars scored in the second period, climax to continued pressure on the veteran Detroit line, and removed any doubt of the All-Stars' ability to cope with the professional type of game. The score, engineered by veteran Minnesota men with excellent support, was tribute to the hours of practice demanded by Coach Bierman. Le Voir of the 1935 Minnesota team, Big Ten champion, scored on a 17 yard run, which completed a march of 61 yards.

Twice before the All-Stars had threatened. The first sally had faltered on Detroit's 25 yard line, and in the second period the All-Stars smashed from midfield to Detroit's 4 yard line in 13 plays, finally losing the ball on downs. Dutch Clark of Detroit, now coach of the Cleveland professionals, kicked out to his own 39 yard line. Tuffy Leemans caught the Detroit secondary sleeping on the first play. He passed to Butch Loebs of Purdue for 20 yards. Leemans and Trevor Rees of Ohio State carried, and then, on fourth down, came LeVoir.

Fromhart Kicks the Point.

Full Back Sheldon Beise smashed at the left side of the Detroit line. One step before he struck he passed the ball backward to LeVoir as the latter reversed and went inside of the Detroit tackle. Preceded by perfect blocking, LeVoir went on to score and Wally Fromhart, Notre Dame quarter back, place kicked the extra point.

Three minutes before the end of the game, after facing defeat since the second period, the Lions swept 29 yards for the tying score. Leemans' fumble offered the opportunity. And after Ernie Caddell had run eight yards for the touchdown on the now famous Lions' fake plunge and reverse, Clark coolly drop kicked the all important final point.

Jack Crangle Leads Faurot's Ballot Drive

leaving the university remained in Columbia and established his business. Jack also is rooting for Eddie Anderson of Iowa for an All-Star coaching position. He recalls vividly the year he played with the Chicago Cardinals professional team when Anderson also was a member of that club. Jack already is planning his trip to Chicago for the All-Star game.

The Faurot campaign has recruited a host of individual volunteers. In the group are Paul Christman, Missouri's great half back whose forward passing last fall was Missouri's major weapon in most victories, including the 27 to 13 conquest of Nebraska, and Jim Starmer, who paired with Christman at half back. These players are selling automobiles in Kansas City and soliciting votes for Faurot.

Faurot also has received the unanimous support of members of the Missouri summer coaching school. Coaches from 14 states are enrolled in the seven weeks' course. Faurot is teaching a football class. In the group is Melvin Wetzel, regular 1939 tackle, who in odd hours mans a voting booth for his coach.

The Faurot brothers form quite a team of vote getters themselves and if they combined forces with the Waldorf boys—Bob Waldorf graduated in June from Missouri and has been elected a guard on the All-Star squad—then Don's election would be assured. Fritz Faurot, football coach at Parsons college, Fairfield, Ia., one of Don's brothers, has been linking the Faurot campaign with that of Eddie Anderson.

Jay Faurot is coach of the Lebanon, Mo., High school football team in southwestern Missouri. Bob Faurot, who was a blocking back on his brother's team last fall, now is a flying cadet at Randolph field, Texas.

The Waldorf brothers are John, a graduate of Missouri in 1929 who now operates a farm near Kansas City; Paul, a graduate of Baker university who coaches football at Fort Hayes, Kas., college; Bob, who has been mentioned, and Lynn, a graduate of Syracuse who is now Northwestern university coach.

Alumni Solid for Faurot.

The Kansas City and St. Louis, Mo., alumni are continuing their activity in the poll. Henry [Hatch] Welch, president of the Kansas City alumni, assured the Faurot managers a 100 per cent vote when Faurot spoke recently in Kansas City over station KMBC. Jim Kierney of the Kierney Electric company, head of the St. Louis alumni, is equally certain Missouri men will turn out a winning vote.

THREE SOFTBALL GAMES WILL AID CHARITY OUTINGS

Three softball games are to be played by loop workers in St. Philip stadium tonight for the benefit of the United Charities campaign fund. The first game will be called at 7:30 p. m. The United Charities sends hundreds of youngsters every summer to Camp Algonquin on the Fox River, Arden Shore at Lake Bluff, Holiday home at Williams Bay, Wis., and to farms hither and yon to build them up physically. Besides, droves who cannot venture far away—heart cases and cripples—are taken for outings at the beaches and in the parks.

The teams playing tonight are the Loop Bankers All-Stars vs. the State Street All Stars, the Radio and Editorial All Stars vs. the Loop All Stars, and two Major league girls' teams.

CARDINALS WHIP BEES, 13-5, WITH 19 HIT ASSAULT

Boston, Mass., July 30 (AP).—Johnny Mize registered his 27th and 28th homers of the season for three runs today while the St. Louis Cardinals were overwhelming the Boston Bees, 13 to 5, in a lusty slugfest. The Cards belted the Bees' pitchers, Bill Posedel and Al Javery, for 19 hits, including a homer by Ernie Koy and a triple by Don Padgett during their five-run stand against Posedel in the third inning. REDS WALLOP GIANTS.

New York, July 30 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds, who haven't had a losing streak longer than three games this year, routed the New York Giants, 6 to 3, today to stop a backslide of two straight games. Paul Derringer again got credit for setting the Reds back on the right trail.

Anyway, the Mule Really Tries

Mule Haas (left), White Sox coach, vigorously protests Umpire Steve Basil's decision on Mike Kreevich's line drive which he ruled foul in second inning of game with Athletics yesterday. Haas lost the argument and was banished as well. Three other Sox players got into the debate, too, including Manager Jimmy Dykes (No. 5), Kreevich (No. 8), and Joe Kuhel, first baseman (facing Kreevich). In the foreground is the White Sox bat boy. The Sox won, 3 to 1.

about eight inches fair just in front of the bag had to be foul. Coach Haas was so certain the umpire had erred that he went to the plate for a few words. A moment later he went to the clubhouse under orders from the man behind the plate. After the Mule had been led away Kreevich tapped to Ross.

The breaking of Knott's no hit chain came after 11 Macks had been dropped in a row. The 11th of these chances was the only one involving difficulties. With one out in the fourth, Wally Moses slammed a liner to left and at the last moment it took a twist to one side, but Rosenthal shot out his gloved hand and made the catch. The next batter, Chapman, also hit to left and Rosenthal leaped but couldn't quite make it. The ball bounced off the wall for a triple. Then Johnson slapped one for distance, but Rosenthal caught it in front of the left field scoreboard.

McCoy Gets A's Second Hit.

McCoy joined up as a base runner in the eighth. After two were out he dropped a looping single in front of Wright. A pinch hitter, Chubby Dean, was sent forth to sub for Al Brancato, and he was quickly disposed of on a fly to Wright.

Then in the ninth, Dee Miles, batting for Ross, led off with a double, went to third on a balk by Knott and scored on Al Rubeling's single. A single by Moses brought Appleton to Knott's aid. Chapman popped to Webb and the bases were filled on a more or less intentional pass to Johnson, who frequently hits homers. Dick Siebert bounced to Kennedy, who whipped the ball to Tresh to force Rubeling at the plate. Everything was settled for keeps when Hayes struck out.

Jim Webb's seven hits in the two Sunday games with the Yanks saved him from being benched. Manager Jim Dykes had just about made up his mind to give Jack Hayes another chance at his old job, despite the latter's impaired vision.

Sewell Gives Up 6 Hits as Pirates Nip Dodgers, 8-2

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 30 (AP).—Pittsburgh's plodding Pirates overpowered the Brooklyn Dodgers 8 to 2 tonight behind the six hit hurling of Truett Sewell, who turned in his eighth victory against two defeats. The Pirates exploded four runs in the first inning against Rookie Righthander Ed Head, making his first big league start, and altogether peppered three Brooklyn pitchers for a dozen hits. Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers got overheated and was banished for saying hot words to Umpire Ziggy Sears.

MOOTY VS. MULCAHY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 30.—Jake Mooty is scheduled to pitch for the Cubs in the final here tomorrow. Hugh Mulcahy, who has won 11 of the Phillies' none too frequent victories, probably will be Manager Doc Prothro's choice.

On the twelfth day of the eastern heat wave it was 106 degrees in the Shibe park press box. The players nevertheless claimed the authors, in comparison with infield temperatures had reposed in a bosky bower.

The Cubs all are trying to plan some cooling activity for Thursday, which will be a day off. The team will go to New York after tomorrow's game and the boys will be on their own. It is hot at the fair and hot at the seashore and insufferable in hotel rooms.

DUTCH LEONARD BLANKS BROWNS ON 7 HITS, 4 TO 0

Fans 7 as Senators Get Eleven Safeties.

St. Louis, Mo., July 30 (AP).—Dutch Leonard stopped the St. Louis Browns with seven hits and struck out seven tonight as the Washington Senators pounded out 11 safeties for a 4 to 0 victory.

Gerald Walker led the Washington attack with three hits, scoring two runs and driving in another. His fourth inning single, Cecil Travis' double, and Jim Bloodworth's infield out accounted for the Senators' first tally. Walker singled and scored again in the sixth on a triple by Buddy Myer who followed

300 FIRMS' JUNE QUARTER INCOME 37 PCT. HIGHER

Only 1 Industrial Group Fails to Improve.

New York, July 30 (AP).—Profits of the first 300 companies to report for the second quarter of 1940 were 37 per cent larger than a year ago. An Associated Press compilation showed today.

The gain was made in the face of increased taxes for defense purposes, and despite the fact most leading corporations charged added taxes for the entire first half against second quarter earnings.

The legislation, passed during the last quarter, made the increased rates retroactive to Jan. 1. New excess profits legislation now planned may cut further into 1940 earnings. Earnings of the 300 companies were $319,829,000, compared with $232,688,000 in the June quarter of 1939.

One Group Fails to Gain.

Excluding the relatively stable profits of American Telephone and Telegraph company, net income of the group was 43 per cent larger. Of the 300 companies, 219 reported better results than a year ago while 81 made a poorer showing.

All industrial groups did better than last year with the exception of the food manufacturers.

For the steel industry, it was the most profitable second quarter since 1937. Twenty-eight steel companies which have published their results so far [not including the United States Steel corporation] showed net income of $24,389,000, almost four times as large as the $6,732,000 earned in the second quarter of 1939.

Nine railroad equipment makers, many still working on heavy backlogs of orders carried over from 1939, had earnings of $3,516,000, against $1,210,000.

Sixteen manufacturers of machinery also came close to tripling last year's net income, showing profits of $4,609,000, compared with $1,705,000.

The railroads steamed out of the red and into the black, 18 companies reporting net income of $15,278,000, against a deficit of $4,598,000 a year ago.

Tax Deduction a Factor.

The automobile industry, which had shown a 22 per cent increase in production in the three months had a small gain in earnings. Profits of seven companies totaled $62,816,000 compared with $61,001,000 a year ago. Partial explanation, however, is found in the fact that General Motors deducted $26,700,000 from its earnings to set up special reserves.

Rains Save Iowa Corn.

Des Moines, Ia., July 30 [Special].—Iowa's corn crop is recovering from the effects of extreme heat and drouth, following moderate to heavy rains that soaked parched fields and brought lower temperatures over most of the state during the last five days.

The rains came too late, however, to prevent damage to the corn and farmers predict considerably lower yields than those of the last three years. There were only 8,816,000 acres of corn planted in Iowa this year as compared with the 1939 crop of 9,688,000 acres that made an average yield of 52 bushels per acre.

A trip from Burlington north and west to the center of the state found farmers in every community encouraged by the new outlook for corn and other crops. A week ago the corn crop looked like a failure. Now they have hopes of a fair yield.

Soil Moisture Sufficient.

While more rains will be needed soon in some sections, there is thought to be enough moisture in the soil to mature the earlier corn without further rains.

Prospects for a reduced corn yield do not mean that corn will be scarce in Iowa at picking time next fall. Farmers and government officials estimate that more old corn is in storage in the state than ever before at this time of year, part of it on farms and part in the thousands of government bins along railroad sidings in the small towns.

Farmers also point out that low yields do not mean what they used to in the days before hybrid corn. For example, J. R. Dockendorff of Danville, Des Moines county, thinks his crop should make 60 bushels per acre with favorable weather from now on.

"Ten years ago we would have thought 60 bushels a good yield," he said, "but not now."

Averaged 85 Last Year.

Last year Dockendorff had more than 100 acres of corn that averaged 85 bushels per acre. Yields of 76 to 100 bushels were fairly common on the better lands thruout much of the corn belt last year.

Other crops in those sections of Iowa visited so far on this trip have made fair to good yields, despite the lack of adequate rains during most of July. Oat yields have ranged from 30 to 60 bushels per acre. This is less than the fine oat crops in Illinois and Indiana, but it is considered fair. Most of the wheat was good and there is an abundance of clover and alfalfa hay, altho second cuttings have been light in some of the dryer regions.

Chinch Bugs Do Damage.

Chinch bugs have damaged some corn since the small grains were cut and many farmers have built paper fence barriers to keep the pests from crawling out of stubble fields into corn.

Farmers think the rains came in time to save most of the spring seedings of clover and alfalfa. Blue grass pastures have dried up. This is the season of the year when they normally are short anyway. Many farmers are pasturing both beef and dairy cattle on sweet clover.

U. S. STEEL NET IN QUARTER UP TO 19 MILLIONS

Inland Profit Rises; $1 Dividends Voted.

Reflecting the quickened pace in the steel industry, United States Steel corporation yesterday reported that its net earnings for the second quarter of 1940 totaled $19,201,008, equal to $1.48 a share on the common stock, compared with $1,309,761, or 36 cents a share on the preferred stock, only in the second quarter of 1939. The company earned $36,173,682 in the second quarter of 1937 and $53,825,843 in the second quarter of 1929.

Inland Steel company, large Chicago independent steel company, also reported substantial improvement with second quarter earnings of $2,873,655, equal to $1.76 a share, against $1,760,459, or $1.08 a share, in the 1939 period.

Both Act on Dividends.

Both companies also provided cheering information to their stockholders with dividend declarations. United States Steel repeated with a $1 disbursement, the same amount as the $1 "surprise dividend" paid last spring. The latest payment is to be made Sept. 20 to stock of record Aug. 20. The regular $1.75 a share dividend on the preferred also was declared. Inland's dividend also is $1 a share, payable Sept. 3 to stockholders of record Aug. 16.

United States Steel's profit in the first quarter of this year was $17,113,995, which brought the net profit for the first half of the year to $36,315,003, equal to $2.72 a share on the common stock, against $1,970,311 in the first half of 1939, equal to 54 cents a share on the 7 per cent preferred.

Shipments Increase.

Officials of the company reported that its second quarter shipments were 4 per cent larger than in the first quarter and 35 per cent larger than in the corresponding 1939 period. Shipments in the second quarter were at 66.4 per cent of the company's capacity to produce steel. For the first half of 1940 shipments were at 65.2 per cent of capacity compared with 49.4 per cent in 1939.

United States Steel's capital outlays in the first half of the year for additions and betterments, less credit for properties sold, amounted to approximately $28,600,000. On July 1 unexpended balances of approved appropriations for property additions and betterments totaled about $60,000,000.

Irving S. Olds, chairman of the board who succeeded Edward R. Stettinius Jr. when Stettinius went to the national defense council, estimated that the present ingot production of United States Steel is at a rate of 94 per cent of capacity—the highest rate since August, 1929. The backlog of orders totals about 2,500,000 net tons of rolled and finished steel.

Tax Problem "Serious."

Commenting on the government's amortization plan for armament plants, Olds said that United States Steel has been asked to increase its facilities for heavy armor plate, for which orders will run for the next 3 to 5 years, with a strong probability that there will not be much business for this division thereafter.

"For that reason," he added, "the tax amortization problem is a serious one for us. If we have to amortize over 20 years, our profits during the order period would be unusually large. There should be a much shorter time for amortization. For that reason we have delayed buying equipment needed for the heavy armor plate program until the tax amortization question is settled."

At the conclusion of the directors' meeting of Inland in Chicago, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the board, stated that the company's operations during the second quarter were at 81.1 per cent of ingot capacity, compared with 62.9 per cent in the second quarter of 1939. Present operations are at virtual capacity, he added.

Exports Are Small.

"Our business today reflects the general tempo of the steel industry of the country," Ryerson stated "However, as far as Inland is concerned, no sizeable percentage of our present output is being exported, and as yet practically no tonnage has been placed with us covering requirements for the defense program.

"Steel buying today seems very orderly as compared with the hysteria of last fall. Backlogs are not large. New business is reaching us in approximately the same volume as outgoing shipments. We are, therefore, in a position to take care of our regular customers' requirements in a normal manner."

The company's profit in the first half of 1940 was $5,933,499, equal to $3.64 a share, against $3,785,060, equal to $2.33 a share, in the first half of 1939.

Chicago to Get New Market in Cottonseed Oil

Chicago, one of the largest consuming centers in the country of cottonseed oil, will have a futures trading market for the commodity starting August 19, the Chicago Board of Trade announced yesterday.

A committee of members headed by Edward A. Green has studied the situation. Their recommendations were adopted by the exchange as rules. The unit of trading will be 60,000 pounds—one tank car, and the price basis will be multiples of 1-100th of a cent per pound.

Green said many factors had been found which should make the Chicago market the logical one for a large section of the United States cotton territory.

Chicago Receipts Large.

"Receipts of cottonseed oil in this territory are extremely heavy, and many of the leading processors of the country are located in Chicago and other middle west points," Green said. "In 1939 receipts at Chicago were 108 million pounds while shipments were slightly more than 14 million pounds."

The oil is used in manufacturing soap, in preparing vegetable shortenings, and for a variety of other purposes. Because of the similarity of uses, cottonseed oil and lard are dealt in by traders who keep one eye cocked on each commodity. The oil will be traded in the same pit with lard on the Chicago exchange.

"Great convenience will accrue to spreaders by having trade in both cottonseed oil and lard in the same pit," Green said. "Another advantage is that afforded by the vast wire systems centering in the board of trade.

Location an Advantage.

"The location of Chicago gives it an advantage in the movement of oil from the pressing plants in the territory immediately south, southwest, and west of here. A large number of refineries are in Chicago and vicinity."

Trading hours will be from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. except on Saturday when trading will close at 11 a. m. The deliverable grade will be bleachable prime summer yellow cottonseed oil. Daily trading limits will be 1 cent a pound below or above the previous close.

FEDERAL AGENCY CALLS LOANS ON WAREHOUSE CORN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today that no loans secured by corn in warehouse storage would be extended beyond their maturity date of Aug. 1. Approximately 12 million bushels of corn are stored in the warehouses in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Missouri, and Kansas.

The notes are held at the office of the special CCC representative in Chicago. Producers must submit payment directly to the office for the original loan plus interest and storage charges. Settlements will be accepted, if received or postmarked on or before Aug. 5.

The corporation said that many warehousemen have requested that this corn be moved as soon as possible so that they may be able to use their facilities to accommodate wheat and other crops which are being harvested. The corporation will acquire title to all warehouse stored corn not redeemed by Aug. 6. Most of the corn thus acquired will be made available for export.

AWARD NEW YORK ISSUE ON RECORD LOW COST BASIS

New York, July 30 [Special].—The state of New York today borrowed $15,000,000 at a record low interest cost as the Port of New York authority rejected a bid of 1.46 per cent interest cost on $4,000,000 of bonds.

A syndicate headed by the National City bank won the award of state building bonds against four rivals at 100.041 for 1½s at a net interest cost basis of 1.4968 per cent. This was a record rate for this type of issue. Other bidding syndicates were headed by the Chase National bank, Lehman Brothers, Bank of the Manhattan Company, and J. P. Morgan & Co.

The bid for the Port of New York authority refunding bonds was rejected because the authority decided there was not competitive bidding for the issue. A single bid was made jointly by the National City and the Chase National banks. The authority plans to retire bonds issued in connection with erecting the George Washington bridge spanning the Hudson river.

FOREIGN CAPITAL IN THIS COUNTRY UP 46 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—The treasury reported today a net increase of $46,473,000 of foreign capital in this country during the four weeks ended May 1, compared with $72,089,000 during the preceding five weeks. The major increase during April was $35,196,000 in short term banking funds.

Foreign investors made net purchases of $2,226,000 in American securities. The United Kingdom, however, made a net decrease of $5,104,000.

The British drew heavily on their short term balances, cutting them $34,689,000, to pay for war materials, but Canada increased its ready funds by $5,799,000.

United States balances abroad dropped $11,833,000 to $515,662,000, largely the result of decreases of $10,359,000 in Japan; $5,100,000 in Canada; $2,946,000 in the United Kingdom, and $2,181,000 in China.

Congress Adds 25 Millions to TVA Handout

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Behind a barrage of preparedness oratory, the senate and the house of representatives today pushed thru to passage an administration measure appropriating an extra 25 million dollars for the Tennessee Valley authority for 1941 and raising the total TVA appropriation for the year to 65 million dollars.

The house, after debating for more than six hours, passed the bill this evening with only one minor amendment. The vote was 265 to 94. Ten minutes later the senate concurred without a record vote. The bill was sent immediately to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature.

Administration leaders claimed that reopening the doors of the United States treasury to the TVA was a necessary step in defense preparations in that it would enable the Authority to expand its power facilities necessary for the increased production of aluminum.

Plead Possible Shortage.

They produced, at congressional hearings on the bill, expert witnesses who testified that about five tons of the metal goes into every airplane and that at the present rate of aluminum production, there will be a shortage of 60 million pounds by 1942. The expanded power facilities also will be utilized in the manufacture of explosives, chemicals, and other war industries, it was said.

Passage of the bill was recommended by William S. Knudsen and Edward R. Stettinius, members of the national defense advisory commission.

But it frequently has been charged, and was charged on the floor of the house again today, that tying the defense tag to the bill was merely a pretext to enable the New Deal to get more public funds for one of its favorite spending agencies.

Lashed from Both Sides.

During the house debate the TVA was subjected to a blistering attack from Republicans and Democrats alike. Administration spokesmen made a few half-hearted attempts to defend the TVA, but mainly they emphasized the fact that the added appropriation was recommended by the National Defense Advisory commission.

"This bill is not what it purports to be," asserted Representative Donald H. McLean [R., N. J.]. "The TVA is dominated by David Lilienthal, who knows how to take advantage of the hysteria of the times to get more money out of the treasury.

"The TVA has had millions upon millions of dollars in the last seven years and now we find it isn't ready to help out with national defense. All we have here is something dressed up like a defense measure. Members of the defense commission are being deceived in this matter."

Democrat Attacks Lilienthal.

Representative E. E. Cox [D., Ga.] replied that he would not defend Lilienthal nor the TVA. He said he didn't blame the Republicans for looking on the agency with suspicion. However, he went on, the nation must prepare to defend itself and in view of recommendations of members of the defense commission, passage of the bill seems necessary.

"I'm in favor of driving Lilienthal and his kind out of the government," Representative Cox roared. "He's one of an army that is trying to make America over in a pattern set by Russia."

The 25 million dollar appropriation, it was explained, would provide funds for starting construction work on a power dam on the Houston river, near Jefferson City, Tenn., and beginning installation of additional electric generating units at Wilson Dam, Ala., and at Pickwick Landing Dam, Tenn.

UNION THREATENS BOEING AIRPLANE STRIKE TONIGHT

Seattle, Wash., July 30 (AP).—The Aeronautical Mechanics' union [A. F. L.] said in a statement tonight that a strike at the Boeing Aircraft company plant is "inevitable" tomorrow midnight unless the "company changes its attitude with respect to the lower brackets of pay."

The union negotiating committee said a 10 cent an hour increase in wages had been agreed upon for workers in the higher brackets, but that minimums were not agreed upon. Negotiators have been meeting with federal conciliators.

STOCKS SHAKE OFF LETHARGY AND SWING UP

Industrials Advance 1 to 5 Points.

New York, July 30 (AP).—The stock market broke a long stalemate today with a rally that carried leading industrials up 1 to more than 5 points.

Volume expanded at the start, dwindled thereafter at intervals and picked up momentum in the final hour. Favorites generally closed at or near their tops for the day.

Brokers ascribed the brisk extension of yesterday's late rally mainly to the widespread belief in speculative circles that the market had been "sold out" and was due for a recovery swing no matter what happened. Recent daily turnovers had touched new lows for the last 22 years.

News Considered Favorable.

On top of this, optimism seemed to have revived for the steel and motor industries, as well as other lines, and the news generally seemed favorable. Further British claims of strong resistance to Nazi air bombings also helped brighten sentiment.

Transfers of 673,620 shares, while still far under the break even level for commission houses, were the largest since June 28. They compared with 255,990 yesterday.

The action of United States Steel directors in voting $1 a share on the common stock was taken after the market closed, but it had been expected and helped the market. The profit showing was about in line with expectations in the financial district.

Steel Among Gainers.

Stock climbers included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Du Pont, Westinghouse, Douglas Aircraft, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Kennecott, United Aircraft, Loft, Dresser Manufacturing, Chesapeake and Ohio, Celanese and American Telephone.

Most rails, utilities and oils kept gains within a fractional range. Coppers were bolstered by another lift in the price of this metal as defense needs broadened demand.

SEC AGREES ITS COUNSEL MERITS UTILITY CRITICISM

Washington, D. C., July 30 [Special].—Electric Bond and Share company today scored a strategic victory in legal maneuvers incident to formulating a policy of procedure in the "death sentence" proceedings under the holding company act. The Securities and Exchange commission accepted the company's criticism of the manner in which the SEC's utilities division introduced evidence at the opening of the Bond and Share case.

The division's counsel, the SEC's opinion said, put 70 exhibits in evidence at the start of the hearings. These consisted of 130 volumes. The company objected that such factual data should not be placed in evidence without the purpose being made clear.

"We think there is considerable force in respondents' argument," said the SEC. "Such a volume of material should not be accepted unless some reasonable indication is given of the relationship between the evidence offered and the facts sought to be proved thereby."

AIRCRAFT MAKER ADOPTS 50 HOUR WEEK OF 5 DAYS

San Diego, Cal., July 30 (AP).—Consolidated Aircraft corporation said today its plant would go on a 10 hour, 5 day week schedule, changing its production schedule of army and navy planes. It said 8,400 employes would be affected by the change next week.

The company recently established a 6 day, 48 hour week schedule after having operated the plant over a long period on a 40 hour, 5 day week schedule.

Under a labor union agreement the company will pay time and one-half rates for overtime above 40 hours' work each week. A change in the number of shifts worked each 24 hours from three to two also will become effective Monday. The plant will be closed Saturdays and Sundays.

Field's Income for Quarter at Ten Year Peak

June quarter net profit of Marshall Field & Co. was the highest since 1930 despite larger provision for federal taxes, Frederick D. Corley, president, disclosed in a report yesterday. The reserve for taxes was substantially increased, he said.

Frederick D. Corley.

Net profit in three months ended June 30 was $720,697, equal after preferred dividends to 25 cents a common share, compared with $607,051, or 20 cents a share, in the corresponding period of 1939.

Sales Increase 2.3 Per Cent.

Sales and rental income was $20,063,200, represent a 2.3 per cent increase over the $19,619,146 in the 1939 period.

For the first half of 1940 the company had net profit of $1,575,102, or 58 cents a common share, compared with $1,035,235, or 30 cents a share, in the first half of 1939. Sales and rental income for the period rose 6.9 per cent to $40,265,750 from $37,668,744 a year ago.

Big Gain for 12 Months.

In 12 months ended June 30, net profit amounted to $5,176,425, or $2.20 a common share, against $3,924,072, or $1.56 a share in the preceding 12 months.

Sales and rental income for the 12 month period was $89,370,927, an increase of 7.3 per cent over the $83,294,163 of the preceding 12 months.

In addition to its State street store and stores in other cities, the company manufactures textiles and other goods at various centers. It also operates the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

CARGO OF COPPER TO START SECOND TIME FOR RUSSIA

Tacoma, Wash., July 30 (AP).—The Russian freighter Kim arrived here today in ballast direct from Vladivostok to begin loading part of a Russia-bound cargo returned here mysteriously last spring after the American freighter Wildwood put about in mid-Pacific because of diplomatic advices.

A shipping agent, who declined use of his name, said the Russian vessel would load 4,000 tons of finished copper before shifting to another Tacoma dock to fill its holds. The copper was a part of the returned cargo.

Unlike other items in the $4,500,000 cargo, the copper did not have to be approved for export by naval inspectors, the agent said. He said the British government had granted "navicerts" for the cargo.

OIL PRODUCTION DIPS IN ILLINOIS, RISES FOR NATION

While oil production in the United States last week increased 111,522 barrels to 3,688,394 barrels a day, Illinois output declined 45,485 barrels daily—the largest drop for any state and the fourth consecutive week output has been down. Total Illinois production was 418,631 barrels daily.

The Oil and Gas Journal yesterday attributed the Illinois drop largely to a decrease of nearly 35 per cent in production of the Centralia field.

TRACTION LOAN PARLEY SLATED FOR TOMORROW

Kelly, Brown to See Jesse Jones.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that he will meet tomorrow with Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, in Washington, D. C., to discuss terms of the proposed federal loan to Chicago's traction lines. The mayor said Edward E. Brown, surface lines' receiver, will represent the transit lines at the conference.

The announcement followed the disclosure Monday by RFC officials that they are prepared to offer the transit lines a loan of 52 million dollars to help put thru the long delayed transit unification and modernization program. The loan would be used partly to buy new equipment, and partly to pay off some of the surface lines' present first mortgage bonds.

Acts to Speed Ordinance.

The mayor also took steps at city hall to speed passage of the unified traction ordinance by the city council. At a finance committee meeting he rebuked several aldermen for protesting that the ordinance could not be passed by the council and submitted to the public by referendum by Oct. 1.

"Apparently you aldermen don't want a traction ordinance this fall," Kelly asserted. "You have been sitting around here for more than a year working on a traction ordinance. Now some of you say you don't know what is contained in the ordinance, and need more time for studying it and voting on it.

"I have only sat in on the meetings for about four hours, but I know what is in the ordinance. I thought it was all settled."

The mayor's remarks came after Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] objected to a schedule calling for submission of the ordinance to the city council by Aug. 14. This schedule was announced by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the local transportation committee. Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] also protested against what he termed too hasty action, declaring he would not vote for the ordinance unless it is amended.

Outlines Unsettled Points.

At the local transportation committee meeting later in the day, however, efforts were continued for ironing out the remaining points of difference on the ordinance terms with the transit lines. Brown, as spokesman for the surface and elevated lines' representatives, outlined to the committee the points still to be settled. Brown's report resulted from a study of the ordinance draft prepared by the city after agreement on the chief issues was reached with the lines May 25.

Brown named six points of controversy still to be negotiated, but predicted that these could be resolved quickly. A joint meeting of the aldermen and transit officials to settle these points will be held today.

Two other hurdles to the unification plan remain, Brown said. These are the working out of a pension plan satisfactory to employés and the management, and an agreement with the Chicago Motor Coach [bus] company on a price to be paid by the lines for its properties.

Predicts Fair Arrangement.

Brown said he was convinced that the bus company can be bought for a reasonable price, if the ordinance goes thru. Declaring he had had numerous conferences with officials of the bus company, Brown added:

"It is clear that the price to be paid will have to be more than the actual physical value of the properties. The company's good earnings record must be a determining factor in the price.

"However, we have not gotten to the point of naming any price. Until negotiations for the RFC loan are carried further, and the points of disagreement in the ordinance are settled, it would not be to the best interests of anybody to set a price on the properties."

SIX MONTH AUTO SALES 400,000 ABOVE LAST YEAR

Detroit, Mich., July 30 (AP).—R. L. Polk & Co. reported today that its tabulation of new passenger car registrations showed 1,814,814 units were sold during the first six months of 1940, against 1,409,102 in the corresponding period of 1939.

Truck and commercial vehicle sales were placed at 291,118, compared with 248,826 in the 1939 period.

The figures showed that new passenger car sales in June numbered 318,615, compared with 345,748 in May. Truck sales were 43,544, against 51,553 in May.

Airplane Firms Disclose Steep Earnings Gains

One of the major airplane manufacturing enterprises and a leading air transport company—United Aircraft corporation and American Airlines, Inc.—yesterday reported higher 1940 earnings. Other corporations reporting larger earnings included Borg-Warner corporation, Stewart-Warner corporation, and National Lead company.

United Aircraft, maker of military and commercial engines and planes, had net profit for the quarter ended June 30 of $3,848,077, equal to $1.45 a share, compared with $2,187,890, or 82 cents a share, in the corresponding period last year. Its unfilled orders on June 30 totaled $212,777,668, a record figure.

C. R. Smith, president, announced earnings of American Airlines for the six months ended June 30 were $887,406, against $414,198 for the first half of 1939. Total operating revenue was $9,231,303, compared with $6,399,020.

Mileage Rises Sharply.

Revenue passenger miles flown during the six months totaled 135,556,253, compared with 83,834,000 a year ago.

Consolidated net income of Borg-Warner corporation, manufacturer of parts for automobiles, airplanes, and other products, amounted to $2,830,983 or $1.21 a share on common stock for the first six months. This compared with $2,416,050, or $1.03 a share, for the 1939 period.

Stewart-Warner corporation and subsidiaries for the half year reported net profit of $677,245, or 54 cents a share, against $200,261, or 16 cents a share, a year ago.

"The personnel of the company and its manufacturing facilities have been offered to the country," James S. Knowlson, president and chairman of the board said. "They will probably be used to an increased extent as the preparedness program gets under way."

"It seems safe to believe," he said, "that as factories begin to be filled up with work, and government expenditures begin to be translated into dollars, there will be a gradual rise in the general price level."

National Lead Earns More.

National Lead company, manufacturer of white lead and other products, had net profit of $3,119,810 for the first six monts, equal to 69 cents a share, compared with $3,017,957, or 66 cents a share, in the corresponding 1939 period.

Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation reported net income for the six months ended June 30, before provision for federal income and excess profits tax, amounted to $329,711, equal to 69 cents a share. A comparison with a year ago is not available because this is the first six month report the company has issued.

The navy department awarded a $7,260,280 contract for airplanes to the corporation. The number and type were not announced. Unfilled orders as of July 1 totaled $8,892,802.

Oil Profits Up Sharply.

Standard Oil Company of California reported June quarter net profits of $5,834,871, equal to 44 cents a share, compared with $3,891,567, or 29 cents a share a year ago. For the six months ended June 30 net profits amounted to $10,369,494, equal to 79 cents a share, against $7,117,603 and 54 cents a share in the 1939 period.

The Chicago Mail Order company, for the six months ended June 29, had net profit of $102,924, contrasted with a net loss of $97,942 for the 1939 period. Sales amounted to $12,665,140 against $12,482,186.

Defense Forces Offered Leak-Proof Gas Tanks

New York, July 30 (AP).—James H. Rand Jr., chairman of Remington Rand, Inc., told stockholders at the annual meeting today the company had developed leak-proof gasoline tanks for aircraft, army trucks and other motorized equipment and was working on light-weight bullet proof armor suitable for such combatant units.

TREASURY VIEW SNAGS WORK ON TAX MEASURE

Can't Agree on Base for Profits Levy.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Work on the forthcoming excess profits tax bill has been snarled by treasury proposals for tax provisions too drastic to be acceptable to the congressional joint committee on internal revenue, it developed today.

Committee Chairman Doughton reports lack of harmony.

Representatives of the treasury and the joint committee have been conferring on the tax bill since President Roosevelt asked congress on July 1 to enact a steeply graduated excess profits levy, but so far they have not been able to agree on a taxing base on which the whole bill depends.

A dispute has arisen on whether the basis of the tax should be the return on invested capital or on average earnings over a period of years.

Treasury Asks Combination.

The treasury, it is understood, has proposed a combination of the two, which in effect would impose the taxing provisions even on normal earnings, rather than limiting them to "excess" earnings.

Members of congress, however, prefer restrictions on the tax to cover only earnings above the average for a certain base period and that ordinary income should be exempted.

Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] of the house ways and means committee admitted to reporters today that all is not harmony between the treasury and joint committee experts.

"They have been working together and ought to be in agreement, but I don't think they are in full harmony," he said.

He expressed hope that the tax bill would take some concrete form this week.

Says Task Is Difficult.

"It is not that we are hesitating to present an excess profits bill, but it is hard to draft an excess profits bill and keep it just and equitable," he asserted.

He also indicated that congress would throw out of the window the President's recommendation that the tax apply to individuals as well as corporations. It is his "horseback opinion," Doughton said, that the bill will not tax individuals.

Chairman Pat Harrison [D., Miss.] of the senate finance committee said of the bill: "The proposition is a hard one to hatch." Harrison and Doughton made their comments after a conference with treasury tax experts.

It was understood that the treas-

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, July 30 (AP).—Latin American bonds, stimulated by the outcome of the Havana conference, joined domestic issues in a brisk upswing today, some up 1 to 7 points. Included were Dominican Republic 5½s, Rio Grande do Sul 7s, Argentine 4½s and Buenos Aires 4⅝s.

Some Japanese and Italian bonds fell fractions to around 3, among them Japan 5½s and Italy 7s.

Finishing 1 to more than 2 higher were Alleghany 5s of 1950, Illinois Central 4⅜s, Commonwealth Edison 3½s, New York Central 5s, and Baltimore and Ohio 4s of 1948.

Chicago Stocks.

Spurred by reports that a dividend would be voted after the close of the market, United States Steel common stock jumped 2¼ points on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. The issue was second in volume of transactions, with 900 shares traded. Commonwealth Edison closed ¼ point higher and was the volume leader with 1,200 shares. Sundstrand Machine Tool and Borg Warner gained 1 point each and Mickelberry Food Products reached a new 1940 high at 4¼, up ⅛.

Bank Stocks.

Led by the 7 point gain of First National shares, the Chicago bank stock market yesterday took a sharp swing upward. Harris Trust advanced 3 points, Chicago Title and Northern Trust 2 points each, Continental Illinois 1⅜ points and City National a point. American National was unchanged.

LATIN AMERICA TERMED KEY TO FUTURE TRADE

Desperate Fight to Win Markets Predicted.

San Francisco, Cal., July 30 (AP).—A desperate battle for Latin-American trade after the European war, with exhausted Europe trying to undersell the United States, was forecast today by James S. Carson, vice president of the American and Foreign Power company.

Edward J. Noble urges Americas to stand together.

Carson, addressing the National Foreign Trade convention, asserted Latin America would be one of the great factors in post war world development because its areas of rich natural resources would be capable of supplying world markets much as did the middle and western United States in the era of expansion that ended about the turn of the century.

"Many of our idle dollars," he said, "could be very profitably employed in aiding this new movement in Latin America if investors felt sure of reasonable protection."

Sees Vast Potential Trade.

He reported a foreign trade expert had calculated that a 10 per cent wage increase in Latin America would cause the southern countries to buy so much from the United States that "our factories would be strained to capacity."

The convention received a message from President Roosevelt, in which the President rejected the idea that the United States has been defeated in its efforts to maintain "liberal trade principles." The President asserted that if it adopted "totalitarian control" over foreign trade it would be taking a step toward economic dictatorship.

He called for "the closest possible economic cooperation with other countries, particularly with those of the western hemisphere," and declared such a course would safeguard the progress which, he said, has been made under the administration's trade agreement program.

Assails the "Faint Hearted."

He said that it had been "suggested or implied by a few faint hearted defeatists in recent weeks that we should abandon our efforts to conduct foreign trade on the basis of liberal and democratic principles."

He said the logic of such implications, if true, would "lead us to embark on a course of action which would subject our producers, consumers, and foreign traders, and ultimately the entire nation, to the regimentation of a totalitarian system."

Mr. Roosevelt's message reached the convention in the midst of discussions over what this country could do to compete against goods put into world markets by dictator ruled nations.

Some Suggest Barter Policy.

Many convention speakers have stressed the likelihood of totalitarian blocs bidding frantically for South American trade trying to undersell the United States. Some have suggested that this country might invoke the barter system.

At the session today nations of the western hemisphere were told they must stand together to protect their foreign trade or risk having their economic destinies fall under control of conquering totalitarian powers.

"It is clear that the countries of this hemisphere cannot afford to stand idly by and let their economic destinies be controled by external forces of an arbitrary character," asserted Edward J. Noble, undersecretary of commerce.

Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines corporation, was awarded the Captain Robert Dollar placque for distinguished contribution to foreign trade during the last year.

FIRST DIVIDEND SINCE 1937 VOTED BY CHICAGO FIRM

United Specialties company, Chicago auto accessories manufacturer, yesterday declared a dividend of 50 cents a common share, the first payment on the issue since 35 cents was distributed in December, 1937. The payment will be made Aug. 29 to stockholders of record Aug. 15.

Youngstown Steel Door company, freight car parts and specialties manufacturer, which has a plant at Hammond, Ind., announced 50 cents will be paid on common stock on Sept. 16 to shareholders of record Aug. 31. Two previous quarterly payments were at the rate of 25 cents a share.

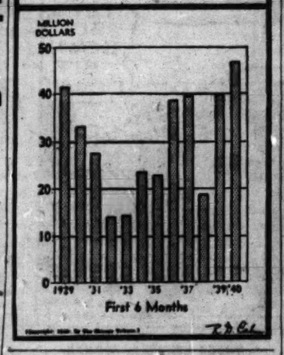
Profits of DuPont de Nemours for the First Six Months



TREASURY VIEW SNAGS WORK ON TAX MEASURE

Can't Agree on Base for Profits Levy.

ury plan calls for basing the tax on the relationship between average earnings for the years 1936-'39, inclusive, to invested capital, and exemptions would be based upon this relationship.

Tentative Proposals Told.

According to tentative proposals, it was reported, corporations with average earnings over the base period of at least 6 per cent and not more than 10 per cent of their invested capital would be allowed an excess profits tax exemption equal to this average. Corporations with average earnings of less than 6 per cent of invested capital would be allowed exemptions up to 6 per cent. Corporations with average earnings of more than 10 per cent would still be allowed an exemption of only 10 per cent and they, in effect, would pay the excess profits tax on a part of ordinary income.

One proposal under discussion would start the excess profits tax at 20 per cent with graduations up to 50 per cent, the relationship being determined by the relationship between earnings and invested capital. However, rates would be left to congress.

Terms for Small Firms Studied.

It is understood that smaller corporations will be given consideration under the tentative plans. Corporations with invested capital of less than $500,000 would be allowed a minimum exemption of 8 per cent on invested capital instead of a minimum of 6 per cent for other corporations. Part of a corporation's borrowed funds also may be included in invested capital, it is said, but no definition has been determined yet on what is "invested capital."

Under the old excess profits tax evolving from the world war invested capital was defined as the original amount paid into a corporation for stock plus accumulations in the form of surplus and undivided profits. Borrowed funds were excluded. The old tax was based upon graduated returns on invested capital. However, it is emphasized by tax experts that the bill is still in the nebulous stage and many details remain to be worked out. It is predicted that the bill probably will not reach the floor of the house until September.

REVIVE PROPOSAL FOR WATERWAY POWER PLANTS

Springfield, Ill., July 30 (AP).—An attempt was made today to revive a proposal for the creation of a $5,000,000 system of three water driven electric power generating plants along the Illinois waterway.

Charles P. Casey, director of public works and buildings, urged that the project, first proposed in 1919, be pushed to completion. He termed "inexcusable" failure of the state to harness the waterway current which, he said, could produce 176,251,200 kilowatt hours of electricity annually.

A preliminary federal permit for a system of power stations was granted in 1920 but was held up by the war department in 1925 after several states sought to cut Lake Michigan water diversion into the waterway channel from 6,500 cubic feet per second.

A second application listing Brandon road, Dresden Island, and Starved Rock locks as prospective power plant sites, was filed by the state in March, 1939, after lake diversion had been cut to 1,500 cubic feet per second.

Sperry Gyroscope Workers Get $500,000 a Year Raise

New York, July 30 (AP).—Wage increases totaling more than $500,000 annually for 3,000 employes of Sperry Gyroscope corporation of Brooklyn were fixed today in an arbitration award made thru the New York state board of mediation. The workers, making instruments and equipment for the United States Army and Navy, are members of the Brotherhood of Scientific Instrument Makers of America, an independent union. Arrangement for the arbitration was made a year ago when a two year contract was signed.

Blue Sky Investigator Sued on Margin Account

Eugene O'Connor, an investigator for the blue sky division of the state's attorney's office, was named defendant in a suit filed by Lamson Brothers & Co., grain and stock brokers, yesterday in Circuit court.

The suit, filed by Attorney J. H. Oppenheim, alleges that O'Connor owes the company $3,181 which he failed to deposit to protect margin he had put up to cover an account for purchase of September wheat and May rye.

ARMY REPORTED CUTTING PENDING AIRPLANE ORDERS

Scaled Down on Delay in Plant Expansion.

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—The army was reported reliably today to be scaling down pending aircraft orders to the present level of production capacity in the belief that plant expansions needed for larger orders might be delayed indefinitely.

Authoritative quarters also said that signing of several contracts had been postponed to await congressional action on proposed legislation which would permit manufacturers, for tax purposes, to charge off plant expansions within five years.

Expect Election Delay.

There was a growing conviction in army and industry circles that congress might wait until after the November election to enact the defense tax policy change, which manufacturers deem an essential prerequisite to plant expansion.

Defense commission officials presented to seven major manufacturers today the view that they need not hesitate to expand their plants, but no immediate response from the manufacturers was made public.

After five hours' discussion the manufacturers agreed to report back individually on their ability to expand production and their views on the tax-amortization problem.

Fear Facing Debt.

Manufacturers have argued privately in the past that, unless expansion costs could be amortized quickly, they might be left holding a bag of debts if the aircraft demand resulting from the defense emergency should collapse.

Much floor space is now being added to the aircraft industry, largely with money furnished by British government orders. Without the British-bought expansions, the industry now has capacity for roughly 10,000 military planes a year.

William S. Knudsen, defense commission production chief, predicted last week that the rate would be boosted to 25,000 by July 1, 1942. The only hitch, a commission spokesman added today, is the amortization problem.

People and Events

J. L. Burns.

Jules F. Cann, formerly with R. W. Pressprich & Co., has become associated with the Chicago office of Lehman Brothers.

The department of commerce has prepared a handbook, "Modern Export Packing," which, according to George C. Payne, Chicago district manager of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, tells how to pack to secure lowest shipping rates and meet all foreign requirements. It contains 500 pages and may be obtained at the Chicago office of the bureau.

Frederick H. Schrop, convention director of the National Association of Credit Men, New York, has been appointed secretary pro tem of the Chicago Association of Credit Men to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of J. F. O'Keefe.

The Chicago Financial Advertisers will be guests of the Milwaukee Financial Advertisers' association for golf and bridge at the North Hills Country club, Milwaukee, on Aug. 6.

1940 SECURITIES FILINGS RUNNING BELOW YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., July 30 [Special.]—Securities registered with the Securities and Exchange commission, which became effective during the first six months of 1940 and which were proposed for sale by issuers, were valued at $667,191,000, the SEC announced today. The figure compared with $734,362,000 registered and offered in the first half of 1939.

The commission's analysis showed that securities to be offered thru underwriters increased from 80 per cent of the total proposed for sale by issuers in the 1939 period to 85.4 per cent in the first six months of 1940.

Securities to be offered directly by issues increased from 1.9 per cent to 4.6 per cent, while securities to be offered by agents dropped from 18.1 per cent to 10 per cent.

SENATE GROUP RIPS 'UNLAWFUL' BELT LINE DEAL

Arranged to Win Shippers to Line, Is Charge.

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP).—The Van Sweringen railroad interests were accused by a senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee today of directing an "unwholesome and unlawful" transaction in 1931—acquisition of the 16½ mile Fort Worth Belt railway by the Missouri Pacific system.

The report, one of a series covering the committee's investigation of railroad holding companies, said the belt line had been purchased from the Swift and Armour companies for $1,500,000, altho the Interstate Commerce commission had valued it at only $516,000 in 1918.

Accused of Buying Traffic.

"The key to the transaction," the report said, "is that the Van Sweringens were less interested in buying stock of a belt railroad than they were in buying freight."

Senators Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], and Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.], subcommittee members, said the transaction was a "clear case of misuse of railroad funds, excessive payments by railroads to large shippers, and flouting of an Interstate Commerce commission order, all under holding company domination."

Engineerd by Alleghany.

The purchase, the committee said, was engineered by Alleghany corporation, the late Van Sweringen brothers' Cleveland holding company.

"Rebates by railroads to large shippers, which must inevitably come out of the pockets of other shippers and the public, have long since been outlawed by congressional action," the senators said. "Improper inducements to shippers still can occasionally be arranged, however, by such actions as buying an asset from a shipper at a grossly inflated price. The excessive price, while purporting to be a payment for the asset acquired, is in plain fact designed to affect the routing of traffic."

'Free' British Pound Sags as Canadian Dollar Rises

The "free" British pound sterling dropped 3 cents to $3.82 in terms of the United States dollar in foreign exchange trading at New York yesterday. The Canadian dollar moved ahead ¼ of a cent to 88 United States cents.
